

GAYETY'S JUBILEE WEEK

Much Jollification in Store for Columbia Burlesk Lovers.

The coming week will be Jubilee week at the popular Gayety, the good and sufficient reason being the triumphal return of clever Aber Reynolds to Columbia burlesk—an event well worth celebrating.

There is wide scope for scenic and costume elaboration in the range of opportunity said to be afforded in "Bubble Bubble" next week's attraction. The producer of this offering is said to have availed himself in a most satisfactory manner of this opportunity.

"Bubble Bubble" offers sixteen changes of magnificent scenery, all unfolding special features of great beauty and novelty, while a bewildering array of costumes enhance the beauty of these sets. There are fourteen musical numbers sung and danced during the action of the piece, with tunefulness and grace, by the talented company of principals and choristers. Heading an unusually pretentious array of comedians, singers and dancers is Abe Reynolds, well and favorably known to the followers of burlesque as a delineator of comedy Hebrew roles. A close second in popularity to Mr. Reynolds is William Browning, who has been called "America's Foremost Character Artist".

Ann Clifton, the prima donna of the company, won her laurels in musical company before entering burlesque, she having played many of Fritz Scheff's roles in her biggest successes. Helen Du Ross, the soprano of the company, is another popular favorite, while others in the cast worthy of mention are Violet Buckley, Ruth Rosemond, Jack Faquay, Jim Holly and others.

William K. Wells, who produced the piece, is also responsible for its authorship and staging. Dan Dody, noted for his clever work in the past, put on the musical numbers, while Melville Morris, the well-known composer, wrote the music.

More than burlesque, "Bubble Bubble" combines extravaganza, musical comedy, stage illusion and vaudeville in a melange of novelty that has gained it an enviable reputation wherever it has played. The chorus sings well, looks very attractive and dances skillfully and with enthusiasm, and its shapely members know how to display most fetchingly the many costume creations with which they have been provided. Matinee at 2:15 daily. The Sunday matinee starts at 3:00.

SOCIETY ATTENDS WEDDING OF MADAM WALKER'S HEIRESS

Madam A'Lelia Walker, mother of the bride, becomingly wore an elegant straight line gown of gold metallic cloth designed and imported for the occasion from Paris, France.

Great significance is attached to the wedding uniting as it does two of the race's leading families and it proved itself a gala society event, eclipsing even the most vague anticipation in beauty and gorgeousness.

The mother's gift to the couple was an heirloom of especially made solid mahogany case containing 126 pieces hand turned sterling silver from Tiffany & Co.; the groom gave the bride an expensive diamond brooch; the bride gave to the matron of honor a braided green gold bracelet fastened with a lock containing two diamonds and a blue sapphire; the groom gave to the best man and ushers walking canes and cigarette cases; the bride gave to the bride's maids Gold Cost ivory bound Episcopal prayer books.

Valuations are odious to place upon the many handsome and costly gifts to the couple. Friends from throughout the land generously remembered them with jewels, silver ware, cut glass, fine linens, household goods, apparel and personal congratulations.

Nine thousand invitations were issued to the wedding, 1,000 of which covered the personal mailing list of

C. J. Walker Manufacturing Co., scattered all over the world.
