HANDS CRACKED AND BLED

St. Clair, Mo.—My trouble began about fifteen years ago. It was what some called eczema. The form the disease worked under was a breaking out with watery blisters on my hands...

At last I saw the advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I sent for a sample. I thought they would cure, so I sent for a fifty-cent box of Cuticura Ointment and some Cuticura Soap.

In the Day of the Billionaire. A brilliant New York lawyer said at a dinner at the Lotus Club apropos of certain trust magnates: "Thanks to watered stocks—and watered stock is criminal abroad—these men are indeed rich beyond the dreams of avarice."

"If the watering of stock is allowed to keep on we'll hear our billionaires talking like this some day: 'Hello! There goes Jones in his 300 horsepower car. Do you know him?' 'Do I know him! Do I know Jones! Why, man, alive, Jones and I were struggling young millionaires together!'"—New York Times.

Automobile Aroma. Farmer Hiram was mending the front fence when an automobile whizzed past, emitting a trail of blue smoke from its oil-choked engine.

"Sam," he said, "they may be swell city fellers all that, but they certainly was smokin' some vile se-gars."

Loyal to Her Teacher. Sunday School Teacher—Yes, children, the Lord made everybody. Small Girl—Did he make you, teacher? Teacher—Yes. He made me, too. Small Girl—And he's got nothin' to be ashamed of, either.

He is Still Single. "You are the first girl I have ever loved." "And you'd be the last man I'd ever love."

Not in Sight. Hokus—"Do you think we shall ever have universal peace?" Pokus—"Not so long as women continue to play bridge for stakes."

Figuratively speaking, a man and his wife are one, but the figures on the grocery bill are apt to disprove it.

GOOD NATURED AGAIN

Good Humor Returns With Change to Proper Food.

"For many years I was a constant sufferer from indigestion and nervousness, amounting almost to prostration," writes a Montana man. "My blood was impoverished, the vision was blurred and weak, with moving spots before my eyes. This was a steady daily condition. I grew ill-tempered, and eventually got so nervous I could not keep my books posted, nor handle accounts satisfactorily. I can't describe my sufferings."

"Nothing I ate agreed with me, till one day I happened to notice Grape-Nuts in a grocery store, and bought a package out of curiosity to know what it was. I liked the food from the very first, eating it with cream, and now I buy it by the case and use it daily. I soon found that Grape-Nuts food was supplying brain and nerve force as nothing in the drug line ever had done or could do. It wasn't long before I was restored to health, comfort and happiness. Through the use of Grape-Nuts food my digestion has been restored, my nerves are steady once more, my eyesight is good again, my mental faculties are clear and acute, and I have become so good-natured that my friends are truly astonished at the change. I feel younger and better than I have for 20 years. No amount of money would induce me to surrender what I have gained through the use of Grape-Nuts food." BATTLE IN MIDAIR

Partridge Battles With Kidnaper of Her Chick.

After She Had Freed Victim, Golfers Who Had Witnessed the Combat Go to the Rescue of Her Brood.

Omaha.—J. D. Haskell, a banker of Wakefield, and Judge Eric Johnson of Putnam, while playing a match game of golf several days ago, witnessed a battle royal between a mother partridge, defending her young, and a hawk.

The players were putting for the seventeenth hole. The banker had made his third shot and won the hole, giving him one up and one to play. As the judge was putting his attention was suddenly called to the loud cries of a mother partridge, which Mr. Haskell discovered near the eighteenth green.

The hawk swooped down and grabbed one of the chicks before the parent could divert attention wholly from the players to the bird of prey. Mr. Hawk was rising with it, when the mother discovered the seizure and made what might be called a flying leap for the aerial pirate.

Then followed a duel in midair, 15 feet from the ground, which held the golfers spellbound. They could not have interfered at this stage of the battle had they possessed the opportunity, so fascinating was the struggle between, on the one side of the fearless, unflinching and unspunk inspired by the mother love of the partridge, and on the other side the savagery of the hawk.

