Colored Star Makes Big Hit

Mamie Smith, a star of the colored women singers of the country, attracted an unusually large audience to the Coliseum last evening. White patrons filled sections which were on the raised sides of the auditorium. Mamie, whose phonograph records are among the most popular, was at her best last evening, both in voice and in her stunning gowns and make-up. Her songs were roundly applauded, with her famous "Crazy Blues" and "Mama Whip, Mama Spank" being the big hits. Mamie's large company of players were all excellent and pleased the audience mightily.—Evansville, Ind., Courier.

Then He Awoke.

I had been married only a few months and was still given to holding my wife's hand. One night while I was riding in a chair car I fell asleep and after a time became just enough conscious to realize there was a woman in the seat beside me. I thought it was my wife and started to take her hand in mine. She withdrew it and gave me a look that brought me to complete wakefulness and to a realization that my wife had not accompanied me on that journey. But under the circumstances what good could an apology do?—Chicago Tribune.

Before Disarmament.

The edifying tale of little George Washington and the cherry tree had been related by a foud mother to her offspring with the hope that he might gain inspiration for a better life, but he remained unimpressed.
"Don't you see the lesson, Billy?" she asked. "George could not tell a lie. He told the truth even though his father stood there with a cane in his hand."
"Hub!" said Billy. "That's nothin'.
George had the hatchet, didn't he?"
—American Legion Weekly.

Blessing in Disguise.

Mrs. Perkins was reading the paper.
Suddenly she exclaimed:
"Here's sad news. It seems a Mrs.
Smith, who had just engaged our old cook, Mary Casey, was run down and killed by a motor car on her way home from the employment office."
"Well," commented Mr. Perkins, upon due reflection, "she had a narrow escape from Mary."

Her Credit.

"That's Jinks, the famous millionaire, over there on the left. He's a wife-made man."

"But I understand that his money came from oil on his farm."

"Ah, yes—but it was his wife who had finally consented to live on the farm."—Kansas City Star.

Mrs. Jones of 2612 Burdette street is confined to her bed.
Mr. Walter Thompson of Los Angeles, California, was in the city for two days last week as the guest of Mrs. Carrie Thompson of 2118 North 27th street.

Mrs. Macy Smith and daughter of Seattle, Washington, are the guests of Mrs. H. W. Black, 2923 North 25th street. Mrs. Smith will be remembered by Omahans as Miss Macy Shaffroth.

Mrs. J. F. Smith, 3027 Manderson street, who underwent an operation at the Swedish Mission hospital four weeks ago, was taken home Thursday night. Her recovery is extremely doubtful. Her case has seemed to baffle the best medical skill.
