ARTICLE XIV. CONSTITUTION OF THE UNITED STATES.

Citizenship Rights Not to Be Abridged.

1. All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any state deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

MORE SHOULD GRADUATE

SCHOOL will be reopening soon. The enrollment in grade and high schools of Omaha, we are advised, will be the largest in the history of the city. Every provision is made by a generous and far-sighted commonwealth for the education of the children of all citizens. Free text books are provided and no pains are spared to give every child excellent opportunities for obtaining adequate schooling. School attendance is compulsory up to a certain age, and parents are held strictly responsible for seeing that their children are in school. There is, therefore, no reason under the sun why any child, no matter how poor his parents may be, should not receive an education. Children of our group are taking advantage of these school privileges, particularly in the lower grades. Our enrollment in the grade schools is most gratifying; but in proportion to our numbers we have too few enrolled in the high schools of the city. Too many children stop at the end of the eighth grade. We ought to have not less than 300 students in Central, South and Technical High schools, whereas we have only about one-third of this number. We ought to have fifteen or twenty high school graduates every year instead of three or four, which is about the average. Last June we had seven, which was a much better showing than hitherto, and shows an improvement which we hope will continue. But the average for several years has not exceeded three. Our boys and girls should be encouraged to go through high school and wherever possible through college; but certainly through high school. Our enrollment in the high school should be large this year and we ought to have year by year an increasing number of graduates.

A WORD TO STUDENTS

HUNDREDS of our boys and girls will be entering school and college soon. To such of these as we may reach The Monitor would send a word of personal greeting, congratulating them upon the privileges which are theirs of securing an education. Then we would add to this that we are counting on you to make good; to take full advantage of every opportunity at hand to get all out of your course you can. To do this means work, faithful, conscientious, diligent work. We are anxious that you should lead in scholarship and in sports. You can, if you are willing to pay the price, and the price is W-O-R-K. You have every incentive to do your best and to be the best. There are those who doubt your ability for sustained effort. Prove that you have it. And above all show yourself to have a character above reproach. If others are little-minded, show yourself to be large-minded. If tempted to give up, because you cannot have the things that your more favored fellow-students have, just put the temptation behind you and stick like glue. That's part of the price you will have to pay. You'll be the richer in the end. And keep the thought constantly before you that you are getting an education that will better equip you for effective work and service during a healthy and active life. Education is to fit us for efficient WORK wherever our lot may be cast. Parents' hopes are in you; they will count whatever sacrifices they may be called upon to make for you joy indeed if you will only do your best not to disappoint them. The future of our people are in the hands of the boys and girls who are students in the various schools today. What will that future be?

THE THUG TARIFF

IF a thug holds a citizen up on the street, or highway and takes money out of his pocket he is guilty of an indictable offense. If apprehended he pays the penalty of his crime by being sent to prison. There is, however, another kind of thuggery which is not considered as indictable, but upon the contrary is considered as highly respectable. Those who indulge in it are written down in the annals of a grateful country as statesmen. We refer to that species of thuggery which the present republican congress is guilty of in putting over its present high protective tariff as provided for in the Fordney-McCumber bill which is now before the Senate and will doubtless be passed by that influential body. If there ever was a case of genuine respectable (?) thuggery by which money is to be taken out of the pockets of the people, for the fattening and battenning of a favored few, the proposed tariff schedules on wool, sugar and like necessities, not luxuries but necessities, furnish that example. A moderate protective tariff, sufficiently large to cover governmental expenses and protect a few undeveloped industries that need it, is generally admitted to be a necessity, but such an advance in tariff rates on necessities as is about to be saddled on this country is nothing short of robbery. Are the republican party and president under such pre-election pledges and obligations to the trusts which will be the chief beneficiaries of this high protective tariff that they are bound to deliver the goods? There are some strange doings at Washington that raise serious questions in the minds of many people, and some of these questionable matters center around this thug tariff business. Even as a publication with strong republican leanings The Monitor cannot endorse the republican position on the tariff as proposed in the Fordney-McCumber bill. Its passage means the endorsement of legislative thuggery and the downfall of a republican administration which will have betrayed the people.
