I Do Not Think I Ever Felt Much Better

have taken four bottles of Peruna, and I can say that it has done me a great deal of good for catarrh of the head and throat. I recommend Peruna to all sufferers with catarrh. I do not think I ever felt much better. I am really surprised at the work I can do. I do not think too much praise can be said for Peruna.

Lloyd's Misty History.

Now that Mr. McKenna is looking to Lloyd's for a substantial contribution to the revenue from war profits. It is interesting to recall that the greatest maritime institution in the world is named, not after a financier or shipowner, but after a humble coffee-house keeper. Of Lloyd's history, says the London Chronicle, little is known beyond the fact that he kept a coffee house in Lombard street at the beginning of the eighteenth century, which, from its proximity to the Royal Exchange, came to be the favorite assembling place of the underwriters.

The first mention of his house occurs in a poem, "The Wealthy Shopkeeper," published in 1700: When to Lloyd's coffee house to go he never fails To read the letters and attend the sales. In 1710 Steele dated some numbers of the Tatler from Lloyd's and Addison also makes mention of the house in the Spectator.

SMALL HOUSE AT REASONABLE COST

Cottage That Has Every Requisite for Health and Comfort of Inmates.

PLANNED IN BUNGALOW STYLE

Living Room, Dining Room and Kitchen All on the Sunny Side of the House—Interesting Features That Will Appeal to the Housewife.

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD. Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only enclose two-cent stamp for reply.

In the East the word cottage generally means a one-story house with a hip roof of rather low pitch.

It is a popular way to build a small house at reasonable cost, and at the same time to incorporate sufficient tone to command respect.

The accompanying perspective and floor plan shows this type of house built for a rather narrow lot, so that the dimensions are somewhat different from the eastern type.

This design shows a very pleasing approach from the street. The broad concrete walk and front steps leading to the wide front door all combine to present a liberal invitation to friends and acquaintances with the suggestion that a sociable latch string hangs out.

Instead of building a veranda clear across the front of the house, as formerly the fashion now leans in favor of sun parlors. The idea seems to be that a porch or veranda is comfortable and useful in summertime only, and then comfort is frequently interfered with by numbers of aggressive evening visitors, commonly called pesky mosquitoes.

The sun parlor presents a series of close-fitting screens to exclude undesirable insects while the windows are open in the summertime to admit the cool air of evening. In winter the shades are closed and this comfortable little sun parlor is bright and cheerful when the sun shines and it is made comfortable at other times by electric lights and a steam or hot water radiator.

House repair work shows that the greatest wear on the floors is between the stove, the sink, the pantry and the cellarway. Starting with these data architects have labored to reduce these lines of travel to the shortest possible dimensions and at the same time crowd all of the necessary conveniences into this restricted space.

The finish of a modern kitchen is designed and carried out as carefully as the finish of any other part of the house. Modern kitchens are made as light and attractive as possible. Very often the woodwork is finished in white enamel and the walls are made white and washable. Wall paper has no place in a modern kitchen. The wall must have a hard, glossy, sanitary finish and there must be no cracks large enough to admit little red ants or insects of any other dimensions.

Not only the comfort of the housewife, but the health of the family, depends on kitchen sanitation. The first law of sanitation is light and sunshine although cleanliness really is a part of this first rule. When a kitchen is made light, the walls and ceiling hard and washable with a well-laid hard wood floor, then cleanliness follows easily.

The laundry in this plan is under the kitchen and there is an outside cellarway for convenience on wash days. Every housekeeper is particular to have the clothes hung outdoors when weather will permit. The outside cellarway, in combination with a good outside clothesline, means a great deal in helping to produce snowy white linen.

Bedside Library. "Start a bedside library," says Doctor Oaler to young physicians, "and spend the last half-hour of the day in communion with the saints of humanity." The advice might be taken with good results by many others. Instead of thinking over the cares and troubles of the dying day, let the tired worker have the books read a page or two of his "bedside library" and lie down to pleasant dreams.

Balm for the Preacher's Son. "I do not support the proverbial theory that all ministers' sons are good for nothing," says Mrs. Freda Kuppel, the short grass widow. "My first husband was a preacher's son, and I was able to put up with him a year and eight months, whereas my second mate, the son of a railroad conductor, received his passports after a residence of 14 months."—Kansas City Star.

