In 1876 the average life of a Berliner was only twenty-nine years. Today it is thirty-eight years, thanks to sanitary improvements.

Scratched So She Could Not Sleep.
I write to tell you how thankful I am for the wonderful Cuticura Remedies. My little niece had eczema for five years and when her mother died I took care of the child. It was all over her face and body, also on her head. She scratched so that she could not sleep nights. I used Cuticura Soap to wash her with and then applied Cuticura Ointment. I did not use quite half the Cuticura Soap and Ointment, together with Cuticura Resolvent, when you could see a change and they cured her nicely. Now she is eleven years old and has never been bothered with eczema since. My friends think it is just great the way the baby was cured by Cuticura. I send you a picture taken when she was about eighteen months old.

"She was taken with the eczema when two years old. She was covered with big sores and her mother had all the best doctors and tried all kinds of salves and medicines without effect until we used Cuticura Remedies. Mrs. H. Kiernan, 663 Quincy St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1905."

Even as late as the earlier years of the eighteenth century mince pie as an adjunct of the Christmas feast was forbidden to the English clergyman.

A Generous Gift.
Professor Munyon has just issued a most beautiful, useful and complete almanac. It contains not only all the scientific information concerning the moon's phases, in all the latitudes, but has illustrated articles on how to read character by phrenology, palmistry and birth month. It also tells all about card reading, birth stones and their meaning, and gives the interpretation of dreams. It teaches beauty culture, manicuring, gives weights and measures and antidotes for poison. In fact, it is a Magazine Almanac, that not only gives valuable information, but will afford much amusement for every member of the family, especially for parties and evening entertainments. Farmers and stock raisers, and all who are interested in the almanac should have one. It will be sent to anyone absolutely free on application to the Munyon Remedy Company, Philadelphia, Pa.

A Little Cold.
He caught a little cold—
That was all.
So the neighbors sadly said,
As they gathered round his bed,
When they heard that he was dead.

He caught a little cold—
That was all. (Puck.)

Neglect of a cough or cold often leads to serious trouble. To break up a cold in twenty-four hours and cure any cough that is curable mix two ounces of Glycerine, a half-ounce of Virgin Oil of Pine compound pure and eight ounces of pure Whisky. Take a teaspoonful every four hours. You can buy these at any good drug store and easily mix them in a large bottle.

More Trouble Among the Antients.
Briareus was embarrassed.
"I don't know what to do with my hands!" he muttered.
Later, however, he found that as catcher in a bear ball game he could use all of them.

CLIP THIS OUT.
Renowned Doctor's Prescription for Rheumatism and Back Ache.

"One ounce Syrup Sarsaparilla compound; one ounce Toris compound; add these to a half pint of good whiskey. Take a tablespoonful before each meal and at bed time; shake the bottle before using each time. Any druggist has these ingredients in stock or will quickly get them from his wholesale house. This was published previously and hundreds have been cured by it. Good results show after the first few doses. This also acts as a system builder, eventually restoring strength and vitality."

It is said that 6,754 out of the 309,900 working girls in New York get vacations through churches, social settlements and societies.

Struck for Home.
Courage is believed to be a very necessary quality for the soldier, but a writer in Harper's Magazine tells of a private who ran at the first shot, and declared himself to be braver than those who faced the battle.

Pat was unmercifully laughed at for his cowardice by the whole regiment, but he was equal to the occasion.

"Run, is it?" he repeated, scornfully.
"Faith, an' I didn't, neither. I just observed the general's express orders. He told us, 'Strike for home and yer country,' and I struck for home."

"Thim what struck for their country is there yet."

"That's what I'm trying to do," replied Johnny. "I'm attempting to find out how that man got in. Here it is. See?"
His finger had touched the spring for the baseboard, which was at least two feet high, suddenly split and swung discordantly back, revealing a square hole and a clumsily constructed panel opening directly into the next door. A green shaded lamp was lower than the Desterie home, for while the hole in the baseboard ran from the floor in the Desterie house, it was merely eighteen inches or less below the ceiling of the room into which the excited group was gazing. Well furnished, lined with bookshelves and illuminated by a green shaded lamp on a low table, the room apparently served as a library. Portraits of high-choked, uncomfortable-looking statesmen filled the niches between the book cases, and on the floor beneath the trap door rested a bronze plaque, very significantly the size of the trapdoor.

"What do you know about that?" asked Johnny, narrating the appearance and disappearance of the stranger.

Because he was the smallest of them all, Johnny was delegated to investigate the adjoining house. The others divided into relays and began another branch of the disquisition.

"Say, Farley, go telephone my paper about this, will you?" begged Johnny in a whisper. "They're long on extra news up there, you know, and they might want to get one out on this honest, boy, I can't say I—much in for making this twelve-foot desperado dive for life before he, but I guess it's so long. Put the panel back; I think you'd better, and he swung down through the trapdoor.

Meanwhile the first relay went outside to reconnoiter. The block was a crowded one with the houses standing shoulder to shoulder, as closely as masons might put them. Midway in the block the name of the street changed from Ramkin terrace to Briar-sweet place. The Desterie home was 56 Ramkin terrace, and the house in which Johnny had disappeared was 94 Briar-sweet place. Twenty years previous the street had been a fashionable thoroughfare, but it had gradually become relegated to the second best respectable boarding-house houses of the variety usually catalogued as "shabby genteel." Some of the old houses had been remodeled into flats, and in only a few were the owners now residing. Of these the major part were those sentimental women who, long after their families are married and gone away, still cling to the old home that welcomed them in their days of bridal joys and happy youth, or of the conservative set now pushed out of the lead of the procession of fashionable society by the influx of the newer and faster ideas of life and living.

Such a family had long tenanted 94 Briar-sweet place. The owner, Mark S. Flanders, was one of the few old-style lawyers who are fortunate to have husbands and their acquired competence before the ten years of age. Ousterization have descended upon them. One of the first settlers in the town, the Flanders residence had at one time been the admiration and the eye-widener of the country over, but of late, and especially since the death of Flanders' wife, both the old mansion and the old lawyer had been reckoned among the hopelessly by the ultra-smart set.

Flanders had always borne a reputation for the highest integrity and greatest personal honor. He had even managed to keep his record while serving his city two terms as Mayor. That the bricks and stone of the supposedly well-bred Flanders mansion should have opened up surreptitious entrances to the plebeian boarding-house next door seemed incredible, especially in connection with a man who used usages of telephones and directories elicited the information that Flanders had sailed quietly and unheralded for Europe a week previously. Gorin got Dunwiddy, Flanders' partner, on the wire and asked him about it. Dunwiddy was not of sorts at the call. He showed 4:30 a. m. and Dunwiddy was in the most delectable division of his early morning snooze.

"Yes, yes," he shouted over the telephone, "this is Thomas Dunwiddy, Flanders' partner. Who are you and what do you want at this disgraceful hour of the morning? An Associated Press man? Well, you've got impudence to get a man up at this hour of the morning! Flanders may be implicated in the Wayne murder? Nonsense! Where is Flanders? Minding his own business, where you ought to be. I did not see the tenant, but he called for Europe the 15th and I hope he's there by now. A panel cut through between the closet and his house? Dear me, that is unfortunate. Come to recall it now, Mr. Flanders left his house for the season just before he left. I did not see the tenant, but he called for Europe the 15th and I hope he's there by now.
