Senator Burkett on Postal Savings.

Commenting editorially on Senator Burkett's speech on postal savings, the Lincoln News of last week said: "Senator Burkett's recent speech on behalf of the postal savings bank bill disclosed that he has a few colleagues who need watching. When the senator first became a member of the upper house he seemed, as was natural, to be somewhat in awe of the men with great names against whom he rubbed, but a closer acquaintance has opened his eyes to the fact that there is a good deal of masquerading at Washington. Here are some pointed quotations from the senator's speech: "In my opinion, Mr President, we ought to enact this legislation without much delay. We ought not to juggle with the confidence of the American people, so recently and so universally reposed in us as a party. We ought not, by procrastination, to exacerbate the American people with the idea already too prevalent, let me say, that there are influences more potent and more controlling in legislation than the interests of the great mass of the people."

"Whatever may be senators' ideas as to the effect of this legislation upon those within their own small circle of friends, no senator can be blind to the efficacy of it and the desirability of it to the untold thousands of Americans without the domain of legislative influence other than the ballot of American citizenship."

"It took fifteen years of patient and persistent endeavor to make some men believe that it would neither wreck the republic nor ruin the railroads for Uncle Sam to take a hand in the legitimate control of our great transportation companies; and yet one objection after another has melted away, until today everybody wonders who it was that objected. Within a week we have seen in the public press the address of one of the great railway magnates of the country complimenting the congress upon the legislation that it has enacted."

"I have seen congress, or a part of it, apprehensive before, and that is why I have called attention to the meat-inspection law and the rate bill in this connection. I have spoken as I have for the consolation of those really honest but timid souls who would rather offend the interests of all the people and the common sense of all the world than to offend their own theoretical and shelf-worn interpretation of governmental function."

Items of Interest from our Exchanges

Pender Times: Rev and Mrs Phillips was down from South Sioux City yesterday.
Decatur Herald: Glen Olbrey is home from Omaha very much improved in health which his many friends are pleased to note.

Salix items in Sloan, Iowa, Star: Phil VanCleve, of near Homer, Nebr., was a caller in town Saturday. Michael and Emmett Dillon, of Jackson, Nebr., were here last Wednesday to attend a sale.

Ponca Leader: Rev Ludden of Lincoln who was visiting his nephew, Rev. Deitz, was unable to leave the forepart of the week, for his other appointments on account of the snowbound train. Thursday he took a tiepass to Dakota City where he hoped to catch a train on the main line.

Ponca Journal: Mrs James King of Homer came Tuesday for a visit at the J R Pomeroy home. Mrs Sherlock of Emerson, mother of Mrs John McShane of near Ponca, died Monday, February 8, and was buried on Saturday following. The severe blizzard caused the funeral to be postponed.

Wayne Democrat: A pretty wedding took place at St Mary's church on Tuesday morning, Feb 9th, at which time Michael Jordan, of Emerson, and Miss Anna Fryer, of this city, were joined in the holy bonds of wedlock, Rev Wm Kearns officiating. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives of the contracting parties.

Osmond Republican: The "old man" has been as cross as a bear ever since the snow blockade, but with the first train he took a sneak for Pierce to see the new grand-son, Howard Leodmond Fry, and he had a new go-cart for the lad with him. Beats all how nutty these granddads are, anyway.

Sioux City Journal, 21. Mysterious circumstances attend the burning to the ground of an unoccupied house at South Sioux City early yesterday morning. The fire was not discovered until the house was entirely enveloped in flame. The structure was situated in the north end of the town near what is known as the North school. Several other houses are near. For some time it had been unoccupied. About two weeks ago a man drove up to the house with a light dray wagon drawn by one horse, unloaded some old furniture, a gas stove and some springs, and then placing sheet iron and tin over the windows, left the place.

A neighbor was awakened by the reflection of the blaze on the roof and through a window. The fire at that time was burning fiercely. One theory is that a crowd of boys may have been using it as a rendezvous and set it on fire through carelessness.
