DAKOTA CITY-SALEM

We all enjoyed the address on Christian Education, given by Dr. Peery, president of our Midland college at Atchison, Kans. It would be a good thing for our young people, and incidentally for the college, if he could come oftener, or some one from there to speak on such a subject and talk Midland. The pastors over the field can do a good deal, it is true, but the occasional visit of some one from the institution helps much. The doctor was much pleased to hear the old Midland yell at our Salem-Sunday school.

Will we have any students for Midland? Of course we will. Just wait till we are ready. Seed, Midland, "Sunflower seed" is being sowed and you know that sunflowers generally grow, and where there is "mush and milk" to feed on it is bound to be well fed and can hardly die. Now, parents, if you ask the boy or girl who comes to our Friday night practice any one of them will tell you that this "Mush and Milk and Sunflower Seed" stuff is, for it is one of our college yells. It may be a little loud, hilarious, but when you are training boys remember you can't train a boy as you would train a full grown man. That is when we sometimes make a mistake. To be "seen and not heard" is good but you must temper it by "being heard and not seen." A young man has to shout and be hilarious, because his blood is rising, he feels the inward pressure of life, that is what makes ambition and action. Don't squeak it but direct it. It is much harder, but it is much better for the child. So we are directing to our Midland college the young folks in a young folks way. Indeed, we'll have some Midland students, they are in the growing. We will have to have some years yet. A few pass quickly. Dr. Peery's canvass secured $375 for the endowment fund.

It is a very short time until we have jolly old Santa Claus sound his Klaxon, for he is up to date here in Nebraska, and if some of you have done your Christmas shopping early you have probably heard the sound already. At any rate we are getting ready to receive him at the Sunday schools. Such fine weather don't seem like Santa's kind, but we can shovel a lot of coal in twenty days. However, we will be glad to see him in any kind of weather.

The Board of Education program will be given by the Emmanuel Sunday school and at Salem we will render "Glory to the King." This is based on the finest music in the world, and we think it is very beautiful. You will enjoy it.

Christmas day is Board of Education day. That is the day we make an offering for education, and while Dr. Peery's words are clear in our minds we will make a good offering.

Next Sunday, December 10th, we will celebrate the Lord's supper at the churches. Let us be glad and rejoice in it. At that time we will speak on the necessity of receiving this sacrament. Let no one think it an optional matter in his Christian life. It was not given us to treat it as we please nor for the man who is without sin, but to common, stumbling men for our use and benefit. If the weather continues fine we ought to have a good turnout.

The Thanksgiving services were quite well attended, and Bro. Aucock preached an excellent sermon. The offering of $3.65 has been disposed of and it may be learned how by asking Rev. Aucock or myself.

A new flue was put in the Emmanuel church last week. A stove will be put in the ante room of Salem church this week and we will do our preaching out there. We can heat it easier, quicker and cheaper. It will be advantageous in other ways. The well on the parsonage premises is to be fixed soon.

REV. C. R. LOWE.

The high school football team, accompanied by nearly a hundred rooters, went to Walthill last Thursday to play the high school team of that place. The Dakota City team outclassed the Walthill boys, and run up a score of 27 to 0 in the first half of the game. Walthill insisted on putting in three college men, and Dakota City refused to play with any outsiders, so the game ended there. It is better, in the long run, for a team to be on the square, even though they lose.

M. E. Church Notes.

Sunday school next Sunday at 10 a. m. We are slowly but surely making our school efficient. The primary department is well organized with Mrs. Sherman as superintendent. The Sunday School Board decided last week to supply the department with primary chairs. This will greatly help the work and will be of benefit to the little ones. Our school now lacks but little of what a well organized school should be. If we can use the organization wisely and well we will be able to do a good work. It remains for each officer to put life and power into the machinery.

Farm Notes.

Issued by the University of Nebraska College of Agriculture.

NEBRASKA WOMEN TAKE HINT FROM HUSBANDS

Nebraska women are going to take a hint from their husbands this winter and spend some time comparing notes with each other during Organized Agriculture week when they will gather at the University Farm, Lincoln, to attend a three-day session of the state home economics association.

The program for this meeting, January 16, 17, and 18, is now in the making, and includes Miss Florence Ward, of the states relation service of the United States department of agriculture, who is in charge of extension work with farm women in 33 northern and western states. The program will be completed about December 15, and will be furnished on request.

Among subjects to be discussed at this gathering will be extension projects, such as woman county agent work, girls' sewing and cooking club work, etc. All women of the state are invited.

A NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTION?

It is time to begin planning a New Year's resolution to keep books on the business of farming, says the farm management extension service of the University of Nebraska.

Nothing along the line of farm records gives so much in return for the time spent as a farm inventory; for it shows not only the profits for the year, but enables the farmer to make a thoro study of his business. For those who own their farms, January 1 is probably the best time to make an inventory; for tenants, the date of the lease is most satisfactory.

Blanks for making a farm inventory may be had upon application to the Extension Service, University Farm, Lincoln.

FEEDING MOLLY CORN

Feeding molly corn to horses often causes blind staggers or similar diseases, says the college of agriculture, Lincoln. Several fungi are known to be responsible for mold, according to the agricultural botany department. As molly kernels are lighter than water, they may be separated from the sound ones by placing the grain in water, and skimming off the kernels that rise to the top. Mixing molly corn with bran and oats appears to lessen danger to animals that consume it. Specimens of molly ears may be sent to the agricultural botany department, University Farm, for examination.

WINTER IS "CONDITIONER"

Drinking an abundance of water or consuming large quantities of watery fruits and vegetables helps to keep the body in good condition, partly because the water dissolves and carries away waste and poisonous products, says the home economics extension service of the college of agriculture.

Colds, especially in their first stages, fevers, constipation, and many other afflictions are checked to some extent by drinking large quantities of water at moderate temperatures. Except in cases of heart trouble or contracted kidney, there is little danger of excessive drinking of water at reasonable temperatures.

GRAPE AND CURRANT CUTTINGS

Early in December is a good time to make your grape and currant cuttings, says the department of horticulture of the Nebraska Experiment Station.

The best grape cuttings include two or three buds and are from seven to twelve inches in length. Currants do best when cut from six to seven inches in length. The cuttings can be stored in the cellar in bundles, pecked in sand. In this way they will callus so that roots will form readily when they are planted in the spring.

GREEN STUFFS FOR WINTER

Many green things of the summer garden may be had for little cost even in the winter if one takes a little time to care for a hotbed, says the horticultural department of the University of Nebraska. Hotbeds at the university farm are doing fine, and it is expected that there will be plenty of lettuce to offer for the Christmas trade. While the growing things in cold frames were killed during the recent zero weather, everything in the hotbeds came thru in good condition.
