Babylon's Population a Million.
Babylon is believed to have been the first city to attain a population of 1,000,000.

One instance.
Father—You never heard of a man getting into trouble by following a good example.
Son—Yes, sir, I have—the counter-eter.

Appreciative Eyes.
He may be homely and he may need a shave and his clothes may be shabby. But to the little tad who has had his nose pressed against the window pane waiting for him to come home from work he is the handsomest man in the world.—Arkansaw Thomas Cat.

Preferred the Coin.
On Sylvia's birthday her aunt gave her a paper dollar as a gift. Of course her little brother Buddy could not be slighted, so auntie gave him a quarter. Both were delighted with their gifts, but at last Buddy said: "Oh, I got the real money, Sylvia, you only got a transfer."

As It Seemed to Her.
Dorothy was taken to see the circus. She was very much interested in everything, especially the acrobats. On returning home she was excitedly giving an account of what she had seen, ending up with: "And there were some people flyin' in the air with their bathin' suits on."

The After Years.
The early months of marriage bring with them a new experience of life, in which there are excitement and change of outlook, wonderful ambitions, and new codes and habits for the man and woman. The emotional life reaches the extremes of feeling—happiness and despair, hope and disappointment, mingle in confusion.

N. Y. TRIBUNE PROTESTS AGAINST SUBJUGATION OF HAYTI AND SANTO DOMINGO

Senator Harding is quite right. Our rule in Hayti and Santo Domingo cannot be justified.

The administration has completely subjugated these two republics. It rules supreme within their borders. It withholds the salaries of their presidents' and other officials if they oppose our sovereignty! They must yield obedience or we dock their pay. Naturally, they yield to keep out of jail or the poorhouse!

Contrast our policy in these two little republics with our policy in Mexico. Our interests in Mexico are vastly greater than in Hayti and Santo Domingo. Hundreds of Americans have been murdered, tortured and kidnaped in Mexico. They have not suffered in the two little republics. We took Vera Cruz, losing thirty lives, and then gave it up. We sent Pershing into Mexico and when he drew near Villa we ordered him out, after two of his scouting parties had been slaughtered. The ignorant classes in Mexico had reason to feel that they had driven us out! It was a record of weakness, waste and retreat which would have justly caused the downfall of any foreign government.

Now how do we account for the inconsistency of our policy with Mexico and the two little republics? There can be but one explanation. Hayti and Santo Domingo are small, weak and helpless. The administration can be brave with them. But to subjugate Mexico would be difficult. And so the administration wrote notes. It sent poor old John Lind to talk to the Mexicans, and he was easily vanquished in the battle of tongues. Mexico knew we would do nothing to call her to account. She was safe from the fate of Hayti and Santo Domingo.

It is humiliating to make this admission, but there is no alternative. We do not criticize the army, navy and marine corps. Not at all. They always obey orders and do their duty. It is the inconsistency of our policy at Washington that we condemn. We are not justified in conquering the weak and in surrendering to the strong. This is not in conformity with the principle of "self-determination" which this administration affects to support. It deliberately violated the boldest of all articles of the League of Nations.

There is one more point to emphasize. Perhaps civilization and good government would gain if the United States assumed control of the internal affairs of all countries, large and small, where anarchy and disorder prevail—West Indian, Central American, South American and European countries: Armenia, Fiume and Hayti! But is it wise for us to do this? By meddling and muddling we have already alienated the good will of our European allies; we have offended China by compelling her to surrender Shantung to Japan. Thus we have lost friends in Europe and Asia. Must we now complete the record by losing our reputation on the American continent?

It does not suffice that Mr. Daniels and Mr. Colby insist that we are merely suppressing "banditry" in Hayti. Why not suppress "banditry" in Mexico? Did we do it? The danger of this policy in Hayti is simply this: If we assume to invade and subjugate these small, weak American republics that have not harmed or attacked us, while submitting to indignity elsewhere, we will not only lose the respect of the world but the American republics will begin to suspect us. They will say to us that we believe in "self-determination" for the strong and not for the weak.—New York Tribune.

Insufficient Sweetness.
"Sweet are the uses of adversity." Nevertheless, it is a poor substitute for sugar when it comes to canning.

Expert Mice Catchers.
The barn owl, when she has young, brings a mouse to her nest about every 12 minutes. As she is actively employed at both evening and dawn, and as both male and female hunt, 40 mice a day is a low computation for the total capture.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Precursor of the Piano.
The harpsichord, comparatively modern, represented an attempt to construct a horizontal harp that was played upon by means of oblong wooden keys called "jacks." Our piano is a modified and improved harpsichord, invented in 1711 by Bartolomeo Cristofalo of Padua.

Results of Pressure on Eyeballs.
Pressure on the eyeball has a surprising effect on the functioning of various parts of the body. Among those who have confirmed this are A. and L. Binet, French investigators, who find that such animals as dogs and rabbits are affected, as well as men. The compression of the eye strikingly modifies the action of the heart, influences respiration, acts upon the blood vessels and even produces disturbance of the muscles. How such reflexes are brought about is not apparent.

GOV'T OPERATION OUT OF POLITICS

Party Leaders Convinced by Results of National Censuses of Editors.

VINDICATES FORMER POLL.

Overwhelming Veto Like That of Year Before From Both Sides of Political Fence.

Washington.—Inner circles of both political parties here are greatly interested in the results of a national poll on the question of government operation among over 5,000 newspaper editors throughout the country. With 83 per cent of these editors, regardless of political faith, giving it as their impartial opinion that the public is more than ever opposed to the government going into business in competition with its citizens, observers here see little chance that either political party will find it a profitable campaign issue.

In the opinion of party leaders this sort of a canvass among newspaper editors is the best possible index of public opinion. They recall a similar questionnaire sent out a year ago in connection with the proposition that the government take over the railroads permanently. Replies at that time from approximately the same number of editors showed 83 per cent against the principle of government operation. They recall also that within ten days from publication of the result of the former questionnaire the sentiment for return of the railroads to their owners had definitely crystallized.

Comparison of present results in detail with those of a year ago convinces the political student not only that these editors have been accurate in their judgment, but that party considerations played no part in forming it. From Democratic and supposedly radical Texas, for example, the present questionnaire brought replies from editors of 244 papers, only three of which are Republican. Yet the percentage against government operation was 92, which is exactly the same as that given by 200 editors from Republican Michigan, among whom were representatives of only three Democratic papers. Other states that pair percentages significantly are Massachusetts and Nevada, with 100; Connecticut and South Carolina, with 97; Maine and West Virginia, with 96; Kentucky and New York, with 91; Missouri and Pennsylvania, with 89; Ohio and Oklahoma, with 87.

The result of the present poll as to government operation in each state are graphically shown by the following chart:
