Sioux City Journal, 7th: Fred Bartels, of Hubbard, Neb., a well known stockman, was on the day's market with two double decks of ewes that averaged 114 pounds that sold at $12.00, extreme top price for the day and season. These offerings have been on ensilage since last fall and show a good gain in weight. Mr. Bartels stated that practically all his corn was soft and that in order to get the best use of it he cut it green and put it into his silo and that he has realized a greater profit than any of his neighbors.

Wakefield Republican: Miss Luers, of Wayne, spent Sunday at the home of Henry Kohlmeier. H. P. Plans for the extension of the city limits of South Sioux City so as to include the railroad bridge and the new Burlington shops were left in balance last night at the meeting of the city council. Resolutions were passed favoring the plan because of the added income it would bring to the city, but no definite action was taken, according to Henry Crane, a member of the council. A resolution was passed requesting the Sioux City Service company to move the switch on the street car line now placed between Eighth and Ninth streets, a block further up, so as to relieve the congestion at that point and also to give better service.

Sioux City Journal, 9th: Nadine V. Shephardson and Olive A. Leamer, of Homer, Neb., visited in Sioux City yesterday. A search of the premises of William Robertson in South Sioux City yesterday afternoon resulted in the seizing of a large quantity of home canned goods and tools alleged to have been stolen from the home of W. M. Duckson. Robertson was arrested in Sioux City and turned over to Sheriff George Cain, of Dakota County. The goods seized by the sheriff included many cans of preserves and canned fruits and vegetables which had been stored in the basement of the Duckson home. It is believed that they were stolen last month while the Duckson family was visiting at Storm Lake. The goods were identified yesterday by Mr. Duckson. Robertson and his wife, who was arrested when the seizure was made, will be arraigned for preliminary hearing today before Judge S. W. McKinley, of Dakota City. Robertson is employed as a driver by the Dougherty & Bryant Storage company, of Sioux City. Mrs. Marie Herman yesterday was granted an absolute divorce from her husband, Fred Herman, wealthy Dakota county, Neb., farmer, by Judge Guy T. Graves at Dakota City. Mrs. Herman, who alleged cruelty and asked for a division of the estate estimated as worth $100,000 and the custody of their 15-year-old daughter, Helen Herman, was allowed $15,000 alimony, and she was given the child. The sensation of the trial, which had been in progress for the past two days, was sprung yesterday morning when Mr. Herman took the witness stand and declared that Charley Sierk, of Sioux City, his wife's brother-in-law, was interested in the case. He said Mr. Sierk insisted on paying his attentions to his wife, in spite of his protestations. He asserted, also, that his wife's relatives were conspiring to rob him of his property. A half dozen other witnesses testified during the afternoon, but none of them had anything to say concerning the alleged intimacy of Mrs. Herman and her brother-in-law. All of the evidence produced after Mr. Herman abandoned the stand related to valuation of the estate.

LAST CALL FOR SEED CORN

This is probably the last appeal that the state council of defense, agricultural college, or other authorities will make to urge farmers to secure their supply of seed corn. At the present time the state council of defense is maintaining an embargo preventing the shipping of Nebraska seed corn outside of the state. So many appeals have come from other states, however, asking for assistance in meeting the seed corn situation that it seems probable that the embargo will have to be lifted soon. But before this is done, the agricultural college and the state council of defense want to make sure that there is an adequate supply for Nebraska's own needs. There remain just a few days for every farmer to make sure that he has a sufficient supply. In case he has not yet secured enough seed corn, or in case he has not the supply tested, he should call on his county agent, the college of agriculture or the state council of defense at once.

EXEMPTION OF FARM LABORERS

Under the selective draft rules local boards make classifications only on the basis of dependents, and then recommend deferred classifications on the basis of skill in farming. The actual classification of skilled farm laborers is left to the district boards. A skilled farm laborer is a man skilled in the ordinary work of the farm, and need not be a college graduate. The assistant secretary of agriculture recently pointed out that it was up to the people in each community to make proper representations to the district boards when it is desired to have farm laborers exempted.

BEAN GROWERS MUST HURRY

To date the food administration has received contracts from growers for less than 15,000,000 pounds of pinto beans. This is far below the response that was anticipated when it was announced that the food administration would find a market for the beans and take the entire output at eight cents a pound. Unless signed contracts from growers are received for several times this amount of beans within the next few days the plan will not be successful, and growers and shippers will lose the benefit of the food administration publicity and introductory campaign for pinto beans. The beans have proved a splendid crop for western Nebraska and success in disposing of the present crop means much to the developing of the industry in that section. Growers should get contracts at once from their county agents or send to the Bean Section, U. S. Food Administration, Denver, Colo.

POULTRY BULLETIN

"Wartime Poultry," emergency bulletin No. 26, is just off the press and available for general distribution. It discusses in a popular way the handling of poultry on a profitable basis at the present time. Free copies may be obtained by addressing Bulletin Clerk, University Farm, Lincoln, Neb.

A revised edition of "Use of Hog Serum," extension bulletin No. 33, has just been published and is also available for free distribution.

THE HOG HOUSE

Shelter is essential, especially if the sow is bred for early farrow, according to animal husbandry extension specialists. The hog house should be comfortable, that is, it should be dry but not dusty, well ventilated but not admit drafts, and it should have plenty of sunshine. Keep the hog house clean. Disease breeds in filth. Avoid narrow doorways, slippery floors, and high sills. They may mean dead pigs at farrowing time.

NO MONEY WANTED

No matter how good your money it cannot make peas and beans unless you spend your work with your money. Our government is rightly determined to have grain and meat for the soldiers who are protecting us. Our Nebraska boys are faithful to us in the drudgery, monotony, and mud of the trenches. It remains for the Nebraska woman to be equally faithful and industrious in the home trenches, producing and consuming more vegetables, fruit, cheese and poultry products. If you are a "grandstander," you are not merely a slacker, you are a traitor. —Woman's Committee, Nebraska State Council of Defense, Department of Food Production.
