ANOTHER QUILTS

Last week we chronicled and commented upon the withdrawal of the Rev. J. L. Beebe from the Omaha Klavern of the K. K. K. and expressed the hope that some other Protestant ministers who had sworn allegiance to the Gizzard of the Invisible Empire, might see the error of their ways and turn from darkness unto light. The ink was scarcely dry upon the paper when the local dailies published the withdrawal of a prominent and popular Methodist minister in the person of the Rev. Edgar Merrill Brown, pastor of Dietz Memorial church.

This minister, according to his published statement, refused to bow to the dictation of the Klan which demanded virtual absolute surrender of his mind and will to the order. But according to their oath this is what subjects of the Imperial Gizzard or Wizard—what's in a name, anyhow?—are supposed to do.

The wonder grows upon us how men of the supposed intelligence and Christian ideals of men like Brown, who is a most likable fellow, could for a moment give even intellectual hospitality to say nothing of allegiance to such an organization as that of the night shirt brigade.

May we not again indulge the hope that Brown's conversion is sincere and that others, like him, will foreswear their allegiance to the Imperial Gizzard and become loyal citizens of the United States.

ORGANIZING FOR CHEST DRIVE

A demonstration that Omaha can accomplish great things, and that the city can, in every way take care of its own, is the way Chairman J. E. Davidson visualizes the Community Chest campaign this year, when $430,000 will be asked for the 1927 needs of the thirty members agencies.

The campaign will commence November 15.

Twenty-five hundred workers will begin then the task of giving everyone in the city the opportunity to subscribe to the chest. Nearly 2,000 of them will work in the residence district under the direction of Harley C. Moorhead, former election commissioner, who has planned a drive along the lines of a political campaign, with the goal to be sought, the getting out of the complete "vote" of the city.

Frank Campbell, their former president, will be busy.

W. W. Koller will direct the workers in the industrial division; and A. W. Gordon will head the committee that will seek the larger subscriptions from those who are expected to give the most.

Payment of the smaller subscriptions in cash at once, instead of their extension over a period of months or a year, will be stressed during the campaign as a means by which the small giver may materially aid the economical administration of the chest. By eliminating collection expense and office records, it is believed one clerk may be dispensed with at headquarters for a whole year.

This year, as in previous campaigns, the gift asked from the workers will be at least one day's pay.

POLITICAL LEADER AMONG DEMOCRATS

Harry Leland, Organizer of Omaha Negro Democratic Club, and Active in Labor Circles.

If evidence were needed that Negroes do not think alike on political questions, it is furnished by men like Harry Leland, who some years ago, with Alex Stuart, organized the Negro Democratic Club of Omaha, which is still in existence and wields considerable influence in democratic politics.

Mr. Leland states that he espoused the democratic party from the conviction that its principles best conserve the interests of the masses rather than the classes, and furthermore, because he felt convinced that Negroes ought to divide like other groups, on political issues.

For a number of years he was a welfare member on the grievance committee at the Cudahy Packing company and was active in labor and civic circles.

Mr. Leland has personally declined political preferment. He states that his sole desire in being active in politics is to secure recognition in the way of employment for worthy and qualified young men and women of the race.

Mr. Leland was offered the position of law enforcement officer by Governor Bryan, and also that of deputy sheriff by Sheriff Endres, both of which he declined. He likes political leadership, he frankly states, because of the influence it gives securing substantial recognition for the race.

"BAND BOX REVUE"

Were Tennyson to look at the "Band Box Revue" today, he would very likely paraphrase his "Charge of the Light Brigade" to read "Girls to the right of them, girls to the left of them, girls in front of them, etc." To the untutored observer the potential impression seems to be nothing but girls; dancing girls, acrobatic girls, singing girls, athletic girls, all trying to outdo each other in giving an expression of what they think should be the proper method of each particular dance or posture. But to the trained auditor, the girls are but the background of some big number wherein the principals participate later, and they for the moment only occupy the center of the spotlight. The "Band Box Revue" will occupy the stage of the Gayety theatre on Sunday matinee, with a splendid company of comedians, headed by Dave Burt and Mae Jensen and aided by Bob Fagan, Dolly Ashton, Ferne Proctor, Gordon Rydeen, Don Proctor, Clyde Shafer, The Proctor Trio and "Sheik-kee," the dancer, besides the chorus.

JOHN A. SMITH PRESENTS FALL AND WINTER FASHION REVUE

Dreamland Hall was the scene of a beautiful and artistic style revue on Wednesday evening, October 6.

To the strains of the Night Hawk orchestra the models promenaded up and down an artistically decorated raised aisle and platform down the center of the hall. Models displaying morning and negligee, silk lingerie—men's lounging robes and pajamas were first on the program.

This was followed by a group displaying sports wear, street wear, cloth and fur coats. Then came a group representing afternoon wear, dinner gowns and club dresses, followed a group displaying evening wear, formal gowns and wraps. It culminated in a beautiful bridal procession with two bridesmaids, a maid of honor, a matron of honor, ring-bearer and tiny sweet flower girl. The groom in conventional evening attire was awaiting the bride. The gowns worn by the women and girls were rich and beautiful and were worn with grace and poise. Many of the gowns were from the John Smith Shoppe.

Vocal numbers were rendered by Miss Dorcas Jones, with Miss Edna M. Stratton at the piano, and Mr. O. C. Winn with Mrs. Bernice Payne at the piano.

The orchestra also rendered several selections besides the music for the promenade of the models. Three were between 20 and 25 models. Miss Stratton at the piano played the wedding march for the bridal procession.

Frigidaire does More than Ice and Costs Less!

ICE melts and must be replenished. With Frigidaire there is nothing to be replenished. Melting ice produces moisture. Frigidaire is dry. An insufficient ice supply means a rising temperature and spoiled foods. Frigidaire is always cold. Frigidaire is automatic. It keeps your refrigerator cold and your foods fresh without the slightest attention. You can leave your house for days at a time—when you return you'll find your foods in the Frigidaire cabinet as fresh as when you put them there. And with all its advantages and increased convenience, Frigidaire operation usually costs less than ice. Come in and see the new Model B-5-2 Frigidaire. It is a complete, self-contained model—has ample storage space for the average family and can be installed for only $245, plus freight and installation.
