Farm Notes.

Issued by the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

AUGUST SWEET CLOVER SEEDING
If sweet clover is to be seeded in the fall, it should be done early in August. The early fall seeding will permit sufficient growth to prevent winter killing, according to Extension Bulletin No. 22 of the Nebraska Experiment Station. In general, the same preparation of the seed bed should be given to sweet clover as for alfalfa. The rate of seeding is 20 to 25 pounds of the hulled seed per acre, and at least 5 pounds more of unhulled seed should be used. The seed may be sown broadcast and covered with a smoothing harrow set rather slanting or else with a grain drill with the grass seed attachment. In either case the seed should be covered not more than about three-fourths of an inch deep. Farther information concerning the value of the crop and the character of the plant may be secured by asking the bulletin department, University Farm, Lincoln, for the bulletin on "Sweet Clover in Nebraska."

BLOOD RINGS
If you are having trouble with the quality of your eggs, the College of Agriculture recommends that you investigate the condition and determine the cause. Are you allowing the males to run with the hens? If so, the eggs produced are fertile. Fertile eggs develop to blood rings within 48 hours under hot weather conditions. Such eggs are unfit for food and are thrown out by the candler.

INFERTILE EGGS are produced when the male is removed from the flock. Such eggs will keep seven days or longer under the same conditions and still be usable.

PRODUCE INFERTILE EGGS and you should receive a better price for better quality.

ENGINE TROUBLE
Engine trouble can be traced to one or more of the following reasons, according to the Department of Agricultural Engineering of the College of Agriculture:

POOR COMPRESSION, caused by a leaky spark plug, leaky valve cap, leaky valve, leaks past the piston, tappet arms adjusted too closely, sticky valve stem, and broken spring or valve.

POOR IGNITION, caused by a broken spark plug, points on spark plug too close or far apart, poor batteries, poor insulation, poor contact points, and weak magnets on magneto.

POOR CARBURETION, caused by water in gasoline, carburetor out of adjustment, leaky manifold, clogging of gasoline pipe, and carburetor too cold.

OVER HEATED MOTOR, caused by poor compression, carbon, too late ignition, and poor water circulation.

DRESSING THE BROILER
In preparing a spring chicken for broiling, remove the backbone, neck, and keel bone. The backbone and neck may readily and easily be removed at one time. Hold the bird, breast down, and with the use of a sharp knife, insert the same thru the back and cut along each side of the vertebral column. Remove the neck in like manner and leave the viscera plainly exposed for immediate removal. The keel bone should be removed by first cutting around the outline of same from the inside. Then gradually scrape the flesh away leaving the skin underneath unbroken. The bird can then be laid perfectly flat for broiling, and when perfectly prepared there should be no incision to show.—College of Agriculture.

MARKET NEWS SERVICE FOR POTATO GROWERS

Daily market quotations for potato growers in western Nebraska will probably be issued by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and county agricultural agents during the shipping season this fall. This sheet will contain telegraphic reports concerning the prices of potatoes at the leading markets. These daily quotations, if issued, may be had by applying to the county agricultural agent in your county or to the Extension Service, College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

DAKOTA CITY-SALEM
Determination is one of the powers which made men go. It is a thing men admire. The "I will" man is most likely to be first there in the affairs of men, and the one possessed of such a spirit many times sees others stand back and watch him do his stunt. It is a spirit which is born of a real desire to accomplish. Others know that the possessor of the spirit means business.

God honors such a spirit in men when they walk in the way in spite of rough roads, in spite of oppositions and calamities. Oh yes, there are men and women who do just that very thing. Because things look calm and easy is no assurance that it is smooth to the bottom. A man was drowned in the river last week in a place which appeared all right, but a fisherman from that part says that no swimmer could swim those under currents. If a man is moving up stream it is evidence that he wants to get there. If he just wants to go he could float down stream. If a man serves God in spite of his friends as well as his enemies, it is the most powerful evidence to men and God alike that he Does Prohibition Prohibit?

Testimony of Two Reputable Witnesses of Des Moines, Iowa

The First Witness:

Extract from an editorial which appeared in The Des Moines Evening Tribune of June 6, 1916:

"The Evening Tribune has asked a half dozen men recently who ought to know, and they agree that liquor can now be bought openly at more places than when we had saloons."

The Second Witness:

Extract from a news article, prominently displayed on the first page of The Des Moines Capital of February 19, 1916:

"Des Moines banished the saloons a year ago last Wednesday.

"But Des Moines today is consuming liquor at the rate of a million dollars' worth a year—mostly whiskey.

"Des Moines is receiving two carloads of liquor a day.

"This is at the rate of 750 carloads a year or fifteen trainloads of fifty cars each." * * *

Here we have the testimony of two responsible Iowa newspapers that Statewide PROHIBITION does not prohibit.

In Nebraska, under our Local Option, High License Law, the people of any community are granted an opportunity to say whether or not license shall be issued governing the sale of alcoholic beverages.

In future articles we will present evidence proving that Nebraska, under that law, has made great progress from a moral as well as from an economic standpoint.

is really in earnest. He may have a row boat while another goes in a motor boat, they may think that he is slow, and these going down stream may think that he is foolish to plod up stream, but just the same there is a fighting spirit there which makes the man work. And when a man walks the way of God and has to fight his way all along, to him Jesus says, "There is no power that is able to snatch you out of my hand." That is a most blessed assurance to the saint beset with difficulties. Job's wife said, "curse God and die." But he said, "Thou speakest as one of the foolish women speaketh." And he held on, "He that honors me I will honor" and when a man honors him because of a specific determination; and against odds, there is a double portion of blessing for him. There is no doubt as to the man's inmost desires and motives. He makes his life manifest in his deeds.

Our Salem S. S. keeps up well in spite of the hot weather, and the boys and girls are continuing to do well at staying for church. This is an excellent indication of the real interest of the young folks in the work of the church. They come when their seniors do not come, and sometimes that includes parents. A little child shall lead them. That makes a bright prospect for the future of the church.

Our young men's catechism class is progressing nicely.

We are sorry to lose Nettie House from our S. S. teaching force as she goes to Kansas City.

The wind storm damaged some of the trees on the parsonage property and one in falling cleaned away a part of the kitchen chimney also injuring the spouting and roof.
