RESOLUTIONS OF THE OMAHA MEDICAL SOCIETY

Whereas, Dr. Leonard Britt, a charter member of a Omaha Medical Society, a beloved brother and a respected member of the medical profession, did upon the 13th day of November, 1927, sustain through death a great and irreparable loss, and,

Whereas, it did on that day please Our God, in His divine plan, to take by death Leonard Britt, son of this, our brother, and,

Whereas, our heart, our soul, our prayer goes out to our brother in this his dark hour of bereavement, and,

Whereas, the Omaha Medical Society has appointed the undersigned to frame a resolution of sympathy. Therefore, be it

Resolved, that in the death of Leonard Britt the community has lost one of its promising young boys, and that the father has lost the sunshine of his declining age. Be it further

Resolved, that we extend to the bereaved family our heartfelt sympathy, and commend them to the Almighty, who doeth all things well; that these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of our society, and a copy be sent to the family of the deceased.

The social given by the Utopian Art club at Mount Zion Baptist church last Thursday night was a fair success.

COLORED MASTER BARBER ASSOCIATION GIVES INFORMATION ON HAIR

By R. L. Price

Each week this association will give valuable information pertaining to the hair, skin and scalp.

If hair did not fall out periodically, it couldn't come in; for the new, vigorous, young hair grows out of the shaft made vacant by the falling out of the hair. It is only when it falls out more rapidly than it grows in that there need be any apprehension about falling hair.

If the hair continues to come in thickly, and there is no apparent diminution in the mass of the hair, you will know the falling is perfectly natural, and pay no attention to it, beyond the ordinary hygienic care which is necessary at all times.

If, however, the hair is becoming increasingly thin, and little patches of the scalp show through, you had better consult a reputable dermatologist (commonly known as the barber). If your complaint is local he will treat, if constitutional you will be directed to a reputable physician.

The causes of hair loss may be either local or constitutional.

It is local when any scalp disease exists, or when dandruff has accumulated in excessive quantities. In most cases, the important local causes are uncleanness and neglect in allowing the partially dead hair to remain in the scalp, neglecting the shampoo.

If constitutional, it may be any disease which tends to lessen the vital forces. This is especially applicable in fevers and sexual complaints. It may be also brought about by excessive dietetic indulgences which cause the blood to be overloaded with fat-forming globules, while a deficiency exists in the elements which feed the bones and hair.

The presence of dandruff is also a prominent cause for the hair loss, and must be vigorously treated if any permanent relief is to be secured. In this connection the Master Barbers' association wants to sound a warning against patronizing barber shops which are not absolutely above suspicion along the line of sanitation.

PROSPERITY SMILES ON THE UNITED STATES

Income of Citizens the Highest in the History of the Country Is the Report

Washington, D. C.—Uncle Sam's great family of 117,000,000 piled up an income of $90,000,000,000 in 1926.

The bureau of internal revenue announced that this figure marked an increase of approximately $27,000,000,000 since 1921.

For 1927 experts said that the national income probably would equal or slightly surpass that of 1926.

Officials are inclined to believe that during the present year commercial conditions are more nearly normal than at any time since the war.

In spite of the increasing standards of living and colossal installment buying, the American people on June 1 had approximately $26,000,000,000 in savings accounts.

Savings accounts have grown an average of $1,675,000,000 every year since 1919. Final figures for national bank savings at the close of the 1927 fiscal year show a gain of over a billion dollars in 12 months.
