They usually want something from the pantry

You remember the hunger you had—Home cooking counts for much in the child's health; do not imperil it with alum food by the use of poor baking powder.

Have a delicious, pure, home-made muffin, cake or biscuit ready when they come in. To be sure of the purity, you must use

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Asa Rathbun.

Death has claimed another of those sturdy pioneers who helped pave the way for settlement and civilization in Dakota county. Asa Rathbun came to Nebraska May 14, 1858, and settled on a farm near the mouth of Omaha creek, which is known yet as the Rathbun place. Here he lived for thirty years, and reared a family of seven children, all still living. From there he moved to the J W Davis farm one mile south of Homer, where he resided until the spring of 1901, when he disposed of his interests here and moved to LaCrosse, Wash.

Asa Rathbun was one of the sturdy pioneers who helped make Dakota county what it is today, and his family name will be missed by those who have been accustomed to meeting him at the annual reunions of the Pioneers and Old Settlers of this county. Only last year he came from his far off home to again meet with old acquaintances, little thinking it would be his last greeting with old friends and neighbors.

The following obituary is taken from the La Crosse, Wash, Clipper, published at the late home of the deceased:

Died at his home in La Crosse, Tuesday, May 7, 1907. Asa Rathbun, aged 79 years, after a long illness. Mr Rathbun came to La Crosse in 1901, from Dakota county, Neb, engaged in the real estate and insurance business, built a fine home in the south part of town and invested in a 320-acre farm a mile and a half from here. He served as justice of the peace for precinct No 14 for a number of years and was held in high esteem by everybody. A family of seven grown children survive, three sons and four daughters. Funeral services were conducted at the residence yesterday afternoon by Rev Bradley, and was largely attended by the friends and relatives of the deceased, the cortege following a handsome black hearse to the burial grounds. Interment was in the La Crosse cemetery, the obsequies of the Masonic order being observed. The heavily silver mounted coffin was a bower of beautiful flowers, tributes of respect from friends of the departed.

The funeral procession to the grave was the largest ever held in La Crosse, some 22 buggies and hacks being in line.

The following members of the Masonic order from Colfax attended Mr Rathbun's funeral: Superior Judge S J Chadwick, Sheriff Fred S Batliff, Prosecuting Attorney R H Kipp, County Surveyor E C Murray, J W Cairns, and Geo H Sherkey; and A Young, M A Sherman, H J Miller, of Endicott.
