

NEBRASKA

From 6,477,282 acres planted to corn in 1909 Nebraska gathered a crop of 169,179,137 bushels, worth $98,123,871.

There are millions of acres of corn and in Nebraska that have never been touched by the plow.

In 1909 Nebraska harvested 50,313,600 bushels of wheat from 2,564,379 acres, an average of practically 20 bushels to the acre.

There is room and opportunity for the accumulation of a competence for 250,000 more farm owners in Nebraska.

The hardships of the early pioneers need no longer be endured by newcomers.

They will have the advantage of schools and churches, and railroads and metes right from the start.

Their only capital needs to be industry, frugality and honesty. Some of Nebraska's most prosperous farmers of today were renters ten or fifteen years ago.

What they have done a hundred thousand more men may do within the next ten or fifteen years.

The same capital, the same soil and the same frugality necessary to acquire a competence in the Canadian north-west, would mean ample riches after an equal length of time upon a Nebraska farm.

For years the Argonauts traveled across the plains of Nebraska in search of the gold and silver of the mountains, unmindful of the fact that at the grass roots in Nebraska lay a greater store of gold and silver than were hidden in the mountains of Alaska.

There are millions of acres of government land in Nebraska all of it good for something, most of it good for general purposes and much of it good for anything in the line of agriculture suited to the temperate zone.

The hundreds of growing cities and towns offer inducements for merchandising and manufacturing. The mechanic may find employment in the smaller cities where the cost of living is comparatively small and where the opportunity to become a home owner is great.

By and large from east to west and from north to south Nebraska offers more inducements to the industrious, rugged and honest homeseeker than any other similar territory on the North American continent.

This truth should be spread to the four corners of the earth by Nebraskans who want to have a part in the great work of developing Nebraska.

Mark this copy of your paper and send it to some friend in the east whom you may be able to interest in the possibilities of Nebraska.

The Bureau of Labor and Industrial Statistics will cheerfully send its bulletins on crops and manufactures to any one whom you may designate.

Let us all join together in the great work of boosting Nebraska.

Pioneer Women of the County

Mrs. Almeda J. Ream Was born October 27, 1834, near Nanvok, Illinois.

She came to Omaha, Dakota county, March 1, 1856, with her first husband, Abraham Hirsch, and two children, Henrietta and Laura.

The following day, March 2nd, little Laura died, and there was no lumber to be had in the town to make a coffin.

One man took enough boards from his cabin floor for the purpose. Mrs Jesse Wigle (long since deceased) the only other white woman in the county, came and aided in every way she could.

Following this bereavement it was eight weeks before she saw a white woman again. Three other children were born to them—Lue A Hirsch of Pender; Della, who died in 1864, and Frank M Hirsch of Sioux City.

Abraham Hirsch died at Bon Homme, S D. The first meeting for the organization of the county and election of officers was held in her home.

In 1867 she was married to Henry Ream. To this union were born five children, three of which are living—Dr Nina B Smith of Homer, Leon L Ream of Pender, and Dr W H Ream of Walthill.

Mrs Ream is now the pioneer woman of Dakota county.

Mrs. Sarah Smith Was born in England in 1832; was married to Thomas Smith in Erie county, Ohio, in 1851, and came to Dakota county with her husband and one son, Louis, now residing at Homer, on May 14, 1856.

She was the mother of ten children, six of them are still living. Her husband departed this life several years ago. She still lives on the old home farm a mile and a half south of Homer.

Mrs. Maggie Farrer Whose death occurred at Omaha on March 2nd, of this year, was another early pioneer woman, coming to this county and locating at Omaha in November, 1856, with her first husband, Thomas C Ryan, who on August 3, 1857, was elected sheriff of this county.

They moved to Omaha, where Mr Ryan died. She afterwards married Samuel Farrer. Hers was a happy nature and she did much in those early days to make the privations and hardships seem less hard.
