

A weekly newspaper published at Dakota City, Nebraska.

One day of the Interstate fair to be held in Sioux City this fall will be devoted to the celebration of the first mass by a Catholic priest in Sioux City.

The recent session of the Nebraska legislature fulfilled every promise made in the republican platform, and enacted more "square deal" legislation than any other body of lawmakers in the history of the state.

Senate file No 217, which was made a law at the session of the legislature just closed, is a free high school act providing that pupils of school districts in which a full high school course is not maintained may attend high school in any other district, the cost of tuition to be assessed against the resident district at the rate of 75 cents per week.

Among the important bills that was passed by the legislature of Nebraska is H R No 312. It provides that every person retailing gasoline, benzine and other kindred high explosives in less than carload lots shall after the first day of July, 1907, deliver the same to purchasers in barrels, casks, packages or cans, painted vermilion red, containing the words gasoline or benzine painted thereon.

Thurston Gazette: Tom Colligan went to Hubbard Wednesday morning to look at some land with a view of buying.

Pender Republic: E J Smith, of Homer, was transacting business in Pender Monday evening and Tuesday morning.

Ponca Journal: Miss Mayme Knox and Walter Niebur, of Winnebago, came up Monday for a visit of a few days at the J R Pomeroy home in this city.

Hartington News: Albert Schrempf, of Jackson, visited over Sunday with Hartington relatives. Claud Baird returned from the hospital in Sioux City last Thursday evening.

Ponca Leader: C A Kingsbury was in Jackson Tuesday forenoon. Mrs Mary Smith made a short visit at Jackson the first of the week. Mayme Knox was in Ponca visiting her sister the first of the week.

Oakland Independent: The fare to Sioux City has been reduced to $1.28 on the Omaha road, effective April 7. This will decrease the purchase of tickets to South Sioux City and taking the street car across the river to Sook.

Pender Times: E J Smith has started another town down near Homer and calls it "Beam." It will be a residence suburb to Homer. Deputy U S Marshal John Sides was in Pender Wednesday serving papers in the Behrens bankruptcy case.

Tekamah Herald: Mr Crouch, day operator at the station, accompanied by his wife, left Tuesday morning for Coburn, this state, where they will spend a week visiting relatives of Mrs Crouch's. They will also make a short visit in Sioux City with friends Kip Hamblin and Mrs Crouch at the key board during his absence.

Waterbury Items in Ponca Leader: Mr McMullen was in Jackson Friday and over Sunday preparing to move here. Miss Lolah Benton arrived home from Sioux City Saturday night for a visit with her parents. Mrs McMullen came up from Jackson Thursday evening to look at a house which they rented, and to visit with Mrs L F Dool. She returned the next day.

Lyon's Mirror: Mrs John Nunn and daughter, of Winnebago, were here yesterday. Miss Lizzie Keel left for her home in California this week, after a visit with the family of her sister, Mrs S S Brown, and other relatives and friends. She is the youngest daughter of Mr and Mrs Enos Keel, who were among the earliest pioneers of Dakota county, the former having served as county treasurer at one time.

Emerson Enterprise: Misses Anna and Stella McManis were Sioux City visitors on Monday. The bill before the legislature in which Emerson and other towns in northeast Nebraska were interested, that there should be no soldiers in towns within three miles of a military post or an Indian reservation, was amended in committee of the whole and the reservation restriction cut out, so the thirty in this vicinity will not go dry this year.

Newcastle Times: Tuesday evening, April 2, a number of friends pleasantly surprised Mr and Mrs John Marshall, it being their 25th wedding anniversary. The guests presented them with an elegant cut glass bowl. Late in the evening luncheon was served, consisting of sandwiches, potato salad, pickles, fruit salad, cake and coffee. An enjoyable evening was spent by all and at a late hour the guests departed for their homes after wishing Mr and Mrs Marshall many more such pleasant surprises.

Sioux City Journal, 6th: The remains of the late Mrs M P Kneiff arrived in Sioux City yesterday from El Paso, Tex, and are at the home of Mr and Mrs Braunger, 513 Eighth street. The funeral procession will move from the residence at 9:30 a m, today. Services will be held at St Boniface Catholic church at 10 o'clock a m. Interment will be in Mt Calvary cemetery. Mrs Kneiff was the eldest daughter of Mr and Mrs Daling, of South Sioux City, who lived in Sioux City for many years.

