He immediately went to the police station and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Charles Harnett, charging assault with intent to rob. Harnett was re-arrested late Thursday. He was granted a continuance until Saturday in police court today and was released under $500 cash bonds.

Sioux City Journal, 15: A gypsy fortune teller, who proved to be a better magician than a clairvoyant, visited Homer, Neb., yesterday, told a few fortunes and wound up in jail. The fortune teller, who is one of a band of fifty which was driven from Sioux City last week, walked into a restaurant in Homer and offered to tell the fortune of Frank Booth, the proprietor. Booth consented. While reading Booth's palm, the gypsy maiden palmed $85, and after telling Booth of the vast amount of success that was coming his way, departed. Booth missed the $85 and recalled that the fortune teller had not prophesied the loss. Booth notified Deputy Sheriff J. P. Rockwell, of Dakota City, Neb., and Constable L. J. Goodsell, of Homer, who a short while later placed the gypsy under arrest. The fortune teller was brought to Dakota City and after returning the $85 and paying the costs of court was ordered to leave town. The band is traveling in ten automobiles and last week was ordered to leave Sioux City when one of the female members of the tribe was arrested for wearing insufficient clothing. Sioux City Journal, 13: Born in Sioux City, Iowa, Saturday, July 12, 1919, at Mercy hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Fuft, Walthill, Neb., a son. The Nebraska liquor law, which provides for the seizure and sale of automobiles used by booze runners to import liquor into the state, will be put to the test in a few weeks when a hearing on a test case instituted in the Nebraska court by Justice Henry Brouillette, a Sioux City attorney, is held. The case has been set for trial August 4. The automobile involved in the case was used by James Davis, an alleged bootlegger, and was seized by Sheriff Geo. Cain, of Dakota county, several weeks ago when Davis was caught with a load of whisky which he is alleged to have imported from Minnesota. Judge S. W. McKinley, of the county court, ordered the sheriff to sell the car at a public sale and to turn the proceeds over to the state. All would have gone well had it not happened that the Wyckoff Auto and Salvage company had foreclosed a mortgage on the automobile the day before it was seized. Upon hearing of the sale they sent Mr. Brouillette to Lincoln to stay proceedings on the sale. He returned yesterday with an injunction order from the higher court restraining the sheriff from selling the machine pending a hearing in the higher court. It is alleged that the state has no right to order the car sold, and that the law recently passed by the state assembly is unconstitutional in that it attempts to deprive citizens of their property without due process of law.

A NEW ENTERPRISE

The American Live Stock Insurance Company, of Omaha, Neb., with offices at 704-10, World-Herald building, is a corporation organized for the protection of the man raising hogs for market, as well as the man engaged in raising pure blooded hogs for breeding. Up till this time we have never heard of such a thing as insurance on hogs against death from any cause, but such a thing is now possible.

It is no longer necessary for the new beginner or the man renting a farm to stay out of the hog raising and feeding of hogs because he cannot afford to take the chance on feeding his high priced corn, and then, perhaps, lose the hogs by some disease before he gets them on the market.

A policy on those hogs with the American Live Stock Insurance Company absolutely insures against any possible loss. And then, too, the charge per head on a six months policy is so moderate that the price of one bushel of corn on the present market will more than pay for it. "Just think of it, one extra bushel of corn." The satisfaction of knowing that you are insured against a loss should alone be worth the price.

Hog insurance is more essential than any other form of insurance, because it is a more hazardous risk. The American Live Stock Insurance Company will carry the risk for you at a nominal cost and it gives absolute protection in the event hogs die from any cause whatsoever.

DRYING VEGETABLES.

By Mrs. Lucy M. Sprague.
(From Farm Bureau News)

Our grandmothers did a great deal of drying, but when canning became popular, about the time of the Civil war, the old methods fell into disuse to a great extent. When so many million are underfed in almost all parts of the world, it seems as though the least we can do is to save all we grow, and buy as little as possible of food that must be shipped to us.

Practically all vegetables may be satisfactorily dried, from asparagus in the spring to pumpkin in the winter. A very simple and convenient home made drier can be seen in the County Agent's office. Circulars giving complete directions for drying and storing, and also a few recipes for cooking can be had for the asking. The advantages of drying are many. It requires less time, labor, fuel and storage space than does canning. The cooking is very simple. In most instances no soaking is required, the dried vegetable being plunged into boiling water, and kept boiling vigorously until done. Ordinarily, half an hour is sufficient for complete cooking. The flavor is almost unchanged. In some cases they have been served to people who were sure they would not like dried foods, and who were amazed to learn that the food they had just praised had been dried. Many of the finest hotels in America make no secret of the fact that they use dried vegetables.

FEDERAL LAND BANK LOANS.

(From Farm Bureau News)

We have several times called attention to the opportunities farmers have in making farm loans through the Federal Land Banks. Where such loans can be executed, there is no question but that they are the best that can be made unless the borrower has special influence with the party making the loan.

The following is a report showing the vast amount loaned by the banks in May:

During May, 1919, $11,342,855 were loaned to 3,683 farmers in the United States by the Federal Land Banks on long-time first mortgages, according to the monthly statement of the Farm Loan Board. The Federal Land Bank of Omaha leads in the amount of loans closed, $1,896,900, with the Federal Land Bank of Houston running second in amount, $1,600,490. The other banks closed loans in May as follows: St. Louis, $1,111,760; Spokane, $1,037,840; Louisville, $1,003,100; New Orleans, $1,000,260; Wichita, $885,900; Columbia, $801,045; St. Paul, $750,200; Berkeley, $507,000; Baltimore, $501,250; Springfield, $369,300. On June 1 the total amount of mortgage loans closed since the establishment of the Federal Land Banks was $223,311,766, numbering 87,816 farmers. During May, 6,204 applications were received asking for $20,354,620. During the same period 5,944 loans were approved, amounting to $17,008,080. Although 196,866 have applied for loans under this system, aggregating $320,497,980.
