HIGHTOWER AND JONES

In the current series of Columbia Wheel shows that provide a weekly changed entertainment at the popular Gayety theatre, the new scenic presentation, "Runnin' Wild," has been praised in every city where it has thus far been presented. Theatre patrons who delight in the allurements of pretty girls, melodious song and snappy dance will discover in the very title of next week's show, opening Saturday matinee, a promise of speed and swiftness that is sure to intrigue the most exacting devotees of burlesque.

Having supplied fifteen scenes in the two diversified acts; equipped his offering with an ample complement of scenic and lightning effects and gone to such prolific sources as Billy K. Wells, Herman Timberg and Jack Mason for the book and music and to stage the many musical numbers, Ed. E. Daley has chosen a cast of principals to match his other efforts to supply his new show with the best talent available. For it is the principals and chorus in burlesque that counts most in pleasing the public.

Frank Harcourt, Mae Janese and Al Hillier are featured members of a large and active presenting company. Harcourt will be recalled as co-partner of Billy Foster in previous seasons. Miss Janese was featured with "Let's Go" last term and Al Hillier is a Hebrew comedian of original method and long service in burlesque. John O. Grant, credited with being the best dressed straight man on the stage, has been retained to engineer the comedy scenes as foil for the funsters. Grant was a great favorite last season as straight man in Lena Daley's "Brevities."

"Runnin' Wild" will have a particularly attractive and talented retinue of principal girls, all dancers and singers, and thus well equipped to lead the ensembles with alluring effect. Althea Barnes, prima donna; Babe Healy, soubrette, and Libbie Hart, a statuesque and graceful leading woman, are all favorites with the "fans" because of their previous association with various Columbia shows.

As an extra attraction, unusual with burlesque organizations, Valecta's Leopards will tread their sleek and cat-like way through a maze of extraordinary achievements. Safely housed in a steel cage Valecta's animals will do some amazing stunts with a thrill in all of their evolutions. Specialties will be offered by all of the principals in "Runnin' Wild" and an extra portion of jazzy dance and snappy song will employ Hightower and Jones in the lively antics always associated with the work of colored entertainers. Matinee daily all week; Sunday's matinee at 3:00.