Sioux City Tribune, 6th: After several weeks of wholesale ticket selling at South Sioux City, and the greatest increase in cash fares which the line has ever experienced, the Omaha line today announced that tickets from South Sioux City to Nebraska points will be sold on the basis of 2 cents per mile, plus the regular 25 cents bridge fare. This makes the fare on the Nebraska side from Sioux City to Omaha, $2.65, while the fare on the Northwestern line, running on the Iowa side, is $3.15. With this new arrangement the company has decided that most of the passenger trains on the Nebraska side will not stop at South Sioux City, either coming or going out of South Sioux City.

Sioux City Journal, 9th: Wallace Long has returned from California, where he spent the winter. The other members of the Long family will return late in the summer. The Commercial club of South Sioux City yesterday issued a call for a mass meeting of citizens Wednesday night at the city hall, for the purpose of taking steps to secure one of the junior state normal schools for which the Nebraska legislature made appropriations at its recent session. The junior state normal bill provided for the establishment of eight of these schools, three of which were located by the bill. These three are to be at Alliance, McCook and Valentine. The other five are to be located upon the recommendation of the state superintendent of public instruction. South Sioux City once before was a formidable candidate for a state normal school. This was at the time two or three large schools were to be established. A populist legislature was reigning at Lincoln, and the law of South Sioux City sent down a strong delegation, which had the day practically won when State Treasurer Barrett Scott absconded with all the loose cash in the vaults. South Sioux City did not secure the normal, but it had its building left, and still has it, and this is an inducement which will offer to the state superintendent to influence him in deciding in favor of this location in northeastern Nebraska. The proximity of Sioux City, with its religious and educational advantages, also is regarded by the Commercial club across the river as a decided advantage. In a communication to the Commercial club, received yesterday, the state superintendent said eight places were in the field for the remaining five schools. Broken Bow and O'Neill are known to be two of these.

The Anchor Grain company shipped a car of cattle Tuesday. Try our new brand of "Golden" coffee, 20 cents per pound. Carl Anderson. Andrew Anderson has given up his position in Carl Anderson's store and has gone to California.

Harry Wilsey is behind the counters at Carl Anderson's store. We have just received an invoice of new caties and gingham, from the cheapest to the best to be had in dress goods. Carl Anderson. John F Myers is expected home from his southern trip this week. Next week he will go to his claim in South Dakota.

The basket social and entertainment at the school house Monday night was well attended and all had an enjoyable time. Our stock of summer underwear is complete, and we can fit you out in anything you need. Carl Anderson. Dick Myers is now at Nevada, Mo, enjoying life at the springs.

Fred Bartels was doing business in town Wednesday. John and Emil Young, section foremen at this place, were assisting in the terminal yards at Sioux City this week building side tracks. Carl Anderson has just received another shipment of fine glassware. You ought to see it. A A Schrempf, the painter, has returned from Jackson where he was doing a job in his line of work. Gertie Fair returned to Schuyler last Saturday.

Two good driving teams for sale. Dan Hartnett. Thos Long was down to the city Monday. Nordyke always has fresh oysters in bulk. Johanna Mundy is still confined to her home. R D Roekwell was down to the county seat Wednesday squaring up with County Treasurer Blume.

JACKSON. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. Mrs Mary Court, of Chicago and Mrs Kellogg, of Omaha, are here this week in regard to selling the Dewire farm consisting of 200 acres which they offer at $80 per acre. W F Hickey made a business trip to Omaha the first of the week.

A A Schrempf, who had been doing papering and painting here the past two weeks returned to Hubbard Wednesday. Mrs D T Waters and two children returned from Early, Iowa, Tuesday evening, where she had spent several days with her son John D, who is in the general mercantile business.

E J Mullally and wife and Pearl and Effie Ryan attended the Helmeck-Moore wedding at Sioux City Wednesday. Mae McGuire, who is teaching near Hubbard, spent Sunday with her friend Mamie Keefe.

Jas Kennelly has bought the livery stock from Hickey Bros. John Hickey will farm one of Mrs Mullally's farms this year. Dr Leahy was in Hartington Thursday and Friday last week.

Burt Hodges has moved his family to town while he goes to Interior, S D, to look after some land there. Mr Barry, of Norfolk, has moved on the farm recently vacated by Mr Hodges and owned by Frank Davey.

Dave Moore, Mr Chaney and Mr Martin, of Sioux City, took in the ball here last Thursday evening and were guests at the Mullally home. Thos D Jones, who was attending school at Davenport, Iowa, this winter, has returned home.

