

Calumet Guarantees Baking Economy.
Have you ever stopped to think just what "economy" in baking really means? Some folks seem to have the idea that saving a little on the cost of the materials—the flour, eggs, etc.—is economy. Others are of the opinion that they have been economical when they buy the low priced baking powder, and save 10c to 25c. But both are wrong. For the real economy—the economy that counts—consists in doing away with the failures that so often waste far more than is saved in buying low-priced materials.

And that beyond a doubt is the reason that Calumet Baking Powder is the favorite of millions of cooks. It absolutely prevents failures—and guarantees success—which in the end is the same thing as economy.

Calumet is unfailing—it makes every baking good—more tasty, more delicious, more evenly raised—because it is not only pure and wholesome itself—but so uniform in quality that you can always depend upon it. Two World's Pure Food Expositions—one at Chicago in 1907, and the other at Paris, France, in 1912—have officially pronounced Calumet the best baking powder made.

CONSTIPATION

Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are unlike all other laxatives or cathartics. They coax the liver into activity by gentle methods, they do not scour; they do not grip; they do not weaken; but they do start all the secretions of the liver and stomach in a way that soon puts these organs in a healthy condition and relieves the constipation. Munyon's Paw-Paw Pills are a tonic to the stomach, liver and bowels. They invigorate instead of weaken; they enrich the blood instead of impoverishing it; they enable the stomach to get all the nourishment from food that is put into it. Price 25 cents. All Druggists.

Spring Clipping of Horses.

The modern practice among the best posted and most progressive horse owners and farmers is to clip all horses in the spring. It is done on the theory that in their natural state horses were not obliged to work, so could shed the winter coat in comfort over a period of several weeks. Since we oblige them to do hard work on warm spring days, the winter coat should be removed for the same reason that we lay off our heavy winter garments. Clipped horses dry off rapidly, hence they do not take cold as easily nor are they as prone to be affected with other ailments as unclipped animals whose longer hair holds the perspiration for hours. Because clipped horses dry off rapidly they rest better, get more good from their food and come out in the morning refreshed and fit for work.

Since the advent of the ball bearing enclosed gear clipping machine, the work of clipping of the winter coat is easy. With the machine a horse can be clipped all over in half an hour, whereas with the old two-hand clipper it required several hours to do it.

Dairymen also now clip the cows all over two or three times a year. The flanks and udders are clipped every three or four weeks, so it is easy to clean the parts before milking. This means less opportunity for dirt and other impurities to get into the milk.

In some circles men are like pianos—If square they are considered old fashioned.

IDEAS FOR LAME BUILDERS BY WM. A. RADFORD.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 178 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Some houses ramble, as it were, all over a lot; others, in their design, show evidence of careful regard for space economy without any sacrifice of commodiousness or convenience of layout. A square-built house, of a type that is becoming very popular of late, is shown in the design here illustrated. The size in the ground is 24 by 30 feet, which is from two to four feet shorter than most houses built on this plan; still the number and size of rooms are quite satisfactory. The saving in room is partly gained by building the stairway so that it doubles back upon itself.

A great deal depends upon the connection between the different floors. You can waste a whole lot of room in building a stairway, or you can put up one like this in very compact space. No other kind of house stairway will reach an attic so economically as this one, and there is no cheaper way to get into the cellar.

Second Floor Plan.

Builders often forget that they must provide headroom for a stairway, and that a one-story stair takes space on two floors; but the up-and-down combination embodied in the present plan gives and takes at each landing, so that the headroom question is reduced to a minimum, and the spread of the stair is less than with almost any other arrangement. Another advantage is that when you reach the attic the landing is under the high part towards the center, so that, even in the upper story, the headroom question is taken care of by the natural slope of the roof.

First Floor Plan.

When you look at this house and consider its size, you wonder how it is possible to get four bedrooms in this amount of space. Of course, you have an advantage in working with a square plan; it can be laid out better than any other style of house as regards the relative location and arrangement of rooms.

Old-fashioned builders never could get a cellar deep enough to stand up in. It is difficult to say whether their economical ideas on space were responsible, or whether they wanted to get the house right down to the ground to prevent frost working in. Years ago, when furnaces were not plentiful, there might have been some excuse for low, dark cellars; but with our advanced knowledge of building houses and our facilities for keeping them comfortable, we have done away with many old-fashioned notions.

We can now make a cellar high enough to sport a plug hat in, and we can partition off a cold room in one corner for fruit; we can build a laundry on the sunny side, and still leave room for a good furnace near the center, where it will work to best advantage.

