M. E. Church Notes

By Rev. F. J. Aucock. Next Sunday morning at 11 a. m., the Rev. F. J. Aucock will preach his farewell sermon in this church. It is hoped that a large congregation will be present. Conference convenes next Tuesday at University Place under usual conditions. With about eighty ministers short—most of them engaged in special war work—the placing of the men will tax the wisdom and skill of the cabinet. We are sure that they will do the best they can but a lot of disappointments are due both to men and charges. A chance to share a man with Homer seems to be our best policy. The quarterly conference last Sunday consented to the arrangement as a war measure. It is probable that such a plan will be adopted. Following is the list of elections for the ensuing year. In each case the first mentioned will act as chairman except where the pastor is chairman by virtue of his office. Stewards: H. H. Adair (treasurer), Mrs. R. E. Evans (recording), Mrs. Jennie E. Ross, Mrs. Forbes, Mrs. S. A. Mason district. Trustees: A. H. Baker, R. E. Evans (secretary), H. H. Adair treasurer, W. H. Orr, G. F. Broyhill, S. A. Mason, T. Lindsay, L. Blanchard, J. Stading. On Benevolences: S. T. Frum, W. H. Orr, Don Forbes, Mrs. G. F. Broyhill, Mrs. Cain. On Hospital: Mrs. W. H. Orr, Mrs. S. A. Mason. Church Records: Mrs. Mary McBeath, Mrs. Ross. Auditing: Miss E. Z. Nebraska Judge Now Endorses It

Hon. B. F. Whittington Has Gained Twenty Pounds By Taking Tanlac.

One of the distinguishing features of the introduction of Tanlac thru-out the country is the large number of prominent men who have felt it their duty to disregard precedent and come forward with their unqualified endorsements of the medicine because of the benefits they have derived from its use.

The latest addition to the list of prominent endorsers is the name of Hon. Benjamin F. Whittington, judge of the Rolston Court, South Omaha, Neb. In relating his experience with Tanlac Judge Whittington said:

"The results of Tanlac in my case certainly seem wonderful to me. Before I began taking it my health was broken in many ways, and I did not know which way to turn for relief. My liver was all out of its, I was habitually constipated, and bilious. I was so frightfully dizzy most of the time that I could not stoop over for fear of falling. My kidneys were all out of order, and in bad shape, and I had fearful pains in the small of my back. My appetite seemed to be fairly good, that is I could eat; but my food did not seem to be properly assimilated. Sleep failed to rest me, and I felt tired, languid and worn out all the time. I was pale, and not only felt badly but looked that way. I had been in this condition for a year, and was becoming badly worried because nothing seemed to reach my case.

"I had fallen off twenty pounds in weight, as a result of my troubles, but I have gained it all back by using Tanlac, and have never felt better in my life. I decided from what I read in the papers about it to try it; and I felt like a new man before I finished my first bottle. So I went right back for another and so on until I took five bottles, and now I haven't an ache or pain and am feeling great. And eat, my gracious! I eat like a farm hand, all I can get, I never saw anything like it. I sleep like a log, and get up in the mornings thoroughly refreshed and feel brim full of energy all day long. All the time I was taking Tanlac I was doing three men's work, and improving at the same time. Now this is just what Tanlac has done for me, and I gladly give this statement for what it may be worth to others who are trying to find relief."

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy.—Adv.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

C. R. Youngs, County Agent. Last spring when many of our farmers were so much concerned about good seed corn we heard a great many men vow that they would never allow another autumn to pass without gathering and hanging up before frost a sufficient amount of seed corn for their own planting. From all appearances, we are being blessed this year with a season as favorable for maturing corn as last year was unfavorable; so that with our labor shortage and the busy life which farmers always live at this season of the year we cannot help but wonder how many of our people are going to forget their vow. For several reasons the neglecting of such a vital part of the years work is a sad mistake. First, the time required to go through the field and select the necessary amount is but little. Second, the stalk can be studied in that way as well as the position in which the ear hangs. Only good ears hanging downward from sturdy stalks, with a fair leaf area should be chosen. Ears which point upward are usually late maturing and apt to mold. Too heavy stalks with a large leaf area are signs of late maturity. Third, by early selection it is possible to always work towards early maturity if the most matured ears are gathered. Fourth, freezing always more or less hurts corn for seed that contains moisture. By early gathering and drying this can be reduced to a minimum. Early-picked seed should be husked and dried at once. Any means of caring for the corn which allows for a free circulation of air will be found satisfactory. Never place seed-corn in a pile until it is thoroughly dry, even then, racking or hanging will be found superior. "Blood-lines" are as important in corn as in animal breeding. When you select from the wagon or crib you do not know but that ears chosen may have come from a thin section of the field or an extra fertile or moist place which may be of no special credit to the corn. Seek to know your "blood-lines." While a heated seed room, where temperatures do not fall below freezing is best, yet good results can be obtained in any dry building. Avoid hay-mows, hog or cattle sheds, damp basements, or other places where there is steam or other moisture. Warm rooms without an abundance of ventilation are to be avoided unless the corn is thoroughly dried. The placing of seed close to a roof without plenty of ventilation often causes moldiness. Corn is maturing early this year and will be in good condition for gathering during the second week in September. Every farmer should plan sufficient time for this most important work of the year.

What The Packers Do For You

Not very many years ago in the history of the world, the man that lived in America had to hunt for his food, or go without.

Now he sits down at a table and decides what he wants to eat; or his wife calls up the market and has it sent home for him. And what he gets is incomparably better.

Everyone of us has some part in the vast human machine, called society, that makes all this convenience possible.

The packer's part is to prepare meat and get it to every part of the country sweet and fresh—to obtain it from the stock raiser, to dress it, cool it, ship it many miles in special refrigerator cars, keep it cool at distributing points, and get it into the consumer's hands—your hands—through retailers, all within about two weeks.

For this service—so perfect and effective that you are scarcely aware that anything is being done for you—you pay the packers an average profit of only a fraction of a cent a pound above actual cost on every pound of meat you eat.
