DAKOTA CITY-SALEM
REV. C. R. LOWE.

The thing of greatest interest at Salem the past week was the every member census. It was conducted last Sunday afternoon by three units of four or five men each. From the reports we have received the work was satisfactory. It is a pleasure to work in companies and when all goes well. It is a cause of gratitude and thankfulness to God that the church work goes on smoothly and easily.

There will be no preaching services next Sunday in the churches, for the pastor will be absent at Synod. There will be Sunday school.

One of the finest things in the world that money cannot buy is friendship. And yet we do not get it for nothing. It comes because we are friendly ourselves, and acceptable as such. A man who was once well respected and had many friends has since "gone bad." He lives in the old community and instead of being a man among men as he was when I knew him, he has no friends, he is a skulker among men and hates to meet them. The loneliest place in the world is right where you are if you are without friends. The fellowship and mutual regard is a boon to a man and without it life would be tiresome.

Friends have to be cultivated. They are as any other good thing. A young woman once said to me, Mrs. C. don't like me very well. "Why, don't you make her like you? Go over to see her. Help her with her dishes, or whatever you may find her doing. It will open her heart. Of course your own spirit will have to be bonafide but you will find it will work. O, yes, you will have to spend some energy or make a bit of condescension yourself, but if you want her friendship you can do that." The young woman did not do it, the which showed how much she cared if Mrs. C. didn't like her. It is at least a very interesting experiment and is worth all it costs you just to watch developments, to say nothing of the friend you will gain.

But the finest thing in this line is christian friendship. It is something superior. We are commanded to be tenderly affectioned one toward the other, to love one another. We are to be scrupulously loyal to our own indeed but to be tenderly affectioned one to another. This can be accomplished in Christian circles because of the mutual love of Christ, and because it is pure. If such a spirit obtained with all christian people what could the devil do against the church?

Christian friendship is holy and altogether beautiful, there is no suspicion, no cause for any, and the highest regards, gentlest courtesies and finest considerations one for another. This is part of our inheritance in Christ, part of our riches in grace. A good thing to seek after.

The name of Olive Larsen was unintentionally omitted last week from the list of those who were enrolled on Emmanuel's Sunday school cradle roll.

M. E. Church Notes.

F. J. AucocK, Pastor.

A unique and beautiful service will be held next Sunday. We are calling it a "Harvest Home Festival." We intend decorating the church with the many products of our rich soil. Corn, small grain, apples, pumpkins, vegetables, all will find a place. Will you bring to the church next Friday or Saturday some exhibits of your farm or garden produce? We will label them with your name and use them in the decorations. This is not merely said to our own members, but any who read this notice are invited to exhibit. Services will be held Sunday at 11 and 7:15, when special harvest sermons will be preached.

Then on Monday at 8 p. m. we will have a social hour together to talk over the exhibits. Light refreshments will be served.

A week from Sunday is "Veteran Preachers Day." Special preachers will be here to speak of the new vision we have as to our duty to the old veteran of the Cross. Rev. G. M. Bing, of Laurel, will preach at 11, and Rev. Basil Truscott, of South Sioux City, at 7:15. The pastor goes to Norfolk.

We are arranging two interesting services for October 28 and November 4. The first day the ladies will have entire charge of the service, and the second day the men will have entire charge.

FARM PROFITS.

Do favorable or unfavorable climatic conditions determine them? Yes, but more often the proper application or misapplication of generally recognized farming principles evolved by successful farmers and breeders and the government experiment stations. Farmer and Breeder is a compendium of the best ideas and successful methods employed by successful farmers and breeders. It is issued semi-monthly at Sioux City, Ia., and deals with farming conditions as they are here found. Its subject matter is strong and appeals both to the farmer and stockman. You want to farm profitably—every intelligent farmer does. Farmer and Breeder will help you to do this and more, too.

Splendid Offer.
Special arrangements have been made which enable us to offer Farmer and Breeder and The Herald both for one year for only $1.00. Save money by letting us have your subscription now.
