BEEF PRODUCERS' DAY

The fourth annual beef producers' day at the Agricultural Experiment Station at Lincoln will be held Wednesday, May 17. The different lots of cattle which have been on experimental rations will be on exhibit at that time. The experiment which has been conducted this year takes up, among other interesting problems, the use of cottonseed meal and Tarkio molasses feed for finishing fattening steers. Further experimentation has been done in regard to the value of corn silage in a ration for economical beef production. This year's experiment also included a comparison of the relative feeding values of shelled corn and ground corn.

The Nebraska Live Stock Feeders' Association meeting will be held at 10 a. m. the same day. The officers say that it is important that as many Nebraska live stock feeders as possible attend this meeting inasmuch as questions vital to the economical handling of market animals will be considered.

SUMMER HANDLING OF MEAT

Meat that has been smoked slowly for at least four or five days is in the best condition for summer keeping. Ordinarily a smokehouse is the best place for storing meat until extreme hot weather sets in. Meat will keep in the summer where it is cool, dark, dry, well ventilated, and free from flies. It may be wrapped in paper and muslin and buried in the oat bin. Some farmers have obtained satisfactory results by packing it unwrapped in clean, granulated rock salt. The smoked meat will take up little or no salt from the packing, and the rock salt does not collect the moisture that common salt does. Ventilation, dryness, and freedom from flies are the most important things to be considered in successful keeping of smoked meat.—College of Agriculture.

GALPIN TO COME

C. J. Galpin, one of the best known rural community life workers in the middle west, is to be one of the speakers of the Rural Life Conference to be held at the College of Agriculture from June 14 to 23. Professor Galpin not only has studied rural life conditions in many portions of the United States and in Europe, but has contributed much thru instruction and research work toward the advancement of rural community interests. For the past five years, Professor Galpin has been in charge of the Department of Rural Sociology at the University of Wisconsin, and has been responsible for the annual rural life conferences in Wisconsin similar to the one to be conducted in Nebraska.

HANDLING ALFALFA FOR HORSES

To make the best horse hay, alfalfa should be allowed to stand until well in bloom, according to the College of Agriculture.

In cutting horse hay it is well to keep in mind that the dust which is present in so much alfalfa is largely a result of the presence of foreign moisture such as rain or dew at making time, rather than the presence of a little moisture within the plant.

If alfalfa hay is stored in the barn for horses, it is well, while mowing it away, to sprinkle it generously with a mixture of salt and air-slaked lime, equal parts.

RHUBARB CONSERVE

The following recipe for rhubarb conserve is suggested by the Home Economics Department of the College of Agriculture: Four pounds of rhubarb, five pounds of sugar, one pound of seeded raisins, two oranges, and one lemon. Wash and peel the stalks of rhubarb and cut into one-inch pieces. Put into a kettle, sprinkle with sugar, and add raisins, grated rind, and juice of oranges and lemons. Mix, cover, and let stand for one-half hour. Place on the stove. Bring to the boiling point. Let simmer for 45 minutes, stirring almost constantly. Pour into glasses and seal.

RATIONS FOR DUCKS

A suggested list of rations for ducks and ducklings has been prepared by the Poultry Section of the College of Agriculture, Lincoln, and may be had upon application. It is suggested that it be tacked up for reference.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Chamberlain's Catarrh Remedy, manufactured by Chamberlain & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the inflamed and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.
