LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE IF SICK, CROSS, FEVERISH

HURRY, MOTHER! REMOVE POISONS FROM LITTLE STOMACH, LIVER, BOWELS.

GIVE CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS AT ONCE IF BILIOUS OR CONSTIPATED.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels needs a gentle, thorough cleansing at once.

When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

You needn't coax sick children to take this harmless "fruit laxative," they love its delicious taste, and it always makes them feel splendid. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Beware of counterfeits sold here. To be sure you get the genuine, ask to see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Refuse any other kind with contempt.—Adv.

Put Auto Before Wife.
Men are taking good care of their automobiles these days. Most of them don't know where they will get another.

The other day a man ran away with our neighbor's wife and his automobile at the same time.

Our neighbor came up out of the basement just in time to see him driving away, and he yelled at the driver: "Don't forget to send the car back."

GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER
Has been used for all ailments that are caused by a disordered stomach and inactive liver, such as sick headache, constipation, sour stomach, nervous indigestion, fermentation of food, palpitation of the heart caused by gases in the stomach. August Flower is a gentle laxative, regulates digestion both in stomach and intestines, cleans and sweetens the stomach and alimentary canal, stimulates the liver to secrete the bile and impurities from the blood. Sold in all civilized countries. Give it a trial.—Adv.

Cruel Advice.
"I must brush the cobwebs from my brain." "Then you had better do it with a vacuum cleaner."

Charity consists of gifts. Probably that is why a girl thinks it charitable to give her rival's age away.

Many a man would act otherwise but for fear of legal consequences.

The Glory of Evening Wraps

The glory of evening wraps has returned. Sumptuous is a good word to use in describing them; they combine the richness of costly brocades and velvets with the handsomest furs, and extravagance in furs is written into the history of this winter's fashions. But extravagance in furs is not recklessness; they have intrinsic value, like jewels or fine oriental rugs. The woman who owns good furs should cherish them, for it seems inevitable that they must advance in price. There is nothing in apparel that may be remodeled more successfully or that gives such a certain return in satisfaction upon the required investment as good furs.

Such a thing as a furless wrap is hardly to be found. In evening wraps ample fur collars are the rule, but there are gorgeous models in which wide borders of fur divide honors with regal fabrics in the body of the wrap. These wraps are full, voluminous, the style fitting the character of stuffs used for making them. A good example, not an extreme, but a handsome wrap, appears in the style shown in the picture above. Huge silver roses on a dark satin ground make the lovely brocade of which this capelle wrap is fashioned. Nothing could look better with it than the luxurious collar, of dark, glossy and long-haired fox fur that finishes it. This collar fairly invites its wearer to cuddle down into it and makes a beautiful background for the evening dress it reveals when thrown back from the shoulders.

The dress in this particular instance appears to be of black satin and black velvet, which is a happy choice to wear with a glorious wrap. One must know where to leave off in the use of color. Everything in the toilette pictured is commendable; the neatness of the coiffure and all the care of details which insures exquisite finish.

Chambray Finery Blooms in January

The little girl with saucy eyes and bobbed hair shown in this picture is evidently posing under protest. Even so, she cannot contrive to look anything but pretty in this new finery of chambray, which anticipates spring flowers by blossoming out in January. Along comes a troop of pretty frocks early in the year, in gayly colored cottons and in white, so that the outfitting of the small fry and of flappers may be disposed of. Weightier matters will distract the mind of mothers when Easter approaches, and the more serious matter of choosing her own or other grown-up apparel takes the attention of the head of the household.

Two of the new frocks made of chambray are shown here. Both employ white cotton material with a color, and the color may be any one of the usual popular tones of blue, pink, rose, tan, yellow or light green that are sure of a welcome every spring. These staple fabrics and colors are always used. It is the variation of design and simple ornamentation that add interest to the season's styles.

The frock at the left has a triple box plait down the front of the short-waisted body and the skirt. This is broken at the waistline with gatherings, and a narrow braid is sewed on in such fashion as to simulate smoking. The belt of white cotton terminates at the sides of this panel. Or gandle might be used for a belt of this kind, as it is laid in plaits. A pretty, childish decorative feature is made by two flat pearl buttons sewed down with black cotton. Diagonal slit pockets are outlined with needle work in black also, and little embroidered flower motifs are made to correspond. This quaint touch of black is noteworthy in spring style for little folks. With collar and cuffs of white this frock is a crisp and brilliant accomplishment, employing only simple and familiar means.

At the right an equally clever design shows the same simple means used in a different way. In this frock the bodice is lengthened into front, back and side panels, with the chambray set between them by inverted plaits. A tiny chemisette, set in at the front of the collar, adds one more unexpected joy to life for the small girl.

NOT STRONG ON ACCURACY

General March Compares Average Magazine War Story With That Told of the Doughboy.

"The average magazine war story is amusing," said General March in a recent interview. "It's amusing, I mean, in its inaccuracy."

"Yes, the average magazine story is as inaccurate as the story of the doughboy who rushed from the front line trenches with his cheeks puffed out and his mouth tightly closed. He hopped into a lorry without a word, and waved his arms towards the rear in a frantic way."

"He's crazy, poor feller," said the driver. "Shell shock, of course. It's drove him as crazy as a bedbug."

"And the lorry set off. The driver's idea was to convey the stricken doughboy to the nearest hospital. The patient still sat with cheeks puffed out and lips tight closed, while he now held his nose with one hand as well."

"Crazy," muttered the driver. "But it turned out that the doughboy wasn't crazy at all. He was employed in the gas defense, and had been sent forward to a recently raided trench for a sample of the German's latest brand of phosgene."

Coney Island "Mining."
Of the many varied and extraordinary sights at Coney Island, New York, none is more surprising than to find men digging in the sand of the beach for gold and precious stones. Some of them make a regular business of it, wearing hip boots like placer miners of the '40's, and armed with shovels and sieves. On good days the "dirt" has paid as high as $30. This search for gold differs from mining in the West or elsewhere, however, in that rings, chains, stick pins, lockets, etc., are recovered. What the patient men dig up is, of course, the jewelry which careless bathers, who frequent the beach by the tens of thousands, have lost. No doubt the original owners of these treasured articles have assumed that their recovery was absolutely out of the question.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.
