CHILD LABOR BILL FOR LOUISIANA

Washington—36,486 Negro children of from 10 to 17 years of age, employed in gainful occupations, as classified by the U. S. Bureau of the Census, would be affected by the passage of a child labor bill, proposing a number of advances over the standards of the present law, which has been introduced in the present session of the Louisiana legislature. The new bill, which was submitted by the Consumers' League of Louisiana, reduces the maximum hours of labor of children under 16 from 10 per day and 60 per week to 8 per day and 48 per week, and requires a child under 16 to have completed the fifth grade and to have a certificate of physical fitness from a health officer or public school physician before he can receive an employment certificate.

LABOR BULLETINS TO BE ISSUED

In order to keep the public informed of the essential changes in industry in various parts of the country, the Industrial Relations Department of the Urban League has appointed "industrial associates" in many important urban centers of the country. These are men and women whose associations give them access to facts and conditions of Negro life in their respective communities. The information thus collected may be made available through bulletins issued monthly by the Industrial Relations department of the National Urban League, of which T. Arnold Hill is director. The first bulletin appears elsewhere in this issue.

Colored men and women are not entering industry dramatically as they did during the war but they are making decided gains in factories that are new to their toil and they are advancing to skilled workers in many industries that once used them as casual or common laborers only. The significant achievements will be noted and given publicity as a stimulus to further advancement and to offset reports that the race has not proved itself equal to the tasks assigned it.

URBAN LEAGUE NOTES LABOR PROGRESS

According to an announcement made by the Industrial Relations department of National Urban League, T. Arnold Hill, director, the two sections of the country showing the most satisfactory conditions in industry for Negroes are widely separated—the New York City district and the city of Milwaukee, Wis. The New York district, which includes parts of Jersey City, where prospects are unusually bright, has actually witnessed the immigration of colored workers from the south for railroads and industrial plants. Wholesale transplants usually reveal weakness in the jobs offered. While the rule has followed in this case, the movement has not been entirely unsatisfactory. Wages offered have been 50 cents per hour with 75 cents for overtime.

In Milwaukee two plants are looking for molders and chippers. Conditions there are good in all lines and the colored worker is getting a good opportunity. Both Milwaukee and New York have done something for school boys, who have found work harder to obtain than usual on account of the failure of the Pullman company to offer them work as porters.

In New York the Motion Picture Operators union has finally admitted colored operators to membership. As a consequence, the pay of some of them has doubled. In Milwaukee electric crane operators have entered a steel plant for the first time.

In mining sections of Kentucky, in foundries in small cities of Ohio, and in parts of Michigan, gains are registered, while Fort Wayne, Ind., sustained the loss of one hundred men in the Pennsylvania Railroad shops.

COLORED GIRL WINS APPLAUSE

Washington—A nation-wide spelling bee contest, sponsored by representative newspapers of 25 cities, and in which 25 girls and boys from all parts of the United States took part, was recently held in this city at the National Museum auditorium.

Sponsored by the Telegram Gazette of Worcester, Mass., Sarah Louise Van Allen was the only colored child in the contest. She drew the applause of the vast audience by outlasting all but the prize winners after she had correctly spelled "psychological." At her turn on the next round, however, she failed on the word "risible."

The Telegram Gazette is to be congratulated upon its broad attitude in selecting a colored child to represent the city of Worcester in a nation-wide contest.
