PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Newspapers depend largely upon advertisers for support. It seems like a little thing, but it is a tremendous help, if you will not only patronize Monitor advertisers but tell them that you saw their advertisement in The Monitor. This is one very important way in which you can help support The Monitor as well as by paying your subscription.

RED THEATER AGENTS THRIVE

Speculators Benefit From Great Demand for Seats in Moscow. Moscow this winter is a profitable field for the speculator in theater tickets. At the theater box offices there is such a rush for seats for the ballets and other popular pieces that queues are soon formed, and many persons are ready to pay the higher prices to save standing in line. Many workers who, when communism was at its height, had access to the theaters free of charge, now purchase regularly from speculators, apparently taking it for granted that the new economic policy, and all that goes with it—the good and the bad—is here to stay.

The people of the city flock every night into the lighted streets. Scores of theaters, more than in the prewar days, cater to their amusement. And close by are the restaurants and cafes, the gambling casinos and the cabarets.

AS HE LOOKS TO OTHERS

Photographs of All Drunks Will Be Given by Police.

John B. Hammond, chief of police of Des Moines, announced that every drunken man who is brought into police headquarters hereafter will have his picture taken. When the offender has become sober he will be presented with a picture of himself so he may know just how he looked when he was brought to jail. Hammond hopes this "picture cure" will be a potent weapon against drunkenness.

Opposed by Parents, Man Kills Girl. Opposition by the girl's parents is blamed for the murder and suicide at Lansing, Mich., in which Habid F. Fauz, twenty years old, killed Miss Marie Saub, seventeen years old, and himself by shooting in the girl's home. The girl had refused to accompany Fauz to a theater because she feared objections by her parents, police were told.

GALLOWAY SELECTED AMONG CENTRAL HIGH CELEBRITIES

A custom has long existed among the students of Central high school to select from the senior class a number of "celebrities" noted for some special characteristic such as beauty, scholarship, musical ability, popularity, oratory, athletics, etc., and even of discipleship of Ananias or Baran on Munchausen. For the first time in its history the school has selected a colored student for a place in this gallery of celebrities. Ledru Galloway has been named with Constance Page as the two best athletes.

CHURCH RAISES $50,000

ANCIENTS HAD 'DRUG STORES'

Principal Studies of Toxicologists, However, Were Confined to Finding Antidotes to Poisons.

The earliest pharmacopoeia, or collection of formulas, showing evidence of supervision over drugs, is a Sanscrit work. A Roman one was written in 42 A. D., and the next was an Arabian work written in 900 A. D. In Naples an academy was founded in the Eleventh century, and Salerno had one in the Seventh century. Through the influence of these schools drug stores, called "stationaries," were established throughout Italy.

Antidotes and disinfectants, classed with the opiates, were the main remedies in the time of Cordus. The principal representatives of those were the two electrolytes, "Theriac" and "Mithridat." Mithridat was a compound invented by Mithridas Eupator, king of Pontus, who lived in constant fear of poison and studied toxicology by testing poisons on criminals and taking their antidotes himself every day.

His system became so accustomed to poisons that when, on the day of his defeat by Pompey, he attempted to poison himself, the poison failed and he ordered one of his soldiers to kill him. Pompey found the recipe, and it was improved upon by Democritus, the physician of Nero, until it contained 55 ingredients.

FORTUNE BECKONS TO SAILOR

Always in the Minds of Whalers is the Possibility of a Find of Precious Ambergris.

Ambergris is one of the most valuable products of the sea. The mariner who spies floating on the waves a grayish mass, fatty in appearance, will, if he knows what ambergris is, betray considerable excitement, for the substance fetches high price.

Capt. James Earle of New Bedford, Mass., is said to have been the luckiest of all skippers in the old whaling days.

From a single sperm whale he realized over $100,000. It was not the 90 barrels of oil which gave the leviathan his extraordinary value, for that was sold for something like $4,000; but within the whale's vast interior there was found a solid piece of ambergris weighing 780 pounds.

This was the largest single piece of ambergris ever found, and that it came from one lone whale made the discovery more interesting to the scientific world.

This 780-pound piece of ambergris was sold in chunks in all markets of the world for about $100,000, and it laid the foundation of wealth for almost every man interested in the whaling expedition.

Sells "Peace Offerings" to Husbands. "Midnight Candy Sale" read a sign outside a store in New York city. When asked for an explanation by the police, the proprietor said he keeps open until 2 o'clock in the morning so that husbands can take home a peace offering after poker games.

Called a Thief, Man Sues for $10,000. Charging that Hyman Kessler called him a thief and a liar while they were in church, Louis E. Schwartz, of Macon, Ga., has filed suit for $10,000 damages from Kessler. Schwartz also charges that Kessler accused him of robbing the congregation.

On Both Sides of the Counter.

If you attempt to beat a man down and so get his goods for less than a fair price, you are attempting to commit burglary as much as though you broke into his shop to take the things without paying for them.—There is cheating on both sides of the counter and generally less behind it than before.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Wisdom.

Every triumph is the product of obstacles surmounted, of failures, each of which taught us something. Every force that pushes us back may be made to cause a rebound in the right direction; a defeat should be but the bending of a springboard, the recoil of which will throw us higher as we jump.—Bolton Hall.

Australian Gold.

It was in 1851, two years after the finding of gold in California, that the precious metal was discovered in Australia. In 65 years two and one-half billions of 96 per cent pure gold were produced there.
