Stories of Great Scouts Wasson

THE EXPLOIT OF PIONEER SCOUT ANDREW POE

Andrew and Adam Poe, two brothers, were scouts in the ploneer days Ohio. One day when the Poe brothers were leading a party on the trail of a band of Indians who had brothers became separated. On the bank of a river Andrew came upon a giant Wyandot chief and a smaller Indian who were standing with their rifles cocked but looking in another

Poe's rifle missed fire when he shot at the chief and the Indians at once discovered him. Before they could shoot, the scout sprang upon them. seizing both around the neck. The small Indian jerked loose first and while the chief held Poe, his companion tried to get in a death blow with his tomahawk. Andrew allowed him to come close. Then with one mighty kick he planted his foot in the Indian's stomach, hurling him backward and knocking the hatchet from

When the little Indian got his breath back and recovered his tomahawk, he advanced to the attack again and succeeded in wounding Poe in the arm. A second later the scout pulled himself from the grasp of the chief, seized one of the Indians' guns and shot the warrior as he advanced to attack him a third time. Poe was no longer fighting against odds and he immediately attacked the chief.

The ground was wet and slippery. white man, locked in each other's arms, fell into the water and each began trying to drown the other. Finally Poe seized his enemy by the scalp lock and held his head under water until he believed the chief was dead.

When he released his hold, however.

the redskin renewed the struggle. By this time they were fighting in deep water. Seemingly at the same time both thought of the one loaded rifle on the shore and both started to swim to get it. The Indian was the better swimmer and reached the bank first. As the chief picked up the gun. Poe turned back in the water and began diving to avoid a bullet. The chief. however, had picked up an empty gun. the one with which Andrew had killed the little Indian, and before the Wyandot could get the loaded weapon. Adam Poe, who had heard the shot, came running to his brother's rescue. He fired and the Indian fell dead.

able and important changes that have taken place in the business world in the last few years has been the gradual disappearance of codes in connection with price tickets and the marking of the values of the merchandise in plain figures. While many concerns still stick to pricing their lines in code, the trade leaders have very largely abandoned the practice. Smaller concerns have followed suit to some extent, but others have been loath to put plain figures on their goods. The change from code to figures in marking prices, according to informstion gained in this market, has been forced to some extent by the buyers. There are many retailers and special buyers for the big stores who will not patronize a concern which hides its prices behind a code. The reason one such buyer gave recently for this is that the code does not mean the same to all buyers when translated into figures in other words, he asserted that In another moment the Indian and the the use of a code is merely a subterfuge by means of which different buyers can be charged different prices for the same merchandise without their knowing it

Origin Not Clear. Just where and by whom the code system of marking prices was originated appears to be not clearly known. The reason why it was adopted is also something of a puzzle, although placsthie solutions are offered. About the only thing regarding it that is at all definite is that it came into being years ago, when it was the custom of the manufacturers and wholesalers to build a kind of Chinese wall around their business and station a regiment of soldiers at every gate. In those days, according to trade veterans, commercial spying was a high art, and more than one man had his palm crossed with silver for posing as a buyer and thus obtaining price data of the competitors of the merchant who hired him. In those days anything approaching the open-price associations that had their being here during the war would have been looked upon as madness, for then, to all intents and purposes, every merchant regarded his competitors as personal enemies

One of the favorite codes used in the early days, it is said, was the one based on the old motto, "In God We Trust." This had the advantage of containing but twelve letters, with no duplications in the first ten. Thus,

INGOD WE TRU 12345 67890

With this arrangement worked out, France made the word Noel from it, the rest was easy. If a man were seilmeaning Christmas, and soon Noel ing broadcloth at $4.50 a yard, on his became a Christian name there. In price ticket would appear the more Italy it appeared as Natale. Thousands of codes and variations of original ones

Frequently Abused While there seems to be little doubt that the code system was adopted originally as a protective measure, it was there, while her husband is forgotten. not long before it began to be used for more ulterior purposes. What was there, somebody evidently argued, to prevent the use of the code to fool buyers as to the real price? In its early days, at least, wholesale business was no more conducted on a tremely popular there today, or until strictly one-price basis than was retail selling. Therefore, not only did withdrew the attention of etymologists a code price frequently mean different quotations to different buyers, but it often meant the minimum fig-Natalie from Russia, though there is ure at which a yard of goods or a record of a Natalie at Cambral in garment could be sold. The salesmen were permitted to get anything they could above the figure indicated by the code, and as they were paid in comparison with what they sold, they tried to get all the traffic would bear. That way of doing business prevailed in one of the biggest wholesale houses in the country for years, it is talismanic gem. It promises good said, and the gentle art of buying there was rendered more difficult by the fact that practically every kind of merchandise sold by the concern had a different code,

Instances like those noted above have been paralleled many times, according to the buyers heretofore mentioned. In late years, however, sales men have had less leeway, if any at all, in connection with fixing prices. Because of this the double-price sys tem to different buyers is "worked" more in the salesrooms than on the Also, it is asserted, the practice referred to is now very largely confined to the garment trades. In the hands of a smooth worker, usually a member of the firm or the socalled general representative, the cryptic code letters can mean $37.50 to one buyer and $87.25 to another. To a really favored buyer it might mean even less.
