Fred A. Wood returned Saturday from a week's visit at Woodbine, Iowa.

Mrs. R. L. Smith, formerly Pearl Wilson, is visiting at the H. H. Blair home.

George Coughtry was down from Emerson Friday night, visiting relatives in Salem.

Edgar Ayres returned Thursday from a several months' sojourn at different points in Colorado.

Kide Ream moved Monday from the Leedom house to the Wm. Lorenz house in the east part of town.

Mrs. R. L. Pegley visited last week at the Chas. Ostmeyer home in Morningside, returning here Sunday.

Attorney R. E. Evans returned last Thursday from Columbus, Ohio, where he had been attending to legal business for week.

Married, at the Lutheran parsonage on Monday, October 2nd, Paul Robert and Mrs. Jennie Tate, both of Sioux City, Rev. C. R. Lowe, officiating.

W. L. Ross and wife returned last Wednesday night from a tour of South Dakota. They accompanied Ed L. Ross and wife of Homer, who made the trip in their auto, and were looking for a farm location.

Some parties drove a Ford car into Geo. E. Heikes' door yard Tuesday with the machine on fire. They soured the thing with water, putting out the flames, and after doing a little repair work went on their way.

S. A. Stinson's store was burglarized Saturday night and the cash register rifled of a couple of dollars in pennies. Entrance was gained by prying open a cellar window. Nothing of value was missed except the pennies taken from the till.

The attachment suit tried before Judge McKinley Saturday, in which Mrs. Belle Barnett had levied on the household goods of Mrs. H. E. Walker to secure the payment of a board bill, was decided in favor of the plaintiff. The defendant gave notice of appeal.

Frank Haase, republican candidate for senator from this district, was down from Emerson last Thursday night looking after his campaign interests. Mr. Haase has a wide acquaintance in the district, and with his ability and fitness for the office, will carry the district by a rousing majority.

Henry W. Lahrs met with a serious accident Tuesday forenoon when he slipped and fell against a granary, breaking his arm between the shoulder and elbow. He was taken to St. Joseph's hospital and an X-ray picture made, which showed the bone badly splintered. It may be necessary to use a silver plate to fasten the broken bone together.

The Dry Federation arranged a tour for this county for Tuesday, October 10th. A corps of speakers will arrive here at 10 o'clock on that date and will hold a session here at 10:30. A meeting will be held at Homer at 1 o'clock; at Hubbard at 3 o'clock; Jackson at 5 o'clock and South Sioux City at 8 o'clock. Music and singing will be an addition to the program of speaking. All are cordially invited to these meetings, and those interested in the dry movement are earnestly solicited to boost for these meetings.

The Dakota City Bears took the Sioux City champions, the Hunt & Schuetz team, into camp Sunday by a 6 to 3 score. Beckhoff, pitching for the Bears, was in big league form and should have had a shut-out to his credit, as the visitor's scores were all made on blunders by the home team. He struck out 14 men, allowed five hits, one pass, and hit two batters. Williams for the visitors fanned 12 men, allowed six hits and passed four batters. The game was played in a fierce wind which handicapped the fielders to some extent.

An extension of four miles was added to route one from the Dakota City postoffice by the postoffice department, the same taking effect Monday. The extension takes in the river road running north from the northeast corner of the townsite to the school house east of the Buckley and Graham corner where it intersects the former route. So far nine patrons are getting service from the new route, a couple of them being former patrons of the South Sioux City route. A blunder was made in establishing the extension, as part of it is not laid out as a public road—there being no established street on the north side of the Dakota City cemetery.

WILLIAM W. ARMOUR

Pioneer of Dakota county, whose death occurred September 26th, at Humboldt, Iowa, mention of which was made in last week's Herald. Funeral services were held in Sioux City last Thursday, and were conducted by the Masons. Burial was made in Logan Park cemetery.

County Agent's Field Notes

BY A. H. BECKHOFF.

Two more farmers have started cooperation with the county agent and Dakota County Farmers' Association in the feeding of hogs, with especial reference to hogging down corn and the use of the self feeder for tankage.

Every once in a while we come across a man who is feeding his lot of market hogs on corn alone with not even the run of an alfalfa field. This method of feeding will attain the end sought alright, but has proven to be too expensive when compared to a more balanced ration where the protein is furnished, even in what we term a high priced feed.

We mention tankage at this time because it is one of the best protein feeds and while it may be expensive, it is also very rich in protein and considering the results obtained it is really the cheapest protein concentrate. It is for this purpose that we put on these cooperative tests, to show that the farmer can get the same results with these feeds that they do at the experiment stations and in many cases do even better.

Pigs that are on full feed and fed a balanced ration will cost more for feed in a certain length of time, but will also make greater gains than those not, and in the end the cost per 100 pounds of gain will be less where fed a balanced ration.

Many people are hogging corn, which from most any way you view it is an excellent practice and to use a self feeder for the concentrates permits the hog to balance his own ration, which he will often do better than one could do for him.

Only one new case of cholera has been reported in the last ten days and a common remark heard this fall is that there doesn't seem to be much cholera around. Let's keep it this way.

Three cases of tetanus or lock jaw in pigs and calves have come to my attention the past week, one of sufficient severity to cause quite a heavy loss. A couple of these animals were taken as a clinic before a meeting of the association of veterinarians in Sioux City last week, the majority of whom had never seen tetanus in swine. No satisfactory remedy could be offered, was the general opinion.

