County Superintendent Voss is out again, after a two weeks' siege with influenza.

Louis Pedersen was down from his place near Hubbard last Thursday on business.

Jas. McAllister and wife expect to move to the Chas. Londergan farm west of Hubbard in the near future.

George W. Carter, jr., son of Conductor Geo. W. Carter of Omaha, was married in Sioux City Saturday to Miss Zeta Hart of Ponca. They will reside at Omaha.

Mrs. Otto Smith and three children left last Thursday for their home in Cincinnati, Ohio, where Mr. Smith is employed as chemist for Proctor & Gamble.

Peter Andersen is advertising his public sale in this issue of the Herald. He has sold his farm in Hubbard precinct, the consideration being $165 per acre.

Don't forget Wm. P. Warner's big farm sale to be held on his home place Friday of this week. All his horses, cattle, farm machinery, seed grain, poultry will go at this sale.

The board of county commissioners were in session the first of the week checking out the retiring treasurer, J. S. Bacon, whose semi-annual report is published in this issue of the Herald.

Clyde Crego and Tom Ream went to Scholes, Neb., last Friday to husk corn for John N. Ream. On account of building and other work, Mr. Ream was unable to get his large corn crop gathered.

George Sanford is able to be about again with the aid of crutches, after being laid up for several months with a broken ankle. The accident occurred at the Consumers Ice plant at Crystal Lake.

I still have a few good, young Duroc Jersey boars for sale at prices that mean bargains for anyone in need of something good. Come and see them. Crystal Lake Stock Farm, J. B. Evans, Proprietor.

Auctioneer H. O. Dorn was in town Wednesday en route to the F. L. Graves place to cry a sale, and while here placed an advertisement in the Herald for the Caloric furnace, which he is handling with such good success.

Dean Cornell is advertising his public auction sale in this issue of the Herald. The sale is to take place Tuesday, January 28th, on his farm one mile north of Goodwin. Dean has decided to quit farming, this being his reason for selling out.

Eugene Loomis was up from Homer last Thursday on business. He had just heard recently from one of his boys in France, Norman, who was in a hospital recovering from wounds received in action. His son Dewain, is also in a hospital there recovering from wounds.

J. P. Beacom is advertising his big public sale of Duroc-Jersey hogs in this issue of the Herald. His sale will be held Saturday, February 1st, at Hubbard. Mr. Beacom certainly has a wonderful collection of pure bred hogs which are to be put up for sale on this date.

Fred Edgar has gone to Rochester, Minn., where Mrs. Edgar has been for some time with her sister, Mrs. A. B. Rich, who is being treated at the Mayo Bros. hospital for goiter. Mr. Rich and two sons returned to Clay Center, Neb., where Mr. Rich is principal of the schools.

When you read the balance sheet of the retiring county treasurer, Justin S. Bacon, in this issue of the Herald, just notice the amount of excess fees turned in for the year 1918, over and above his salary and clerk hire—$953.01, which is credited to the county general fund. Not many county treasurers have been so economical.

The Odd Fellows at their meeting Monday night, installed the following list of officers for the coming term: Noble grand, Bert Brasfield; vice grand, W. C. Snyder; secretary, Guy G. Lutheran Church Notes

By Rev. C. R. Lowe.

There ought to be general rejoicing among the Christian people of the country and those who are interested in the welfare of the nation at large over the adoption of the prohibition amendment to the constitution of the United States. You can remember a few years ago that it was thought to be an impossible task, and it was then, but the public sentiment moves fast in this country when it gets under headway, as has proven in the last two years in more than one way. It may be too much to expect that there will be an absolute prohibition, but it will be so near it that it will pass for such. A dry Iowa has been a great improvement over the wide open one, even in Sioux City, where the law has been enforced laxly. A federal law against counterfeiting does not work absolutely, but well indeed, and we will look for this one to work well. And just this week has come the news of the supreme court's upholding of the Reed bill which prohibits the shipping of wet goods into dry territory, and the country can thank Iowa's senator, Mr. Kenyon, for that, since it is really his bill.

It is said that the government will lose a lot of revenue with the coming of a dry country. We do not say it was dirty money anyhow, for up to this time it has been held the best way to manage the traffic. The government will be well able to afford this loss since it makes for better citizenship throughout the land, and the drink bill in the pockets of the people which amounts to several times the whole governmental expenses every year, can be got some other way. We expect to pay the expenses of the government, and the loss of revenue can be made up very easily.