The proper arrangement of the cellar depends a good deal upon the direction in which you face the house. A north front provides a possible layout to best advantage, because you naturally want the fruit room in the

Two Died to Save a Dog.
Miss Elizabeth Gaskill, fifty-four years old, and Miss Jennie Robinson, twenty, servants of Miss Richmond of Kendal, England, were drowned at Rhos in attempting to save the life of their mistress's dog. Miss Richmond had taken a house at Rhos for the winter, and the two servants were on the promenade watching the rough seas when they saw that the dog, venturing too close to the edge of the promenade, had been caught in the backwash of the waves. Miss Robinson, attempting to save the dog, was herself swept away. Miss Gaskill tried to rescue her companion, and the two women, clinging to one another, were both drowned.

Artist in Haste.
M. Hellen, the French portrait painter, who is in New York, delights to tell of an incident that occurred a few years ago in Paris. "A certain artist," M. Hellen says, "advertised he would draw a perfect likeness of any one in 15 minutes. I went to see him, and agreed to have my picture drawn. He did not know me. He set to work and after ten minutes showed me the completed work. 'It was not bad, but in fun I said, 'Huh, I think I can do that just as well, and in less time.' The man becoming angry, challenged me. We exchanged places, and in about five minutes the sketch was finished. The man looked at it, looked at me and exclaimed, 'You must be either the devil or Hellen!'"

Truthful Police Aid.
The youngest informer in the history of the St. Louis (Mo.) police department was revealed when Stella Schwartz, seven years old, told the police that her sweetheart, Roy Chester, eight years old, had stolen more than $1,000 from a neighbor. She said Roy crawled through a window of the home of Joseph Toniskieljovic and stole $800 in money hidden in a can, a gold watch valued at $20 and $240 in notes. Roy admits that until recently he was Stella's "sweetheart," but says that they quarreled, and he does not "care for her any more."

Curiosity.
"Come quick—look!"
"What is it?"
"There goes a railroad president who has never been indicted."

Straighten That Lame Back!

Backache is one of Nature's warnings of kidney weakness. Kidney disease kills thousands every year. Safety is only certain if the early warnings are heeded while help is possible. Doan's Kidney Pills have helped many thousands to get rid of backache, strengthen weak kidneys and regulate bladder and urinary disorders.

Don't neglect a bad back. If your back is lame in the morning, if it hurts to stoop or lift, if the dull aching keeps up all day, making work a burden and rest impossible—suspect the kidneys. If the urine is off color and shows a sediment; if passages are irregular, too frequent, too scanty, or scalding, this is further proof. There may be dizzy spells, headaches, nervousness, dropsy swellings, rheumatic attacks, and a general tired-out, run-down condition.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the remedy that is publicly recommended by 100,000 persons in many different lands. Doan's act quickly, contain no harmful nor habit-forming drugs and are wholly harmless, though remarkably effective.

Cured After Doctors Gave Up Hope.
H. R. Hatch, 2516 Cedar St., Everett, Wash., says: "I doubt if any one ever suffered more than I did with kidney complaint. My back was so bad I could hardly walk. The least jar or mis-step, caused twinges that fairly made me groan. I dreaded to stoop for I knew what I had to suffer when I had to straighten up again. There was generally a frequent desire to urinate, but at other times the secretions were retarded, dark in color, almost like blood and pained terrible in passing. The doctors said I had but a short time to live. As a last resort I began to use Doan's Kidney Pills and rapidly grew better, and at last was completely cured. I have remained in good health ever since."

ECZEMA IN RED BLOTCHES

205 Kanter Ave., Detroit, Mich.—"Some time last summer I was taken with eczema. It began in my hair first with red blotches, then scaly, spreading to my face. The blotches were red on my face, dry and scaly, not large; on my scalp they were larger, some scabby. They came on my hands. The inside of my hands were all little lumps as though full of shot about one-sixteenth of an inch under the skin. Then they went to the outside and between and all over my fingers. It also began on the bottoms of my feet and the calves of my legs, and itch, oh, my! I never had anything like it and hope I never will again. The itching was terrible. My hands got so I could scarcely work. I tried different eczema ointments but without results. I also took medicine for it but it did no good. I saw the advertisement for a sample of Cuticura Ointment and Soap and sent for one. They did me so much good I bought some more, using them as per directions, and in about three weeks I was well again. Cuticura Soap and Ointment entirely cured me." (Signed) Benj. The Count at Home.

"Yes," remarked the returned tourist, with a reminiscent smile, "I was constantly bumping into old friends and acquaintances while abroad. Went into a fashionable barber shop in the Rue de Saint Gerard, in Paris, and whom do you suppose I met there?"
"Oh, I'm no good at guessing," said his friend. "Who was it?"
"The Count de Pompadour, who cut such a swell at Atlantic City last year."
"Let's see—you and the count didn't mix very well. Did he condescend to speak to you?"
"He certainly did. The moment I entered the tonsorial parlors, he caught my eye and bowed and smiled and said, 'Monsieur is next.'"