Both the combatants tumbled to the board, with the partridge on top, clawing, pecking and rolling over and over. Feathers flew. Mr. Hawk was

RECIPE FOR SAVING

Head of Chicago Mission Tells How to Rescue Derelicts.

Harry Monroe Declares He Was a Tough, But Was Called From Life of Debauchery by Conviction of His Hopelessness.

"With a Bible in one hand and a loaf of bread in the other—that's the only way to save the man that's down."

"Don't drop the bad man, the man that's strong and wrong. That's the man to stick to. If you win you've got a real one."

"Kindness is the thing. Slap him on the back. Help him 'get a front,' then make him hustle."

"The helpless booze fighter has just lost his nerve. He's a dead one. Help him materially as well as mentally. If you don't be a goner. He can't make a play at all."

Chicago.—Harry Monroe gives these remedies for the redemption of those who have strayed or have fallen. The kindly little fat man with the twinkling eye and a handshake that has given hope to thousands thus sums up, in advice to others, the acts that have made him successful at Pacific Garden Mission.

Nearly everybody has heard of Harry Monroe. Among the derelicts he is known as a friend. Among church folk he is the genius who guides the Pacific Garden Mission, the "mother of American missions."

Still another class of people know Harry Monroe. Thirty-five years ago, when Pacific Garden, at 67 West Van Buren street, was one of Chicago's most notorious "free and easies," saloon, cafe and dance hall, the "rounders" knew Monroe as a "pal."

Monroe was a then a young tough who fought his way in and out of the dives of Whiskey Row. Water 34 years and most of the Should Not Look Old at 60."

COSTUMES FOR SUFFRAGIST PARADE

Here are two of the Washington suffragists in the costumes to be worn in the parade of March 3. on his back, and the mother partridge kept shrieking and whistling to her children to take to the tall grass. The hawk had so much to attend to in defending itself from the attacks of the partridge that it was obliged in the early rounds of the combat to drop the chick.

After a desperate battle on the ground, lasting several minutes, the partridge left the attack and fluttered in the direction of her brood, while the hawk doggedly made a drive to capture another of her young. Mr.

Haskell and Judge Johnson, wielding their drivers, then made for the free-booster of the air, and drove him off. While they were doing this the partridge and three of her chicks made their escape, leaving behind the one that had been dropped from the hawk's talons. It had sustained a broken wing. The golfers placed the wounded chick in the tall grass near by, where the hawk would not find it. It was still there when they went back in the evening to investigate, but it was gone in the morning.

Kindness is the thing, though. Most of the men who come in here are helpless booze-fighters. The booze-fighter has lost his nerve. He's a dead one. What he needs is a friend.

"Chicago is the mecca of the down and out, because they know that Chicago offers more kindness than any other city in the land. It is surprising how fast young chaps from the country strike the skids and go. They get dizzy in the big city, and fall kindness is the only thing that will bring them back."

SING ON WAY TO GRAVE

Mourners Obey Deceased's Wish as They Go to Cemetery in France.

Paris.—When an old man named Joseph Hughes was buried recently at Aramon, near Nimes, the funeral procession, according to the terms of his will, followed the coffin with every one singing an old song of which Hughes had been fond. The old man, who met his death through falling upon the fire while his wife was preparing his supper, was of an original turn of mind and had kept his coffin under his bed for twenty years, using it as a wardrobe.

LAUGHS AT SOLDIER'S NAME

Private Says He is Called Titanic Because He Was Not Lost on Liner.

Berlin.—Whenever the kaiser reviews a regiment personally interesting stories concerning conversations between him and some of the soldiers form the topic of evening talk in the barracks and eventually find their way into the press. These may or may not be true, but they are always interesting, and the latest is well vouched for.

According to this report the emperor, while reviewing the guard regiment at Potsdam, was attracted by a private who was unusually tall and awkward. The kaiser approached him and asked: "What's your name, my son?"

