McKELVIE SHOULD BE RE-ELECTED GOVERNOR

The laboring class of voters of the state should be especially interested in the continuation of the present state administration. Governor McKelvie with those identified with him have entered into a program of state development which, if carried out, will involve the employment by the state, of a large number of skilled and unskilled laborers. The erection of the new capitol building will mean that for the next few years the state will give employment to many persons in carrying on the building of the capitol.

Governor McKelvie has entered into a good roads program in which many contracting firms of the state are now engaged in road construction. The state of Nebraska is practically the only organization paying cash to the contractors at this time for road and paving work. Counties and cities are paying the contractors with warrants which the contractors find hard to sell, even at a discount. But the state is paying contractors cash so that they can pay the men good wages and regularly. This work will be continued even on a larger scale next year, involving the employment of even more labor.

Those of the voters who depend upon their labor for their living, should certainly support Governor McKelvie and the present state administration who are pushing forward these projects by the state which will involve the employment of so much labor.

The laboring people should be interested in the importance of the workman's compensation act, as through this act, injured workmen are guaranteed payments of specified amounts for injuries and disabilities incurred during their work. The record of the amount of claims paid under the workman's compensation act for the last few years, shows plainly how diligently this law has been enforced during Governor McKelvie's administration.—The figures show that in 1915 claims amounted to $51,167.37; 1916, $116,958.34; 1917, $153,031.73; 1918, $141,777.47; 1919, $345,476.24. So it is shown that injured workmen received in 1919, the first year under Governor McKelvie, over $200,000.00 more than they did in 1918.

Besides this, the present state administration is maintaining in connection with the federal government, free employment offices in both Lincoln and Omaha for the aid of both the employer and the employe. Such service as this means much to the laborers of the state of Nebraska, and the working people should show their appreciation of this service by voting solidly to reelect the present state administration.
