SUMMARY OF THE NEWS OF THE WHOLE WORLD.

TARIFF BILL A LAW

SENATE PASSES IT AND TAFT AF-FIXES HIS SIGNATURE.

President Overflows, with Jollity .as Members File Into His Room to Witness Signing of Bill-Refers to Mr. Fletcher as "Old Pincapples."

The tariff has been revised and the extraordinary session of congress has been brought to a close. Both houses adjourned sine die officially at 6 o'clock Friday night. That is the time entered upon the journals, but as a matter of fact the adjournment was taken in the house at 5:38 p. m. and in the senate at 5:58 p. m.

The closing hours of the session were uninteresting. The revision had been according to the desires of some and with the hearty disapproval of others, and the last two days had been consumed by members of the senate in expressing their satisfaction or dissatisfaction, as the case might be.

The conference report on the bill was agreed to by the senate by a vote of 47 to 31 when the vote was taken at 2 p. m. and soon afterward the concurrent resolution making certain changes in the leather schedule was adopted by both houses.

President Taft arrived at the capl tol at 4:45 p, m, and entered the room set aside for the occupation of the president on the concluding day of the session of congress. His appear ance there, the first since his incumbency as president, caused member of congress to desert the two chambers and form in line to be received by him. There was a constant proces sion of handshaking statesmen through the president's room from the time of his arrival until his departure at 5:50 o'clock. Just as the hands of the gold clock in the president's room reached six minutes past 5 o'clock, the Payne tariff bill, as the measure will be known, was laid before the president. He picked up pen supplied by Chairman Payne, of the house ways and means committee, and which had been used by the vice president and the speaker in signing the bill and attached his signature. After writing "William H. Taft," the president added, "Signed five minutes after 5 o'clock, August 5, 1909 .--- W

000 to Charities. A suit to break the will of Charle Schattner, a wealthy saloonkeeper and politician, who died a few months ago at Kansas City, Mo., leaving $117,000 to local charities and about $25,000 to negro employes, has been filed by Eugene Schattner, a brother. The estate was valued at $200,000. Eugene Schattner alleges that his brother was addicted to the use of intoxicants, which impaired his mind and made him incapable of making a will when the instrument was drawn.

He also alleges that Mary E. Yates. a negro housekeeper, to whom the will gave $10,000, exerted undue influence over his brother. A negro porter and a negro nurse were also beneficiaries under the will.

Frank Schattner, a brother living is St. Louis, was given $100.

teen Years.

A sudden official announcement that public beheading would take place fifteen years. Immediately immense crowds gathered at the scene, but were kept back from the guillotine by heavy details of police and municipal guards. Parisian sentiment has long been opposed to public executions, for in the past they were accompanied by scandalous scenes of revelry.

Despite this sentiment parliament refused to abolish the death penalty ir France, and in view of the revolting crime of the man executed Wednesday morning President Fallieres refused to commute his sentence to life imprison-

The victim was named Duchemin, aged 23, a butcher. In 1908 he stabbed his mother, and this not resulting in her quick death he finished her by strangulation. The motive for the crime was robbery.

The crowds were unable to get within two blocks of the guillotine, which was erected beneath the trees beside the prison wall. There were some jeers as the wagon containing the condemned man left the prison yard by a side street and then drove up the boulevard 2,000 yards to the guillotine. The only spectators of the execution were a number of officials and a large crowd of journalists.

As the trembling wretch stepped out of the wagon holding a crucifix before him, it was seen that, according to the law dealing with parricides, he was barefooted and his head was covered with a transparent black veiling, while a cape of crude material but half concealed his naked chest. Before the onlookers had time to express their wonderment at this strange and disconcerting garb, which gave one the mpression that the victim was a woman instead of a man, the flowing veiling fell from the head, the cape from the shoulders and the victim was seized and thrown under the knife. In a flash all was over and the Body of a Boston Nurse Found in a Lodging House.

Ethel White, a nurse, 25 years old, was found dead in a lodging house in Boston Wednesday night under peculiar circumstances. Her death was reported to the police shortly before midnight by William Smith, who said step when he was leaving for work in the morning. Recognizing her as one who had formerly lived in the house, he gave her permission to go to his room and remain through the day. Returning late Wednesday night, he says he found her dead on the bed. Her skull was fractured and a deep cut was in the back of her head. The room was in disorder. Smith was held by the police pend-

She used a 22-caliber revolver, which had not seen an execution in and the bullet, after striking a silver fountain pen, inflicting a slight flesh wound, dropped harmlessly, in Craig's oat pocket. Craig, who is a member of the Rocky Mountain club, which has a suite of rooms in the hotel, was on his way to the club rooms.

Mrs. Castle, who had been waiting for him, tried to detain him, but Craig shook her off and went to the elevator, Mrs. Castle, as he was about to step in the elevator, shot at him when the muzzle of the little revolver was within an inch of his cont.

When the detective arrived the voman was sitting on a lounge weepng hysterically. Taken to a police station she said she was an insurance agent and had a brother, Capt. Henry scott, stationed at Fort Morgan, near Mobile, Ala. She pointed to Craig, who was standing nearby, and, after pleading for him to forgive her, said: 'He is the cause of my trouble. He has thrown me over."

Craig said that he would press the charge against the woman. Frederick Dean, to whom Mrs. Casle sublet her apartments in Sixtysixth street, interested himself in her ease. He conferred with the police and said that Mrs. Castle's home was in San Francisco, and that she is the wife of Neville Castle, who is well to do and is traveling at present in Alaska. She and Craig, he said, were friends in San Francisco as children.

Joseph Bocano was taken to police headquarters at St. Louis, Mo., Tuesday morning by detectives who are working on the kidnaping of Grace Viviano, 3 years old, and Alfonso Viviano, 5 years old. The children were taken from their home Monday at noon, and four hours later a special delivery letter was received by their parents demanding a $25,000 ransom. Samuel Turrisi, who is said to have taken the children from their home. was seen, it is said, at Bocano's home with the children. Bocano told the detectives that the man who came to his home was a cousin.

Despite the all night search by deectives and police through the ghetto and at the terminal of each car line leading from the city, no trace of Turrisi was found. The children are second cousins. Four suspects, roommates of Turrisi, who were held by the police, were released Tuesday.