The things which have brought this about have been many. One of the principal things is the moral elements of strength, not to say the religious, that has entered into the fight. It is essentially a moral matter. In this the Christian forces have entered with a good deal of heartiness. Some, it is true, have been lagging and half-hearted, but it is always so with all good things. We can thank God for the victory, and while this is not the sign of our entering into the millennium, it is going to help in the coming of the kingdom of righteousness. There ought to be a jubilee of some sort, a public demonstration when this new amendment is declared a part of the constitution.

There ought to be tightening up of the Christian loyalty of all Christians. The watchword of the day is service and loyalty. The spirit of the times is to take a man for what he is worth and what he does, and not what he professes. This same thing will come into the church whether we will or not, and why should it not? Some pressure ought to be brought to the membership of the churches to make them realize this thing in their religious lives. The church is beginning new work and life. All of them, and that will call for new activity on the part of the membership. We have all been trained in the matter of interest in the other fellow, and this ought not to be lost to the church. A man's religion is measured by the way he conducts himself. Faith, which is the basis of salvation, must bring forth good works. "Fruits meet for repentance." And that is not only the way man judges, but it is the way God judges, "judged according to the deeds done in the body," tho' not on that as a basis. If a man is a Christian he ought to do as Christians ought to do. He ought to be a true worshipper, for God must be worshipped in spirit and in truth. If we own His name, we ought to worship Him; if we profess to follow we should go as He leads. If we are His, let us be His right, and do His will, and be interested in His things. Fifty-fifty religion does not go with God or man.

The offering for the Syrian relief at Salem amounted to $52.33, and one or two have promised to contribute, who are to be heard from. Homer, $3.

Selection of Wall Paper
In making a selection of wall paper ask yourself several questions about each pattern and see if it will not eliminate the majority of them and make the selection easier, suggest University of Nebraska home economics extension workers. Is it beautiful in itself or is the design or color or both ugly? Will it lie back quietly on the wall or will it shout aloud for attention as soon as you step into the room? Is it in accordance with the purpose of the room or do you have a bedroom paper on your living room walls? Last but not least, will it be harmonious with the room and its furnishings in color, pattern and scale? As a rule walls in soft light shades of color are best because one is able to better keep together all the various rooms in a dwelling, for it allows employment in such rooms of a greater variety of color. A color of this sort is also restful and one does not tire of it easily.

TEXAS PHYSICIAN

TREATS 1400 FLU CASES IN MONTH

DR. J. W. SANDLIN HAS FOUND TANLAC TO BE GREAT REMEDY FOR HIS PATIENTS.

The following letter from Dr. J. W. Sandlin, one of the most prominent physicians of Southern Texas, has been received at the Tanlac office and gives indisputable evidence as to the value of Tanlac as a reconstructive tonic for persons who are recuperating from the after effects of Spanish Influenza. His letter follows:

Humble, Texas, Nov. 5, 1918
"Dear Sir:
Just a few lines in reference to Tanlac. I have found your preparation to be a wonderful reconstructive tonic, and in my opinion it has no equal in its line. I have found it to be the best tonic to be had to build up my patients who have had Spanish Influenza. I have treated within the past month about 1,400 cases, and have never been able to get sufficient Tanlac to supply our people.

Yours very truly,
(Signed) Dr. J. W. Sandlin.
Dr. Sandlin not only enjoys a very large practice as a physician, but also he is a man of wide influence and ranks as a leading citizen of the enterprising little city of Humble, Texas.

As a practicing physician of sixteen years' experience, Dr. Sandlin was quick to recognize the superior tonic properties of Tanlac over other remedies and unhesitatingly and voluntarily gave Tanlac his unqualified endorsement.

Although the Influenza epidemic greatly subsided for a short time, it is today breaking out anew in its very worst form from one end of the country to the other and continues to claim its victims by the thousands.

According to late reports, over 350,000 people have already died from the disease.

Persons who have had Influenza are oftentimes left in a very weakened, run-down condition and unless the greatest care is taken, both as to habits and diet, serious complications are apt to follow. If you are in this condition nothing on earth will build you up and strengthen you like Tanlac, as is clearly proven by the experience of Dr. Sandlin and other well known physicians who are using it so successfully in their daily practice.

As a reconstructive tonic and body builder, Tanlac is without an equal and contains the very elements needed by the system to restore you to your normal strength and weight and to fortify your system against attack.

In connection with the Tanlac treatment it is necessary to keep the bowels open by taking Tanlac Laxative Tablets, samples of which are included with every bottle of Tanlac.

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by Shanes Pharmacy, and in Homer by Wagner Pharmacy.