Cotton Waste Has Value. In Lancashire, England, the cotton waste has an annual value of $75,000,000. This vast sum is represented by far-ends and sweepings and pickings and combings. Thousands of women are employed to divide this stuff into good, middling, and bad, and it is sold at various prices for different purposes—papermaking, matting, surgical wadding, and, most of all, the making of shoddy.

Disparagement. "I hope you never talk about your neighbors," said the exacting friend. "I never do," replied the frivolous woman. "They're an awfully uninteresting lot."

DIDN'T IMPRESS HIM MUCH

But Listener Was Ready to Admit That He Heard the Sermon Under Difficulties.

A new minister in a rural district who wished to make the acquaintance of the members of his congregation, and also to discover whether they were pleased with his discourses, met an old farmer whose face he recognized as one who had attended the church the previous Sunday, and, stopping him, said: "Mr. Brown, how did you like my sermon last Sunday?"

"Well, parson," replied the old man, "you see, I didn't have a fair chance to judge. Right in front of me was old Miss Smith and the rest of that gang with their mouths wide open just a swallerin' down all the best of your sermon; 'n' what reached me, parson, was purty poor stuff, purty poor stuff."

Excellent Notion.

"There are now in existence so many societies for the prevention of so many different things, and so many more being formed all the time for the prevention of other things," said old P. G. Pester, "that it would be a good idea to inaugurate a few societies for the prevention of societies for the prevention of things. This could be carried on and elaborated until we had societies for the prevention of societies for the prevention of everything; somewhat on the order of torpedo boats and torpedo-boat destroyers. Then after the last society had done its duty we might abolish it and have a period of rest for the weary."—Kansas City Star.

Gautious.

"Our romance began in a most romantic way. My wife saved me from drowning. She's a magnificent swimmer, you know."

"But you never go out beyond your depth."

"No, not any more. I don't know if she would save me again."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

A Tight Squeeze.

"New shoes, eh? Pretty nifty. They must have cost you at least ten dollars. Do they pinch your feet?"

"No, but they pinched my week's salary."

Appropriate Gift.

"How could old man Smith afford to give his daughter so many stocks for a wedding present?"

"I guess they came from his 'war brides' speculations."

A coachman may not attend church, but he drives a good many others there.

IS FRENCH ROBINSON CRUSOE

Castaway on Lonely Island Discovered by Party From Armed Merchantman.

Defoe's story has had a number of interesting parallels in real life, but none so strange as the story of the French Robinson Crusoe. He was discovered by a party from an armed merchantman, while searching for the Koenigsberg when it was hiding up the Ruffig river, in German East Africa. The party landed on the Alabra island, which is about 400 miles east of Zanzibar. The episode is related by a midshipman of the party, who tells how, when they approached the island, a boat put off to meet them with a white man in it who proved to be the only white man on the island, says London Tit-Bits.

To the amusement of the party, when they reached the shanty refreshments in the shape of coconut milk were handed to them by a gigantic black man, a veritable Friday of real life. The Frenchman and the negro were living an absolutely Robinson Crusoe existence, and the midshipman relates how the former never wept with joy when they offered him a cigarette. He had little knowledge of the outside world, beyond what passing ships brought. He did not even know that Turkey was at war, and the last news he had was that the Formidable was sunk. "The only papers he had," says the midshipman, in his letter, "were two copies of 'Tit-Bits' of 1913 and one Pall Mall Magazine of 1911. He informed us that he had read these over and over, until he almost knew them by heart. When we offered to send him papers, tobacco, etc., from the ship, he did not know how to thank us."

Apparently this French Robinson Crusoe earned money by keeping turtles, and the midshipman relates how he showed them about sixty of the largest turtles he had ever seen in his life, and on leaving he made them a present of a live turtle which had been caught, weighing about 350 pounds.

POOR EXCUSE.

Thomas Mott Osborne, warden of Sing Sing, said at a luncheon in Newport: "This laying of all one's crimes and transgressions at the door of heredity disgusts me. If we sin, we ourselves are to blame. To blame heredity is false and foolish."

"These heredity blamers are like the chap who said to the dun: 'We can't escape domination of early-formed habits. In my infancy my parents hired a young nursemaid to wheel me about in a baby-coach. And ever since that distant time, alas, I have been pushed for money.'"
