CLAYTON STEWART. (4t-8-31)

PROCLAMATION. Office of the Mayor, City of Omaha, State of Nebraska.

It has been brought to my attention that the week beginning September 2nd, 1923, known nationally as Paramount Week opens the greatest Movie Season in Nebraska.

Inasmuch as the motion picture has come to be known as the great American entertainment and has developed into a national institution, it being the center of civic enlightenment and pillar of community progress, I hereby urge that you lend your support to the observance of Paramount Week and the Greater Movie Season.

In my judgment, it is the duty of our people to support and encourage theatrical industries and the pleasure derived from their wholesome entertainment will amply repay those who give that support and encouragement.

With the current announcement of bigger and better pictures during the Paramount Week and the Greater Movie season, I urge your support of the celebration.

(Signed) JAS. C. DAHLMAN, Mayor City of Omaha.

The Motion Picture has become a fixed institution both for entertainment and instruction. Millions of men, women and children witness these productions nightly. Any movement that tends to better, artistically and to raise morally, the tone of the movies, should receive hearty encouragement and endorsement. It is, therefore, with pleasure that the Monitor lends its whole-hearted support to the observance of Paramount Week and the Greater Movie Season.

Our local theatres are presenting programs which should gain generous patronage and win the approval of all patrons. Both as an editor and a clergyman, I heartily endorse this movement.

JOHN ALBERT WILLIAMS.

PILGRIM BAPTIST CHURCH. At the morning service the pastor preached to a large congregation on "The Crucial Test" from the event in Abraham's life in which he was called upon to sacrifice his son Isaac.

At 8 o'clock the Rev. Samuel Barrett, of Des Moines, formerly of Omaha and enroute to Los Angeles, Cal., was a welcome visitor and preached an instructive sermon on "Christian Sacrifice."

There was a good attendance, many out of town visitors being present. Mrs. Wynn was awarded a $10 purse as winner of the popularity contest, as she reported $49 for votes.

The pastor leaves the last of this week for the National Baptist convention at Los Angeles, Cal.—B. S. Sutton, Reporter.

Henry W. Black, president of the Omaha branch N. A. A. C. P., left Wednesday night to attend the National Conference of the N. A. A. C. P. which meets in Kansas City, Kans., August 29 to September 5.

Was Late With Her Gossip. Mrs. Doherty was the gossip of the suburb of Wimblesyead, and whenever any of her neighbors met her they always prepared to receive a nice tit-bit of scandal about some of their friends.

Mrs. Gadabout loved gossip nearly as much as did Mrs. Doherty, and so she was extremely pleased when she saw the latter lady coming along in her direction one morning when she was out shopping.

"Did you tell Mrs. Newife that you saw her husband in town with a strange woman?" Mrs. Gadabout asked when they had exchanged greetings.

"Yes," was the reply, "and I wish I hadn't now. She just said to me in her wise way and called: 'Yes, I knew all about that. My husband saw you and knew you'd come straight back to tell me, so he telephoned the news to me himself.'"

Hoist by His Own Petard. A working sense of fun is a good thing to possess, for sometimes if the humor of a situation cannot take the place of cash there is no compensation at all.

In a case in point is that of H. D. Traill, an English litterateur. One of Traill's earliest journalistic commissions was to write a series of articles in a paper edited by a lady well known years ago as a strong advocate of "women's rights," as the phrase went, on the anomalies and injustices of the British law relating to woman's property.

The articles were duly written and published, but the remuneration agreed upon was not forthcoming. After repeated but fruitless demands for payment Traill brought a suit against the lady, who successfully invoked against her contributor the law she had engaged him to attack.

RICE IS JAVA'S MAIN CROP. Cultivation of the Staple a Slow Process, All the Work Being Done by Hand.

Rice is the most important of all crops in Java. The most productive method of cultivating it is by means of "sawahs" or wet fields. The sawahs consist of plots of ground surrounded by little dykes which allow water either to be run in or off.

Where the land is sloping the fields are formed into a succession of terraces, causing the water to trickle from one to the other.

Rice is sown by the natives by hand. After sowing, the fields are flooded by day and drained by night for eight or ten days, says the Detroit News.

In about six weeks the spikes are replanted in groups of two or three stems together, each group being stuck into the muddy soil at a distance of about one inch apart. The soil is then flooded and drained every two or three days, and at the end of the fourth or fifth month, after replanting, the crop is ready to be gathered.

The harvest is gathered stem by stem, the natives standing and cutting them at a height of two feet eight inches from the ground.

The rice, after being stacked in bundles and dried, is put into a trough and a stamp or pestle is used to separate the grain from the straw. The grain is husked by means of a large mortar in which disks of stone, iron, or wood are kept moving either by buffalo traction or water power.

TENNIS BALL KILLS HIPPO. Cincinnati Zoo Loses Largest Speech men in United States.

The person who threw the tennis ball into the cage of Zeekoe, gigantic hippopotamus at the Cincinnati zoo, caused the death of that animal, famous as the largest in captivity in America.

The tennis ball was found wedged in the animal's stomach, where, unable to pass further through the narrow opening, it formed an obstruction, which resulted in Zeekoe's death after four days of suffering.

The animal, which weighed about two tons and a half, was valued at $5,000, but was considered as being worth many times that sum as an attraction at the zoo.

Zeekoe's life was imperiled on a previous occasion by some thoughtless visitor permitting him to swallow a woman's mesh handbag.

In addition to the tennis ball a number of pennies were also revealed in the stomach.

BEES STING HORSE TO DEATH. Swarm on Backs of Team Until They Are Sprayed Off.

The bees made a mistake. They thought the backs of Chester Patter's team a good place for their swarm to settle. And there was no pond in which the horses and their driver, Lee Waters, could take refuge.

The swarm came drifting into an orchard near Rochester, N. Y., where Waters was harvesting. They ignored all the apple trees and picked out the worst possible place. Waters tried scraping them off by driving under low branches, but that didn't work and he tried breaking up the swarm with a pole. That was his mistake.

The bees took up their weapons and went to war. Waters and the horses tried to leave the field of battle, but the bees stayed right with them until some one thought to get a hose. Then before the bees could be chased away one horse was stung to death and the other severely hurt.

WILL CLEAN BIGGEST FLAG. Vacuum Machine to Be Used on Postal Department's Banner.

The biggest flag in the world is going to get a thorough cleaning shortly. It hangs in the court of the Post Office department, its sheer length of seventy feet and four inches falling to fill the great space in which it is displayed.

A vacuum cleaner will be applied to its wool folds, and the dust which has accumulated upon it whisked out. The banner is said to be the largest free-hanging flag.

The big flag, which has a breadth of 37 feet, would present quite a difficult problem if it were washed, so "dry cleaning" is resorted to, it having been cleaned several times before in similar manner.
