BOTH SIDES HEAR.

Wants Enough for Operation of Its Troubles.

Argument looking to the adjudication of the water power rights of the Kearney Water and Electric Powers company was heard by the state board of irrigation, says the Lincoln Journal. Attorneys for and against the Buffalo county corporation's petition were heard in the case, the number including John N. Dryden of Kearney and C. C. Flansburg of this city. The company, which has a power canal sixteen miles in length, thirty feet wide and varying from four and a half to twenty feet in depth, desires to take enough water from the Platte river to operate its power machinery to the best possible advantage. It contends that due to the scarcity of water at certain times of the year it is impossible to do this unless appropriators farther up the river are cut off from using the water for irrigation purposes. This action is asked for in a petition which the Kearney company filed some time ago in the district court of Dawson county.

The legal action which came out of that litigation was entitled the Kearney Water and Electric Powers company against the Gothenburg Power and Light company, the Gothenburg Irrigation company, the Cozad Canal company and the Farmers and Merchants Irrigation company. In the neighborhood of fifty other irrigation projects are also associated with the defendants in this action in the present hearing before the state irrigation board.

The original company financing the Kearney project was called the Kearney Canal and Water Supply company, and was organized in 1882. The company and its successor, this company, rights granted to it were not to be permanent only to the amount of a certain flow. In the district court action, which terminated during the latter part of 1911, a title to 125 cubic feet per second was declared to rest in the Kearney company and certain other companies were also set out as having the right to varying amounts of the Platte river water.

In a brief filed in behalf of the plaintiff the contention is made that the present laws of the state provide for the adjudication of no claims which are not upon record in the office of the state board of irrigation and that no provision is made by which prior appropriators may apply to the state board of irrigation for adjudication of their claims. The further contention is made that there is no limit to the time in which the adjudications of water rights can be made by the state board of irrigation. The petition of the Kearney company, after requesting that it be given authority to take sufficient water from from the Platte to operate its plant, deals extensively with the superiority of rights of the litigants in the case, and says:

"The case at bar does not present a situation where the damages to petitioner's property in case it is deprived of the use of water is merely incidental. In case of such deprivation the wheels of the machinery stop and the enterprise is practically dead."

The question of the powers of the state board of irrigation is also threshed over at some length, the opinion of the petitioner's attorneys being that the board is administrative in its authority and in no sense has delegated to it judicial powers. In formal hearings on the petition of the Kearney company have been held before the state board of irrigation in the past three or four months and several briefs and affidavits relative to the litigation have been filed with Secretary Price of that board. Irrigation companies to the number of sixty appeared at an April hearing to dispute the right of the company to close their gates in order to provide sufficient power for the operation of its machinery.

Assessment of Counties. No change will be made in the assessed valuation of thirty-five counties as returned to the state board of equalization. In some of the other counties an increase of from 5 to 25 per cent. is proposed and in others a decrease of from 5 to 15 per cent. is proposed. The counties which are to be increased will be notified to appear and show cause why they shall not be increased.

Appeal to the Supreme Court. Charles Madden has appealed to the supreme court from the judgment of the district court of Johnson county, in which Oscar Eisenstrau was given judgment against him for $1,500. The suit grew out of an altercation between the two men on December 3, 1910. Eisenstrau alleged that Madden, without cause or provocation attacked him with a heavy scotch shovel striking him over the head and beating him so terribly that he will never recover. He stated that his spine was injured and his nervous system wrecked.

Gandy Wants Depot. Railway Commissioners Clarke and Winnet returned from Gandy, where they held a hearing regarding side-tracks at that place and at the old town of Logan. Both towns are close to the Union Pacific line which runs as far as Stapleton. The new line is built about a mile and a half from Gandy. The town has been laid out in such a way that it extends in a narrow form from the town to the depot and the people want a depot erected, although it would be only three miles from Stapleton.

AN EDUCATED THIEF

COLLEGE GRADUATE STEALS $150,000 IN TREASURES FROM WEALTHY CHICAGOANS.

HAS JEKYLL-HYDE CAREER

Social Bandit Beats Efforts of Greatest Fiction Writers—"Only Robbed the Rich" Is His Excuse for a Score of Remarkable Robberies.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—When an exciting chase in the loop resulted in the capture of Jacob F. Guthrie of 1613 Prairie avenue Saturday, treasure worth $150,000 was recovered and a career that has surpassed that pictured for any of the "society bandits" of fiction checked. Cultured, a college graduate and a former high school instructor, Guthrie is charged with having surpassed Raffles, Arsene Lupin and the other creations of authors. Robberies in a score of homes of Chicago's wealthy residents are charged to him. Art treasures, silverware, rare books, jewelry, objects of historical value and ones appreciated only by a connoisseur were his prey.

