RECORD OF TIME'S CHANGES

Surely Visitor to the Scenes of His Boyhood Could Not Fail to Be Impressed.

"I reckon you see the old town looking some different from what it looked when you left it thirty years ago," said Uncle Eb Skinner to the native returning for a visit to the scenes of his boyhood. "All o' the back part o' Peevy's store is new since your day here, an' that bay winder in the drug store was put in since you left us. The deepo used to be painted yeller instid o' red, an' the town hall is het by steam now instid o' with stoves, like it used to was in your time. Then two iron hitch posts in front o' the postoffice ain't been there more than ten years, and that stone watering trough instid o' the old wooden one you remember is another change. I reckon you've noticed that Hi Greene has raised his house a story an' added a summer kitchen. That plazzy in front o' the hotel is another change in the old town, an', of course, you've noticed the new hoss sheds back o' the church an' the broom shop wa'n't here when you was a boy with us. It employs five hands reg'lar an' seven in the rush season. Time makes changes, as I reckon you have seen.' -From Judge.

There are many brick and stone valls, as well as wooden outbuildings, fences and the like, about a suburban place which, lacking paint, detract much from the general appearance of the home. #### Intelligence of Bees.

In France, Bonnier has communicated to the Academy of Sciences the results of experiments which, he thinks demonstrates that bees possess a sort of collective intelligence. One of the experiments consisted in placing a lump of hard sugar within reach of some bees, and near it a basin of water. The bees, finding that their mandibles were incapable of breaking the sugar, organized a kind of bucket brigade to carry water from the basin to the sugar. Having reduced it to a syrupy state, they had no further difficulty. It was noticed, in all of the Bonnier experiments, that single bees gave no such indications of intelligence. Their minds seemed to wake up only when they were acting in company.
