OUR RED CROSS IS NOT AIDING ENEMY NATIONS NOWADAYS

Patriotic Americans who have been helping the Red Cross have of late been making anxious inquiries as to whether the humanity and the neutrality of the Red Cross would constrain it to send food, medicines and hospital units to Germany.

"I want to give to help our boys, and the stricken people of France and Bel-gtum and Serbia," many a one has written in; "but I don't feel like doing anything if the Germans get part of it."

Americans need be under no apprehension. Not a cent of Red Cross contributions is going to Germany, or has gone there since the war was declared by the United States. General Pershing has gone to Europe to convey to the kniser Uncle Sam's compliments in the form of shells and American bayonets, but the Red Cross has no part in that except to care for such of General Pershing's men as may need care.

The matter of sending Red Cross supplies to Germany was brought up in the recent Red Cross war council in Washington, Charles D. Norton, one of the members, answered inquiries thus:

"The answer is exceedingly simple. We do not purpose to be tried for treason. We do not purpose to lend aid and comfort to our enemies. We mean to attend our own American Red Cross affairs."

Former President Taft, who is chairman of the executive committee, supported this view. He said that when wounded Germans fell into the hands of the American Red Cross they will get the same treatment as our own men; but that it would undoubtedly be treason to send supplies to Germany as we did before we were forced into the war.

So Americans can give freely, knowing that every cent is for our own and our allies' wounded, and not for the enemy.

Red Cross Trench Work.

Red Cross surgeons and orderlies give first aid to the wounded in little underground dressing stations in the front line trenches. In these dark, wet places, cold and ill-ventilated, it is sometimes necessary to perform major operations-such as an amputation, for instance. War records in France show that as many Red Cross workers as infantrymen are killed by enemy fire in the trenches. Red Cross field service

Uncle Sam is calling for a Red Cross fund of $100,000,000 to enable the Red Cross to give the proper care to the sick and wounded, the homeless and the desolate when his men get into the fighting in earnest. New York city has promptly pledged itself to "raise one-fourth of whatever sum is needed," and is now collecting the money. Chicago will be asked for something between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000, the levy based on population and credit rating.

The feeding of new corn to any Carl Anderson's. animal should always be attended with extreme care. Most years shortly after beginning the use of this feed to hogs, reports of hog cholera become more prevalent, until many farmers have been led to week believe that it is the immature corn that causes the disease. This can hardly be true, since hog cholera is produced from a specific germ. New corn should be fed in moderation together with some other grain or old corn.

The Department of Agriculture advises the selection of seed beans directly from the field. The object is not merely to secure those that have made a good growth and shown themselves to be unusually prolific, which are always factors in seed selection, but to get seed free from antreenose. This disease is readily recognized by reddish brown spots on both the leaves and the seeds.

Necrosis or bull-nose is a disease of hogs becoming more common each year. It characterizes itself by lumps generally over the snout, but may be found on other parts of the body or even along the alimentary canal, causing a thickening of the walls of the intestine. Several affected herds have been found by the writer during the summer, the worst of these having some fifteen or twenty pigs with the disease. In-ternal treatment has but little value. While in the early stages, applica-tions of tincture of iodine to the swollen part every three or four days may prove helpful or the swell-ing may be opened during the early stages and after removing the pus, apply with syringe, as solution of glycerine fifteen parts, carbolic day of last week, after a several acid one part. Yankee Ingenuity.

In all of the American Red Cross hospitals and American ambulance stations in France are to be found ingenious contrivances to save the lives and limbs of badly maimed soldiers. One such apparatus, apparently a tangle of weights and pulleys and rubber bands, holds up the legs of a patient whose lower limbs have been broken in three or four places by shell explosion, and prevents the bones from growing together improperly. Another, which looks like a mass of small rubber drain pipes suspended from a bag, irrigates deep wounds which have become infected and which must be constantly drained and cleaned with an antiseptic solution if the patient's life is to be saved.