"I only robbed the rich," was his excuse, given half-boastfully in a way that recalled the vauntings of Robin Hood.

Several days ago Guthrie had given the bank four checks which looked suspicious to the bank officials, and upon his arrival to collect the $900 he had the paper represented Officer McCaffrey seized him.

MRS. DAISY GRACE IS FREED

Woman Accused of Shooting Husband Found Not Guilty by the Jury.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 5.—"God bless you, gentlemen," cried Mrs. Daisy Ulrich Opie Grace her Friday when the jury found her not guilty of the charge of shooting her husband.

"I feel like kissing and hugging you all," she said to the jurors. "I treated you all the time. I know you would not believe what they said about me." Followed by a cheering throng, Mrs. Grace soon left the courtroom and went to the office of her attorneys. The verdict was generally expected. It is conceded that the state failed to sustain the charge that Mrs. Grace had drugged and shot her husband and locked him in to die in order to get $25,000 insurance on his life.

Grace was not in court. He was taken back to his home in Newnan and there heard of the verdict.

"I don't care what the jury said," declared the paralyzed husband. "She is guilty as hell and she knows it." Grace says he will sue for divorce.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Commander Casey B. Morgan, U. S. N., commanding the American gunboat Nashville, sent to Puerto Plata, Santo Domingo, because of revolutionary activity there, has met with an unusual reception, which threatens serious complications between the Dominican government and the United States.

He has been informed by the governor of Puerto Plata that "every patriotic Dominican" will offer armed opposition to any landing of American marines or bluejackets on Dominican soil, whether to protect American lives and property or for whatever other purpose they are put ashore.

Reports of the governor's threat, together with a sharp protest from Commander Morgan and his efforts to have the authorities at Santo Domingo curb the wrath of the authorities at Puerto Plata, have been cabled to the navy department and hurriedly communicated to the state department for action.

The state department declines to divulge its course in case the matter is not speedily straightened out by the Dominican government itself.

JOHNSON IS GREAT PITCHER

Has Added to His Terrific Speed Excellent Control, Slow Ball and Quick Breaking Curve.

"Walter Johnson is today a perfect pitcher," said one of the veteran umpires of the American league recently in discussing the Washington marvel. "If you could have a hurler made to order you couldn't design one who would be a bit more effective than the big Swede, whose name is a terror to the best batsmen in the country."

"Johnson isn't using his terrific speed much nowadays. In fact, he seldom cuts one loose with all his might unless he happens to be in a tight place and opposed to a hitter who is weak on the fast ones. He throws a lot of fast balls with a break on them still, but they are not of the old arm-piercing type that made him famous."

"At one time he had to depend almost entirely on the velocity of his ball and his control to make him formidable, but now he has acquired a good curve and a nice change of pace. For some time he has been experimenting with a slow ball, and now he has got command of it. Think of the deadly efficiency of a slow one coming after a ball that has been turned through a mile a minute."

"Walter's curve is not the widest in the world, but it is a quick one, and the break plenty large enough to accomplish the desired purpose. His control, which always has been good, seems to be improving."

"On top of this he has a splendid disposition for a pitcher. Nothing seems to rattle him. Some pitchers get up in the air if they think an umpire has missed a strike in a pinch, but Walter just smiles, knowing that he can lay the next one over if he has to. He is by all odds the greatest pitcher in the game today and to my mind never lived one who was any better. As near as any human being can hope to achieve in any line of endeavor Johnson has achieved it as a pitcher."

Modern Baseball is Faster. Nothing to Be Accomplished by Wordy Controversy on Merits of Old and Young Players.

There may be some good accomplished from a wordy controversy whether or not baseball is faster than it used to be, but just exactly how this is to effect the cost of living is not so perfectly apparent, says the Milwaukee Sentinel.

The old fellows who have had their day and who are continually looking backward, seem to think that they played faster and better in the olden time, but the young men who are now engaged in making baseball history are dead sure the old timers were truck horses in comparison with them.

There is no reason why the old-timers could not hit a ball just exactly as hard; run just as fast; and field just as accurately. It may be that owing to the development of pitching they would not have an opportunity to hit and run as often, and inside baseball may be developed more than it was in the olden times, but grant all this and what's the answer?

It pleases us who remember some of the old-timers to think they were just as good as the best, but it may be that we are mistaken. At that, it is pretty hard to see what is going to be accomplished by the disillusionment. If the men of today are much better than they used to be, let it go at that. Nothing can be accomplished by arguing this question any more than can be by indulging in a controversy over politics or religion.