Quite a good meeting was held at Goodwin last Tuesday evening despite the bad weather. Your County Agent discussed the care of swine up to the fattening period, when Mr. Warner, of Lincoln, spoke briefly on quality and quantity of feeds to be given.

Lutheran Church Notes

DAKOTA CITY-SALEM

Yesterday I read an article in a popular magazine telling how and why the rural churches were dying. He quoted from the report of some federal inquiry board that had spent a "whole year" investigating the matter. We are glad indeed the reason is found at length by the federal board, and now the church, the poor church that is hopelessly behind the times, and does not have sense enough to manage its affairs with modern business methods, and which follows an antiquated and thoroughly outgrown theological system, can sit up and take notice, and right the wrongs within her, now that the federal doctors have diagnosed the case and prescribed the penec which will cure all the ills of the church, and then; O you millennium, long looked for and longed for! wash your face and put on clean white garments, and be ye ready, O ye people, for the coming of righteousness. But this righteousness like the earthquake of Elijah, will have the Lord in it.

The remedy for the decadence of the country church, is the "socialization" of the church, if I may use that term. Make the church a social center, have the preacher be a social leader, let him be the agricultural advisor of the community, let him be the helper of every man in need of a hand, and so forth. With such a program either my friend Beckhoff or myself would be out of work in the spring in the Salem community. All I can say is that the church still has an edge on the farm by the same federal inquiries, for while there are but about 35% of the rural churches that are making progress and as many more which are holding their own, there are only about 17% of the farms paying interest on the investment and wages to the farmer besides, and that in the face of the state and federal experiment stations and direct federal and state aid for county field agents who are experts in all lines of agriculture. Let your hat come off to the church, please, and you will find the pastors of the rural churches about as expert in their line as the ordinary run of specialists.

The trouble with these investigators and magazine writers is they do not know what the church is for, they do not understand the work of the church, and they get their information from a lot of people who, though all right in the way of the world, have little or no sympathy with the church. It is the same old tale of the carnal minded trying to discern the things of the spirit. We must say these informers throughout the country are enemies of the church, not openly antagonistic, of course, but sympathetic.

The church is not a social organization, it is a spiritual body. The work of the church is not to be a social leader, primarily, but to be a spiritual leader. The field of the church is not the feed lot nor the plowed acres, but the hearts of men, the riches of the church is not counted in gold and silver, but it is the riches of the soul. If the social and agricultural features of the community are to enter into the work of the church, they are not to be there as the primary objects, but as secondary and helpful to the spiritual end. We have Field Agents in communities to advise and help in purely business affairs, and the fact is that most of the farmers know more about the things of the farm than the preachers know, and why shouldn't they, for that is their business and not that of the preachers. What the church people want is not worldly advice—lots of people in Dakota county will not receive Mr. Beckhoff's advice in agricultural affairs, but they want the Gospel of Jesus Christ. They want religion preached, and upheld, they want the touch of the Infinite. If social and educational features can be used for the furtherance of the church they are all well and good, but if they cannot be made to serve the end of the christian religion, it is just as well to leave that work to agencies that are cut out for that work especially. It is a mighty pity that 100% of the rural population are not interested in the church. It is likewise a pity 100% of the population are not wise managers of their worldly affairs, but it is a fact.

Emmanuel's Aid society will meet with Mrs. Paul Kinkle next Wednesday.

The Loyal Workers will meet at the parsonage next Saturday.

The pastor closed the first year's work at Dakota-Salem September 30. We will publish the annual report next week. Synod meets the 18th to 22nd at Omaha.

REV. C. R. LOWE.

M. E. Church Notes.

During the five Sundays in October the pastor is giving a series of childrens addresses at the Sunday morning services. These have the general title of "Five Lessons from the Sea." Next Sunday the subject will be "Unseen Influences." Two prizes are being given for the best written account of one of these ad-resses. Any one may be chosen. This will be open to any under 16 years of age.

C. S. B. What do these letters stand for? They will be prominent every Sunday morning. And every week you will see more of them. It is a great honor to be a member of the C. S. B. When you see others bearing these letters you will want to know all about it. When you know all about it you will ask for a C. S. B. badge.

About the last Sunday in October or the first in November we are to have a great home-coming gathering. Everybody who has ever had anything to do with our Sunday school or church will be invited. Arrangements are in the hands of several committees now and will be shortly announced.

A Boost for McAllister

What a republican newspaper, the O'Neill Frontier, whose editor, Mr. Cronin, was with McAllister in the 1913 legislature, says of Mr. McAllister. Here it is:

"J. J. McAllister of Dakota City was an O'Neill visitor on legal business last Friday. Mr. McAllister was a member of the legislature of 1913 and was one of the most influential members of that body. While Mr. McAllister is an ardent democrat he is not so blindly partisan but what he can see the good in members of other parties and would support any measure, no matter from what party it emanated, if he was convinced that it would be for the benefit of the people of the state. During the 1913 legislature he was an ardent and enthusiastic champion of state water power, desiring that such legislation should be enacted as would prevent private corporations from securing control of water power sites. He made a splendid fight for the measure, and that he lost was not through any fault of his. Men of his ability and rugged honesty should be kept in the legislature, as their services is of incalculable benefit to the people of the state."