"Titanic Meyer, your majesty," answered the soldier. "Titanic Meyer?" repeated the kaiser, smiling. "Don't you know you bear the name of a ship which sank last April? How come it you are named after a ship?"

"Yes, your majesty," replied the soldier. "That's the reason I'm called Titanic Meyer. When the ship was lost the captain said to me: 'Meyer, why weren't you on the Titanic? Then we wouldn't be bothered with you here.' Since then I'm called Titanic Meyer."

his coronation. He probably will, in deference to Japanese etiquette, make the trip on board one of the fine cruisers of the Japanese navy, although being a poor sailor he would prefer to travel overland in the splendid Russian court train which the czar has placed at his disposal.

LONG SLEEP CAUSES CRIME

Criminologist of Cincinnati Says More Than Seven Hours' Rest is Weakening.

Cincinnati, O.—"Seven hours' sleep is all that is necessary for any human being and if obtained regularly in certain hours nightly will keep the body and mind in a healthy state," said Poertmeyer, coroner of Cincinnati, and famed throughout the country as an authority on criminology.

"Much of the disease of today is due to too much or too little sleep. A person who sleeps over seven hours has had too much rest. Men and women who commit crime are as a rule long sleepers. Their minds grow weak from too much sleep and they acquire the don't care habit, which often results in crime."

the new emperor of Japan is aware of the fact that he is a great admirer of the kaiser and that he looks forward to a visit to Berlin with far greater anticipation than to England. He considers the kaiser the greatest ruler living and desires very much to study the German soldier and German military institutions close by.

MORE ATLANTIC LINERS REQUIRED

CONGESTION ON EXISTING STEAMSHIPS ON ACCOUNT OF CANADIAN IMMIGRATION.

It is reported that eight new Trans-Atlantic liners are under construction for the exclusive use of the Canadian Trade. These are being built by the White Star, Canadian Pacific and Cunard Companies.

The liners to be built for the White Star are to be of the same type as the Laurentic and Majestic, and will replace the Canada and Teutonic. The Cunard Line's new steamer, Arcania, has already completed successfully her maiden voyage from England to Montreal, and her sister ship will be launched early next year.

It is predicted that the Canadian Northern will not be slow in following the example of the other big concerns, as it is a matter of common belief that Canada, more than any other in the world, will be the country of the future, and the best field for investment by shipping interests.

An official of one of the companies already building steamers for this trade told the American yesterday that the ideal steamer for this service is the two-cabin boat, having accommodation for second-class and steerage passengers only.

"We do not expect that the $5,000 cabin de luxe class will travel between Canada and England very extensively," he said, "but the business that is to be obtained there will be immensely lucrative, and for the next ten years the eyes of the shipping world will be riveted on Canada. The Panama Canal, undoubtedly will receive a lot of attention, but the business in that route will be nothing compared with the Canadian trade for the immediate future. Panama will develop and become bigger in the years to come, but at the present we are most concerned with the tremendous tide of immigration that is being diverted from the United States to the Dominion.

"The farm land of the vast North West is the attraction, and while this flood of immigration is at its height, the Canadian Government exercises a strict censorship over the class of immigrants admitted. In this way they are drawing their future citizens from the Northern countries and have shown an unwelcome face to the people of Southern Europe."—Advertisement.

When the Sun Will Die. It may be said unqualifiedly that the sun, like every other thing connected with the present order, will finally cease to be what it is today. The time will most surely come when the sun will have ceased to throw off light and heat. Long before that happens, however, the earth and other planets will have become "dead worlds," like the moon—no life of any sort upon them. It has been calculated that the sun will cease to throw out its heat somewhere about seven million years from now.

AMERICAN IDEA. A German investigator has discovered that plants resist cold when they are given special nourishment to keep them warm. For instance, to feed a plant sugar stimulates its power of resisting low temperature, much as like food acts upon animals, though in less marked degree.
