

MIRACLE GIRL CAN NOW HEAR AND SEE

Scientists Are Astounded by Case of Willeta Huggins.

Janesville, Wis.—Willeta Huggins, the deaf and blind girl who could read a newspaper by touch and distinguish colors by smell, has been cured. Her hearing in one ear is 95 per cent normal and in the other ear 40 per cent normal, and her power of seeing is 50 per cent normal. Willeta is eighteen years old.

"Faith Cured Me." "Faith in God cured me, nothing else," explained the young girl when a number of noted physicians called at her home, near Janesville, Wis., to permit the girl to prove her cure and also to prove that she retains the wonderful powers of touch and smell. The physicians, after a careful examination, announced that she is virtually cured.

Miss Huggins has been partly blind and deaf since she was born. At times her condition would improve, and then soon it would decline until she was almost totally blind and deaf. Now, however, her senses of hearing and smelling seem to be growing stronger steadily.

Miss Huggins was called a faker by many medical men and scientists when she first declared that she could read with her finger tips and see with her nose. To prove that she had not lied, the girl underwent some of the most rigid examinations science could arrange.

Given a necktie in which the colors were so blended that they would confuse a person with normal sight, the girl named the colors without hesitation and without a mistake. A heavy blindfold was fastened over her eyes during the test.

"Read" Newspaper. By passing her fingers over the pages she read a newspaper without a single mistake. A single hair was placed under five sheets of fairly heavy paper. Miss Huggins passed her fingers over the paper and pointed out the exact location of the hair.

The remarkable cure of the young woman has caused physicians who made no comments on her powers of touch and smell to come to her support. They have declared that the scientists who called the girl a faker formed a snap judgment. They are sure that Willeta is cured.

Historical Ring Is Found on U. S. Isle

New Haven, Conn.—An oddly-shaped gold ring, thought to have been owned by British royalty and tallying in detail with one which disappeared from the English court in 1810, was found by Charles Burns, hosieryman of the local fire department, in the sand near Thimble Islands in Long Island sound, off the Connecticut shore.

Thimble Islands are noted as having been a rendezvous of the famous Captain Kidd, and it is believed the ring was a part of the pirate's loot. The ring is composed of four bands, joined by clasped hands. The nearest resemblance to it, delivers into history find, was worn by Lady Catherine Grey, and signified her marriage with the earl of Hertford.

Queen Elizabeth, displeased with the union, sent Hertford to the tower of London and subjected Lady Catherine to many hardships until the validity of the marriage was proved. The marriage was dissolved later by a commission in 1562.

"Adlay" Advocated as Substitute for Wheat

Manila.—The production of flour out of a grain known as "adlay," as a substitute for wheat flour in the tropics, is recommended by officials of the Department of Agriculture. The development of the adlay industry, it is declared, would, in a large measure, make the Philippines independent of outside sources of flour.

Director of Agriculture Hernandez in a letter to the director of commerce and industry, requests his co-operation in producing adlay on a large scale in the Philippines. Director Hernandez suggests that the government under take the milling of adlay, which grows well here, as long as private capital hesitates to invest money in the erection of mills.

Largest Grain Port

Montreal, Quebec.—Grain handled at the port of Montreal in 1923 totaled 120,013,938 bushels, the largest amount shipped through any port in North America during the year. Montreal thus maintains for the third consecutive year her position as the leading grain exporting seaport of the continent.

Pupils Fish Through Crack in Floor

Eatonville, Wash.—Fishing through a crack in the floor a pupil of the Mountsides country school near here pulled up a watch and some chains. Miss Karyl Owen, the teacher, investigated. In a small dugout beneath the schoolhouse was found a cache of jewelry, clothing, cigars, hardware and books. The box with jewelry was directly under the fishing hole. Pierce county authorities have taken charge of the buried treasure and are investigating the source of the wealth.

GERMANS ASK PRICE FOR DISEASE CURE

Want Colonies Back for Sleep Sickness Remedy.

Bremen.—Unconditional restoration of Germany's colonies and prewar rights is the price demanded by the German Colonial society for a new remedy for the prevention of sleeping sickness. The society expresses the belief that Germany in the remedy has a powerful political weapon in hand which places her in a position to force revocation of the colonial mandates executed under the Versailles treaty.

"Germany holds the key to central Africa in the remedy," says Doctor Zache, well known as a colonial expert. He expresses the belief that the remedy for sleeping sickness and tsetse fever is destined to convert central Africa into a prosperous, fertile country, inhabited by an industrious people.

"No colonies, no remedy," is the ultimatum of Edonard Achelis, chairman of the Bremen section of the German Colonial society. He suspects that this stand may provoke the charge of inhumanity, but he reminds his critics of the allied "hunger blockade."

German colonial enthusiasts have demanded that the German government immediately protect the remedy against undue exploitation by the entente powers.

Says North Pole Has Nice Summer Climate

Seattle, Wash.—The airship Shenandoah, on the United States navy's expedition to the North pole next summer, will not find temperatures as low as those of this winter on the Atlantic seaboard. This is the belief of M. B. Summers, weather observer here, who established the government meteorological station at Point Barrow, where Alaska jets farthest north into the Arctic ocean.

Mr. Summers said that the coldest June day recorded at Point Barrow, which is 1,117 miles from the pole, was 12 degrees above zero and the coldest July day 26 above. The range last June was from 23 degrees above to 56 above.

The Shenandoah is more likely to encounter rain than snow, in the opinion of Mr. Summers.

"Toward the pole, it will naturally be colder than at Barrow," he said; "considerably so, if there is no large body of land between Alaska and the pole. If there is an Arctic continent or a large island, radiation from the sun's rays will make it warmer and more nearly the temperature of Barrow. But, in any event, I do not believe there will be zero temperatures at the pole in July or late June."

Is Brewing New Odor to Trap Boll Weevil

Dr. Frederick B. Power of the United States bureau of chemistry, the discoverer of chaulmoogra oil used in the treatment of leprosy, is at work on a unique method of checking the boll weevil of the Southern cornfields. Doctor Power is working on a new odor, which is to come from an extract of such delicious smell—to boll weevils—that the pests will follow its trail into a trap where they can be killed at leisure. He will probably succeed for he usually does what he sets out to do.

Malay Tribe Backward as Men of Stone Age

Heidelberg.—All races of the world have shown more or less predilection toward civilization, excepting a tribe of Malays in the wilds of one of the Celebes islands in the Dutch West Indies, asserts Professor Baseler, an anthropologist of Vienna, writing in a German medical journal.

These natives are all left-handed, chew their food with a grinding motion of the jaw, like an ape, have long arms, live in trees and use their feet as well as their hands in nearly everything they attempt to do. It was at the beginning of the Bronze age, avers the professor, that man began to use his right hand, a sure sign of civilization, but the natives of the Celebes are much further removed today from any social development than they were in the Stone age.

French More Healthy

Paris.—Medical records show that the general health of French girls is improving, due in large measure to their growing interest in and adoption of outdoor sports. Chlorosis, a form of anemia or blood deficiency, once prevalent, has almost entirely disappeared.