Maggie Keefe has gone to Iowa City to visit her cousin Mamie Sinnott. She expects to stay there until her brother Patrick returns from Philadelphia some time in May, where he is studying medicine. Miner Duggan, of Goodwin, visited over Sunday at the home of his grandparents, Mr and Mrs P O'Neill.

Prof Donohoe, of Hubbard, and J H Hanley attended church here Sunday. Mrs S E O'Neill, of Sioux, Neb, was visiting friends here last week. Born—To Mr and Mrs Thos J Hartnett, on April 4, 1907, a son.

Mrs Mollie Broymill and children, of Dakota City, visited over Sunday at the home of her mother, Mrs Mary Nordyke. Annie Killackey, of Hubbard, spent Sunday in town.

Ed Thornton, a barber who came here about two months ago and had a shop in the Sawyer building, left Tuesday, leaving quite a few to mourn his loss. He had borrowed money from several in town in amounts from $10 to $35. He reported that he had been left considerable money by his grandmother, which proved untrue. An effort is being made to locate him. Patrick O'Neill, who has been ill the past ten days, is slightly improved.

J W Ryan shipped four loads of cattle to the Sioux City market Friday. Born—To William W Reisinger and wife, on April 7, 1907, a daughter.

HOMER. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. Eva Kinnear was home Saturday and seems well pleased with her school. It seems to me Nebraska ought to get a chromo on some of her new laws. Fred Wallway has moved his family to Naocra.

Henry Wallway was down from Emerson precinct Tuesday. Florence Lewis, of Sioux City, was here over Monday and started a music class. Rev Sterns preached from his old pulpit in the M E church Sunday night.

Dick Miller's family will move to S A Brown's homestead near Bassett next week. Mrs LaRue, nee Minnie Mansfield, returned to her home in the sand hills Monday. It is reported that Ed Norris, sr, found some poison tied up in a cloth in his well. Mr Norris took it to a doctor and he said there was poison enough to kill forty horses. Homer seems to keep pace with the rest of the world with sensations. Who could be so mean? This is an opportunity for some amateur detective. And what a fine foundation for a serial story. Shall I try it, Mr Editor?

Mrs D L Allen, of Sioux City, was in Homer Wednesday. Vern Lake is in Dakota City working in the Edwards & Bradford hardware while the man who belongs there is away on account of illness in his family. Born—To Chas Scott and wife, a son.

Geo Wilkins is home from Mason City, Iowa, visiting his parents and rusticating on the farm. Benone McKinley is holding down Verne Lake's place in the hardware store while the latter is away. Auditor Johnson made his usual monthly trip to Homer this week. Don't forget that the Dorcas ladies sell cake and rolls at the Homer Drug company's headquarters Saturday, in quantities to suit purchasers. The town board has employed Harry Hart, of Dakota City, to survey and establish street grades. An ordinance has also been passed providing that hereafter all sidewalks built must be of cement, and crossings of cement or rock. Homer took possession of the Riley's hotel and opera house at Jackson last Friday night and gave "Queen Esther" to a large crowd. We are proud of our choral union and think each and every one ought to vote thanks to Editor Bancroft for his faithfulness and zeal in training them. It surely requires unlimited practice to do what he has done with so many in so short a time.

SALEM. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE. Born—To Chester Heikes and wife, on Friday, April 5, 1907, a son. Grandma Lansley is now on the road to recovery. Owing to her old age, 96, at first there seemed to be little hope for her. Hugh Graham shelled several hundred bushels of corn the first of the week.

Bessie Foreshoe and "Coachmen" Joyce attended the dance at Jackson last Friday night. After several days of hard brain work Jacob Leamer and son "bit" on a new gang moulboard plow. H. C. HANSEN, Sheriff of Dakota County, Neb. The Herald for ALL the NEWS:

DOG PUTS WOMAN IN PANIC. Pheasant on Her Hat Arouses Instinct of Gordon Setter Pup.

Nobody has ever seen a dog act like that on Broadway. He was a brown-and-yellow, curly haired one with feet slightly out of drawing, which indicated that he was just getting over being a pup. He chased a woman up two little steps of one of the closed entrances of the Criterion Theater and there he stood at the bottom of the flight with his long nose at such an angle that a dotted line drawn from it would have touched the stuffed pheasant on her mink hat. His eyes had a glassy set to them and his right foreleg had been lifted off the sidewalk in a kind of high-stepping attitude.

