"Few women of to-day," he said, "would leave their homes, their friends and all the attractions of life to follow their busbands into a foreign land as did the women of colonial days. One Reason.

There may be two reasons for a thing, both equally true, and it may be the height of folly to attribute the effect to both. A gentleman to whom art was a strange thing asked a friend, to whom the ways of its votaries were more famillar:

"Why does Conneray stand off and half-shut his eyes when he looks at the pictures he is painting? I was in his studio the other day, and he made me do it, too,"

"That's simply explained." replied the other. "Did you ever try to look at them near to, with your eyes wide open? Well, don't ; you can't stand it."

The huge state coach in which King Edward rides to open Parliament weighs four tons. It would have weighed nearly six if certain high officials had had their way at the coronation. They wanted to line the vehicle with plate armor as a precaution against possible bomb throwers. But his Malesty objected. Hence it happens that the only difference in this direction between it and any ordinary coach is that it is provided with steel shutters, which, though invisible to the ordinary observer, can be instantaneously raised to mask the windows when desirable. Other monarchs, however, are not so indifferent to danger in this respect.

King Alfonso, for instance, had all his state and private carriages armorplated immediately after his attempted assassination in Paris in 1905. To this he owes his life as does also Queen Ena. The bemb thrown by the anarchist, Morral, on the occasion of their wedding at Madrid exploded immediately beneath the coach in which they were seated. But its steel plates withstood the concussion and the young couple were uninjured, although the horses were

On March 13, 1581, he was driving in St. Petersburg in a sledge lined throughout with three-quarterinch steel plates when a bomb was cost thrown by a nihilist. The explosion that followed was terrific. But the Czar was unhurt and, thinking the danger was over, he leaped from the window, only to be instantly slain by another bomb, thrown by a second nihilist, who himself was killed by the same explosion.

Rules for Sick Room.

Every woman ought to acquaint herself with the generalities to be observed in caring for the sick. Do not sit on the edge of the bed, sway back and forth in a rocking chair, or rattle the leaves of a book or newspaper. These things are often annoying to a well person.

tive instances without names of women who are occupying prominent posttions in life. One young woman graduate of Bryn Mawr, for instance, was offered a European fellowship in romance languages, but gave it up to marry a rising business man. She considers the secret of married happiness in the ability of the wife to keep up with her husband, to grow as he grows, Ruffs for Short Necks. Surely every article in the realm of fashion may be so modified that it will be becoming to almost every woman. For instance, the lovely neck ruffs, that were the despair of the shortnecked woman, are now fashioned in a way that she may not only wear one, but find that it suits her. In the front from ear to ear the ruff is quite plain and flat, a fold of ribbon or a strip of fur, perhaps, while the back portion is augmented by the conventional ruffling or frilling, a bow in the back being the finish.

Low Sewing Chair.

A woman who sews a great deal of the time has found that her back does not become so tired if her chair is low, or if she has a stool upon which to rest her feet. It is surprising what a difference the comfortable position makes and how much more work she can do.

Should the arms become weary, she puts a cushion in her lap. On this she rests her elbows, changing the posttion of her sewing, thus giving both arms and eyes a chance to recover. Lost: Seven Million Children.
