TEXAS COLLEGE BUSY WITH NEGRO YOUTH

Austin, Texas, Jan. 11.—In the capital city of the state, Samuel Houston college has just finished a very resourceful quarter in education of Negro youth. Dean Harry W. Greene, who spent last year in Columbia university where he received the Master's degree in education, has returned. The attendance in the college department approaches three hundred which proves the wisdom of Texas Negro colleges lopping off high school classes. Freshman week has lent slight sobriety to sophomores as well as freshmen. The course in freshman fundamentals, in lieu of the University of Chicago orientation course of previous years, has proven the more popular. Both academic work and student activities, in general, have been quite rigorous.

Samuel Houston, the conference champions of last year, may be considered as having a poor season in football, yet the school gridlers were not the tailenders. The season, however, has had import in bringing to the Texas capital and to the new Samuel Houston $12,000 stadium Frank Young, De Harte Hubbard, and Cecile Cook. The city had a tendency to pay tribute to these noted persons of the race, a parade was held to which Frank Young laconically said, "This is progress;" southern white sporting editors and University of Texas athletes nicely assisted in giving attention to the utmost and an unprecedented crowd witnessed in the stadium impressive work by record-holding athletes.

Among work directly for public good, during the quarter, have been the appearance in November Opportunity of Dean Greene's article on Negro colleges in the southwest, the publication of a pamphlet on Epworth league institutes in Texas by Prof. T. B. Echols, the writing of the Sunday school lessons for the Southwestern Christian Advocate by Dr. J. Leonard Parmer, the editing of the city paper by Prof. J. Mason Brewer, and the encouragement of athletics in Texas Negro high schools and colleges and the introduction of physical education courses of college credit by Prof. Dean Mohr. A modest education research bureau, which gives opportunity for the seniors to gather information on education of the Negro in Texas, also holds promise for public weal.

The quarter examinations at Samuel Houston resulted in the following honor roll which includes students who made all A's, or two A's and one B: Gladys Brewer, Austin; Susie Curtis, San Antonio; Mamie Davis, Fort Worth; Thelma Duncan, Austin; Rosalie Lewis, Mexico; Clarissa Lovinggood, Austin; Madeline Lovinggood, Austin; Cranston McDonald, Austin; Opal McDonald, Austin; Cecil Moore, Marlin; Louise Smith, Austin; and Harriette Swann, Victoria.

M., members of the lodges from Boonville, Warrensburg, Butler, Clinton, Jefferson City, Mexico and other surrounding towns will be present. After the cornerstone is laid, ad-resses will be delivered by Prof. W. B. Jason, president, Lincoln university, Jefferson City, Mo.; Hon. J. T. Montgomery, president of the board of education; Mr. Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the public schools; Mr. O. B. Poundstone, Mr. C. W. Logan, Dr. B. F. Long, Mr. George P. Berthouex, Mr. A. L. Pringle, Rev. W. L. Lee, Rev. W. D. Wilkins, Rev. C. R. Smith, Rev. T. M. Smith, Rev. A. R. Brent, Rev. C. O. Brown, Rev. R. Rush, and Rev. B. Jones.

Music will be furnished by Hubbard's juvenile band, Lincoln High school semi-chorus, and the Sedalia cornet band.

Great credit is due our energetic, progressive and constructive principal, Prof. C. C. Hubbard, for making the new Lincoln High school possible. This is the third school for colored children that has been secured under his supervision. To appreciate his work one should see what he has done for the city of Sedalia. He has put Sedalia on the map.

Sedalia invites and urges all who can to motor or come by railroad to witness the cornerstone laying and see what our new high school building is to be.

LINCOLN, NEB., NEWS

Those in attendance at the banquet at Zion Baptist church, Omaha, last Thursday night, given by New Era Baptist Association, in honor of the departure of Dr. W. F.
