"Life Atom" Discovery

Finds "Pep" in Orange New York .- Prof. Calvin S. Page used an orange in his lecture on Rx, the life atom which he discovered in 1889. The lecture was delivered before about 100 persons, most of them instructors or students, in the hall of the Engineering Societies building, 29 West Thirty-ninth street.

Rx is an element which combines with everything except itself. He himself has isolated an atom of it and weighed it, but ordinarily it can be measured only by its effects on some-

Owing to its virtually universal affinity, it is found everywhere. It is Rx that enables a person in good health to wiggle his fingers in a masterful way when he seeks to stop a Fifth avenue bus. It is Rx which enables him to see and hear. If it was not for Rx, he would be a clod or a statue. Rx is the

Advertising Talk

A hen is not supposed to have Much common sense or tact, Yet every time she lays an egg She cackles forth the fact.

A rooster hasn't got a lot Of intellect to show, But none the less most roosters have Enough good sense to crow.

The mule, the most despised of beasts, Has a persistent way Of letting folks know he's around By his insistent bray.

The busy little bees they buzz, Bulls bellow and cows moo, The watch dogs bark, the ganders quack, The doves and pigeons coo.

The peacock spreads his tail and squacks,
Pigs squeal and robins sing
And even serpents know enough
To hiss before they sting.

But man, the greatest masterpiece That nature could devise, Will often stop and hesitate Before he'll advertise.