"Mad dog!" cried she on the steps at the top of her voice. "Won't anybody save me? Police! Police! Where's a policeman?" She backed nearly to the door. The dog at the same time shifted his position and again relapsed into his three-legged pose and a glassy stare. From her mink the imprisoned woman took a box of confectionery and threw him a bonbon after bonbon. The animal was interested for two or three times and then again he resumed a joyful sniffing in the direction of the gaudy pheasant wing.

About the group congregated a large throng which kept at a safe distance. The cry of "Mad dog!" was sounded through Long Acre square. Persons on the way to the theaters went around the block. The woman on the steps was by this time in hysterics and alternately sobbing and crying "Mad dog!" and "Good doggie, good doggie, have some candy!" The dog stood still as a statue. Edging his way through the throng, a policeman reached for his revolver. "He's going to shoot the mad dog," said a hundred voices.

"I wouldn't," said a lunk man who lounged up. "It ain't a crime for a Gordon setter pup to point a pheasant either in Canandaigua or New York. I can't stand for him being shot. Here, constable, you take that animal to the pound, and I'll pay for his keep. He's a good one."—New York Herald.

NO MORE STAGE SOLLOQUY. Old-Time Labor-Saving Contrivance Rarely Used in These Days. Nowadays playwrights are forced to find a better way for a character to "explain his designs" than to stand him alone on the stage so that he can tell the spectators what he is going to do. This seems a little too easy to be quite worth while, and the soliloquy which merely transmits information to the audience can be defended only with difficulty. But the soliloquy in which a character speaks "boldly of his most secret thoughts" stands on a higher plane.

It lets a tortured hero unpack his heart; it opens a window into his soul and it gives the spectator a pleasure not to be had otherwise. It allows us to listen to the communing of a character with himself as though we were not overhearing what he is saying. As Professor Bradley has remarked in his stimulating discussion of "Shakespearean Tragedy," it will be agreed that "in listening to a soliloquy we ought never to feel that we are being addressed." He declares that in this respect, as in others, many of Shakespeare's soliloquies are masterpieces, but he admits that "in some of the purpose of giving information lies bare and in one or two the actor openly speaks to the audience." And Moliere is as vulnerable to this reproach as Shakespeare.

The fact is that when they came to write for the theater they found the soliloquy an accepted convention, a labor-saving contrivance that they took over without bestowing a thought on the principle underlying it. This principle if formally declared would be that the soliloquy is a means of exposing to the spectators the actual thoughts of a character when he is alone on the stage. In other words, an actor soliloquizing must be supposed to be thinking aloud. But so little did either Shakespeare or Moliere care for the principle involved that each of them unhesitatingly set before us a character soliloquizing and yet overheard by some other character.—Putnam's Monthly.

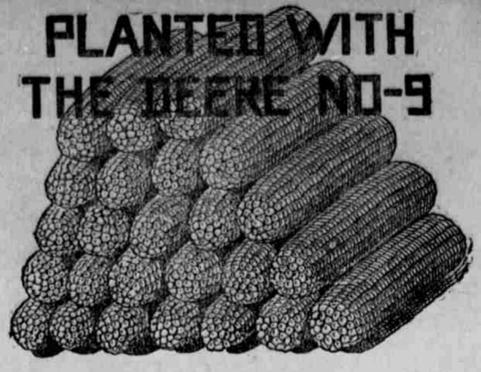

He Declined Not to Wait. "Lucinda," said Mr. Melstrum, who had just returned from a visit to a former friend in the country, "while I was at Longley's I ate some whole wheat bread. I like it better than anything I ever tasted. He gave me a small paper sack of the wheat, so we could cook some ourselves. How long will it be before supper is ready?" "About half an hour," answered Mrs. Melstrum.

"Well, we'll have some boiled wheat, if you please. Here's the paper sack." "But, Joshua, it will have to be cooked in a double boiler, and—" "I don't care how you cook it. I'm hungry for some more boiled wheat." "But, see here, Joshua! It will take—" "It will take a lot of cream and sugar; I know that. But we've got plenty of both. Put it on right away, will you?"

Without another word his wife took the wheat, washed it, cupped it into the "double-boiler," and set it on the fire. At the end of half an hour, Mr. Melstrum became impatient. "Lucinda," he called out from the sitting room, "isn't that wheat ready yet?" "Not yet," responded Mrs. Melstrum. "How much longer is going to take to cook it?" "About eleven hours and a half. That's what I was trying to tell you, but you wouldn't give me a chance. Do you want to wait for it?"
