Oil Case Settled. The case instituted against the Iowa Oil Tank Line company for selling un-inspected oil in Nebraska has been dropped by the Nebraska state officials, arrangements having been made by State Oil Inspector, A B Allen, to have the Iowa company's products which come to this side of the river inspected in Sioux City. There was no question but what the Iowa company's goods would stand Nebraska inspection, as the required grade in Iowa is higher than that of this state. The Lincoln Journal of the 13th had the following to say of the case: "State Oil Inspector A B Allen has returned from Sioux City, Iowa, where he adjusted his dispute with the Iowa Oil Tank Line company. He had refused to inspect oil of this company on the Iowa side of the river which the company said was kept for sale on the Nebraska side of the boundary. He refused to do this because he said he had no jurisdiction outside of the state of Nebraska. His predecessor in office had regularly inspected oil at Sioux City. The Iowa company contended it was not financially able to put in a distributing station on the Nebraska side of the river. Mr Allen acting on the advice of Attorney General Thompson and Governor Sheldon, has consented to inspect oil in Iowa. Tanks will be set aside by the company to supply its trade in Nebraska. Mr Allen will inspect these tanks and collect the fee for all that goes into them. Whether the oil is sold in Nebraska or Iowa, Nebraska will get the fee. The Nebraska inspectors will from time to time inspect the company's oil after it is brought into Nebraska territory as a safeguard against substitution of grades of oil. The Iowa company will also submit a sworn statement at the end of each month showing the amount of sales in Nebraska. Mr Allen had one of the Iowa men arrested for delivering un-inspected oil in Nebraska after he had refused to inspect on the Iowa side of the river, but these cases will now be dropped. There are Iowa companies that maintain tanks in Omaha for the trade in Iowa under similar terms to those agreed to by Mr Allen. The Standard Oil company is not interested in this dispute because it maintains distributing stations on both sides of the state boundary.
