So this rainy morning, after they had finished their breakfast, these two little girls hurried up to the attic and ran straight to the corner under the eaves to get their precious treasure. Patty got here first, but when she looked into the box she said, "Oh! oh!

J C Welliver, Washington correspondent for the Sioux City Tribune, Washington, D C, Feb 2 .- The favorite fishing ground of Sioux City fishermen at Crystai lake will probably be made the seat of a big government fish hatchery, as a result of the efforts of Qongressman Hubbard,

Mr Hubbard discovered that in the omnibus ish hatcheries bill, providing $20,000 each for establishing these stations in several states, there was an item for Nebraska. The location is to be determined at the discretion of the fisheries bureau.

Mr Hubbard promptly figured that Crystal lake was the best place in Nebrasks to locate the plant, and hunted up Congressman McCarthy, of Ponea, in which district the lake is located. He needed no argument to convince the commissioner.

They are confident as a result that if the fishery is located on the merits Mr Jacob Krentzer, of Wall Lake, Ia, of the location, they will get it at Crystal lake.

> The conditions there are said to meet the requirements exactly, good trans-portation facilities, an ideal body of water for the purpose, and convenience to a city. These hatchevies, though located by states will not be used to propagate fish merely for the state in which they are established. A hatchery at Crystal lake, will mean stocking with the finest fish the waters of Crystal lake, the Big Sioux and other streams in that section, both of Iowa and Nebrasks.

The Mother Bird.

It has been said by observers of birds that some of them will feed their young if they are caged, and if they fail, after a time, to release them, they will bring them a poison weed to eat so that death may end their captivity. This is hard to belleve, but an apparently well authenticated incident is cited to prove it. Three young orioles were captured and were immediately caged and the cage was hung in a tree. The mother soon came, calling to the little ones, and in a little while she brought them some worms. She continued for several days to feed them, without paying much attention to the persons who were about, but one day she brought them a sprig of green in the morning, and disappeared. In less than an hour the young birds were dead. An examination of the sprig showed that it was the deadly

Joke on the Professor.

The scholarly William E. Byerly, professor of mathematics at Harvard, was once asked by a student how to develop a retentive memory. The professor answered that ordinary mental exercise was sufficient to secure a good memory, whereat the student asked if he might test the mental capacity of his instructor. Professor Byerly agreed and the student asked him to listen to and remember several varied items for a test. He began :

> "One quart of whisky." "Um!" said the professor,

"Six pounds of sugar, a plnt of sour milk, three onions, half a gallon of molasses and two raw eggs" "Um !" said the professor.

"Two green apples, twenty-six peanuts, one and a half cucumbers and four mince ples."

"Um !" said the professor. "A package of starch, sixty-seven per cent, cakes of yeast and the skins of seven bananas. Got that down?"

"Yes," answered Dr. Byerly, "How does it taste?" asked the student.

Illness Thins Each Hair.

A Japanese physician has been conducting a series of experiments to ascertain whether the growth of the human hair is affected by serious filness -as is the case with the nails-and some seemingly remarkable results cat could tell them a secret, for she have been brought to light by his iuvestigations.

He has discovered, for instance, that every serious illness has a marked effect in diminishing the thickness of the individual bairs, and by microscopic examinations he claims to be able to tell whether an illness has recently taken place and to give its duration.

According to the theories of this Japanese doctor the illness has the effect of making the hair thinner along a part of its length and the length of the thin portion indicates the length of time the patient has been ill. It is suggested that this fact, if its truth can be proved, may have importance in a Japanese doctor the illness has the question of identification,
