Nineteen More Dakota County Boys Join the Colors.

The third increment of drafted men to leave Dakota county for the training quartette at Camp Funston, Kans., departed Wednesday morning over the Omaha. There were nineteen men in the squad. Following are their names:

- Nick Van Der Griend.
- Joseph Sedlacek.
- Ora Williams.
- Charles J. Konagel.
- Otto Lester McGavran.
- Atlee Chappelle.
- Harry A. Williams.
- Frank A. French.
- Thorvald W. Rasmussen.
- Henry H. Ropken.
- John Thomas Bryce.
- John Giesbers.
- James Joseph Harty.
- William E. Brady.
- Mark M. Saltzgriver.
- Harry H. Frederick.
- John Greweock.
- John W. Simmons.
- Howard T. Middleton.

Alternates—

- Joseph Henry Johns.
- John Popeaves.
- Charles Fricken.

Howard T. Middleton was called as a substitute, but in the absence of Earl Ficken, one of the regular men listed to go, he requested permission to take the place of the absentee, although he was not the next in line.

The Red Cross society entertained the boys at a social gathering in the court house hall Tuesday evening. Judge R. E. Evans and Rev. C. R. Lowe made interesting talks to the assemblage, after which the ladies served ice cream and cake.

A large number of friends and relatives of the boys accompanied them to the train to bid them goodbye and good luck.

The Red Cross ladies presented them with comfort kits, also a purse of money with which to buy refreshments while en route to their destination.

M. E. Church Notes.

F. J. AUCCOCK, Pastor.
 Special attention is called to the change of hour for the evening service. Beginning with Sunday next the time will be 7:15.
 The pastor will preach at both services next Sunday.

FARM PROFITS.

Do favorable or unfavorable climatic conditions determine them? Yes, but more often the proper application or misapplication of generally recognized farming principles evolved by successful farmers and breeders and the government experiment stations. Farmer and Breeder is a compendium of the best ideas and successful methods employed by successful farmers and breeders. It is issued semi-monthly at Sioux City, Ia., and deals with farming conditions as they are here found. Its subject matter is strong and appeals both to the farmer and stockman. You want to farm profitably—every intelligent farmer does. Farmer and Breeder will help you to do this and more, too.

Splendid Offer.

Special arrangements have been made which enable us to offer Farmer and Breeder and The Herald both for one year for only $1.00. Save money by letting us have your subscription now. Don't let our remarkable offer pass without taking advantage of it. Every subscriber to Farmer and Breeder is entitled to free consultation with its special service department on any branch of farming and stock raising.

It was unrelievedly reported in the Eagle last week that Henry Dewain Loomis, one of the boys from Homer who went with the contingent of soldiers to camp Funston on the 19th, had failed to pass the physical test and was on his way home. From Mr. Loomis' letter to the Herald family in this issue it appears that he is still at Camp Funston, and likes soldier life fine.

The state managership for the Pledge Card campaign under the Food Administration has been given to S. R. McKelvie of Lincoln. Mr. McKelvie is organizing the state by districts, with sub managers for each congressional and senatorial district. The campaign will be held during the week of October 21 to 28, when Food Administrator Wattles and Manager McKelvie aspire to get 250,000 Nebraskans to pledge themselves to assist in conserving Nebraska's food resources. Pledge cards will be delivered into the home of every Nebraskan. "Everyone can and will sign one of these pledge cards," says Mr. Wattles. Nebraskans are willing to do their bit, and they are going to do it. The signing of a card involves this pledge: That every Nebraskan will assist, so far as able, to help conserve food products. Elimination of waste is the principal end, though much food can be exported by Nebraskans using perishable foodstuffs in place of wheat.

Four New Serial Novels Announced By the Journal and News

Four brand new novels by authors of national reputation as story tellers will be published serially in The State Journal and Lincoln News according to an announcement just made by these papers. The first of these novels is "The Secret of Lonesome Cove," by Samuel Hopkins Adams and the others to follow are: "The Sign At Six," by Stewart Edward White; "The Flying U's Last Stand," by B. M. Bower, and "Chloe Malone," by Fannie Heaslip Lea. These authors will be recognized as those listed by the standard magazines of the day as the big names in fiction. These serials will appear in these papers before January 1. As a trial offer the Daily Journal or News, including these serials, will be mailed until January, 1918, for $1.00, or with The Sunday Journal and its colored comics, magazine feature, etc., for $1.50.

Mrs. Hannah Antrim Answers Final Summons

Surrounded by her devoted children and relatives, Mrs. Hannah Antrim, for nearly half a century a resident of Dakota county, passed peacefully away at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Carl Ream, in this place last Friday afternoon, September 28, 1917, of ailments incident to old age.

Hannah Jeffrey was born near Tonbridge-Wells, England, July 12, 1832. She came to America with her parents when three years of age, and settled near Quincy, Ill. She was married at Quincy in 1861 to Caleb M. Antrim, and later moved to LaSalle county where four of their children were born. They came to Dakota county March 10, 1873, and located on a farm three miles south of Hubbard. Two children were born here, one of whom died in 1893. Her husband passed away—September 12, 1905.

She was a life long member of the Methodist church, and her home was always open to ministers of all denominations, especially in those days when traveling was not so convenient. Her kindly disposition and even temperament made her a host of lasting friends who will cherish her memory in their hearts as one who knew no wrong.

She is survived by five children—Charles H. Antrim and Mrs. Elizabeth A. Ream, of Dakota City; Mrs. Emma E. Gallagher, of South Sioux City; Caleb J. Antrim, of Greenleaf, Ida, and Rev. Edward T. Antrim, of Meadow Grove, Neb.

Funeral services were held Sunday from the M. E. church at Homer Sunday afternoon, conducted by Rev. J. L. Phillips, of South Sioux City. Interment was made in the Grove Church cemetery west of Homer, near where she had resided for twenty-five years when the family first came to the county.

Card of Thanks.

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the friends who so kindly assisted us in the sickness and death of our dearly beloved mother, Mrs. Hannah Antrim, and for the beautiful floral pieces.

CANCER A BLOOD DISEASE

Dr. O. A. Johnson, who has been pursuing scientific cancer research for a number of years was among the first investigators to announce cancer as a blood disease. The doctor has published a new illustrated book in which he explains the cause of cancer and describes symptoms in various locations and stages of development. Also many reports of cases treated during the past 17 years are given in evidence of the success of his method of treatment, which is entirely non-surgical. This valuable book ought to be in the hands of every cancer sufferer. For a free copy address Dr. O. A. Johnson, Suite 530, 1320 Main St., Kansas City, Mo.
