

Registration Day for Women

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION
We are engaged in the greatest war of all time. The outcome virtually depends upon the effectiveness of the participation of our country and upon the effectiveness of that participation rests our future as a nation.

It will not suffice that we merely send an army to fight side by side with the armies of our allies. We must mobilize the millions of our people who remain behind, for such service as they can render. Nebraska has set an enviable example in effective cooperation with the federal government in all things calculated to further our country's interest in the great struggle, and no class of people is sacrificing more unselfishly than the noble women of the state. In a brief period of time thousands of the finest and most stalwart young men to be found in any nation will represent Nebraska in the army of our country. Nothing must be left undone that will promote their comfort or conserve their lives and energies.

In order that this end may be accomplished and the efforts of the thousands of women (many of them the mothers and sisters of our soldiers) be effectively coordinated, I, Keith Neville, governor of Nebraska, at the solicitation of the patriotic women of Nebraska, designate Wednesday, September 12, as registration day for women, and upon which day and date they may register for such service as they are willing to render throughout the present emergency.

The foregoing proclamation of the governor makes September 12 the day for all women of the state to present themselves at the polling places for registration for war service. Every woman is able to give some small portion of time to relief work, either at home or abroad. If she is a busy woman she can promise one hour a week at least, to be used in making bandages, visiting the sick, caring for children whose mothers have added responsibility during the war period. An office girl can promise one hour's assistance each week in typing. The time spent in home gardening can be regarded as war service if it adds to the food conservation. The registration cards will be kept in the counties where they have been signed and when the United States government has calls for women physicians, nurses, clerks, stenographers, a glance at the tabulated list will show what assistance can be secured from Nebraska. Two hundred thousand registration cards are being shipped to Nebraska for September 12.

Mrs. (A. E.) Margaret E. Thompson Sheldon, Chairman Dept. of Registration, Woman's Committee, Nebraska State Council of National Defense.

War Conditions Affecting Telephone Service

For the information of those who may desire to know of the conditions facing the telephone industry at this time, the following statement is issued by the Nebraska Telephone company.

Since the very beginning of the war, the government's requests for telephone equipment have had precedence over private requirements and government telephone calls have had the right-of-way over all private messages.

At an expense—in the aggregate hundreds of thousands of dollars—comprehensive telephone systems have been provided for training camps, and lines of communication have been installed between military headquarters, mobilization posts and commissary depots. Telephones and special lines have also been supplied for the troops at bridges, grain depots and other places being guarded.

In addition to the government's use of our service, increased business activity incident to the war has placed further demands upon our telephone facilities. We are handling over 30 per cent more long distance calls than we did before the war and the number of local calls, particularly in the larger cities, has increased greatly.

The long distance telephone facilities out of the city of Washington have been more than doubled since the war began and in all the principal centers both the local and long distance equipment has been greatly increased in an endeavor to handle the heavy telephone burden caused by war activities.

Nearly 3,000 skilled telephone engineers and maintenance men from the Bell system alone have been organized into signal corps battalions for service with the armies in the field. Many more of our men are with the national guard and in other branches of the country's military service.

The situation confronting us has caused great difficulty in getting and installing equipment for the most urgent private needs. Our long distance facilities are loaded to their utmost capacity and our local service in some localities is suffering on account of the conditions over which we have no control.

As the war continues the government's requirements for trained telephone men and for service and equipment are increasing. The present business activity is also likely to be extended as the war goes on. In the interests of all, we hope that our patrons will ask for no additional equipment unless absolutely essential to the conduct of their business and that they will put every possible restraint on the unnecessary and extravagant use of our local and long distance service.

THE SIGN OF THE RED CROSS

Millions and millions of stricken people in devastated Europe must depend on the activity of the Red Cross society alone for the most meager necessities of life—just enough to keep body and soul together. The Red Cross organization is the universal helping hand. But in order to extend this hand to the sorrowing and afflicted, it must have your support. In fact, if you would do your part to relieve the suffering in the world, you can do it most directly and efficiently through the Red Cross. Become a member today. Give one dollar—two dollars—five dollars—as much as you can.

Never Hold a Party-Line Telephone Over Five Minutes

When two or more telephone users are on a party line, each is entitled to equal service.

The telephone company would save work if party lines were used by one party for long periods. That, however, would be unfair to the others on the line.

It is not a kind act to compel your neighbor on the party line to wait more than five minutes unless your conversation is very important.

A call for a doctor or an important business transaction may be delayed by your holding the line.

"Do unto others as you would have them do unto you" is a good rule.
