Valuable Information For Irrigation Farmers

"Practical Information for Beginners in Irrigation," and "Irrigation of Alfalfa" are two United States department of agriculture farmers' bulletins containing much valuable information for those who are contemplating farming by irrigation. The first one contains suggestions aimed to assist those who would master the details of preparing land for irrigation, laying out and building farm ditches, and handling the water supply so as to assure the best results. The other bulletin deals with the methods of irrigating alfalfa, amount of water required, proper time to irrigate, winter irrigation, irrigation to prevent winter-killing, rise of ground water and its effects on alfalfa, subirrigation, etc. The numbers of the bulletins are 864 and 865 respectively. They may be obtained free from the College of Agriculture, Lincoln.

Lutheran Church Notes

By Rev C. R. Lowe.

The choir enjoyed a very pleasant evening at the home of Mr. Wm. Osterweyer last Saturday evening. The pastor, had the bad luck of a blowout as he was leaving town, but Mr. Verne Morgan met him before he had walked but a little way after having taken the crippled rig home and Mr. Emery Bobber made the trip to town after the party was over, thanks.

Sunday morning, of course we had to walk to Salem, but that was no hardship. We would not have done so if the Ford had been in running order. One of the worshippers remarked that if all the folks would do as I had done, there would have been a lot of people there who were not present. Which leads me to remark that a good deal of our lack of time and the inability to get to the worship is a lack of planning and determination on our part. It is that we do not look ahead and get ready, and are careless whether we are able to worship God in the sanctuary. The other day we were at a meeting of the executive board of the synod. On that board is one of the busiest bankers in Nebraska, with board meetings and committee meetings galore, but on two days' notice he was able to meet with us and give us two hours and a half time. Marshal Foch ran the war and won it, and had also time to go to the house of Prayer for an hour every day; maybe he spent as much as an hour and a half from his work. Maybe we think the banker could tear away from his work any time for a couple of hours, but they have work that has to be done the same as we have. On, one will say but that the head of the Allies' war operations did not have work to look after. Time, we have the time if we want to use it that way. There are a lot of things which present themselves to be done, they will keep the Christian from his duty and his promise if he will let them, but we will have to do as Peter says, put them away. I am not minimizing the necessity of our labors, but we ought not to rob God of the time and the worship due him, but be as glad to do that as we are to receive the grain at his hand. I wish I could make men see that it is their bounden duty to worship God. We think we can do this or not as we like, but there will be a time when we will wish that we had done our duty as it is outlined here. Even if you are of the heavenly hosts, you will wish you had done so. First you will be sorry just on general principles, and second because there will be others who are enjoying more of the glories or if you please will be enjoying the glories more than you are. Some find more pleasure in the service of worship here than others, and in heaven there will be the same difference. If you want heaven to be the fullest possible of good things, you will have to live to that end here.

Mr. Robert Hileman and family have asked for their church letters to the Presbyterian church at McMinville, Ore., and Mr. J. P. Lake and family wish their membership transferred to Sturges, S. D. These have been given in both instances. We hate to give up these people, but they have done the right thing. The time to be sorry is when they go away from the work of the church. A man ought to take his church letter with him always when he has changed locations permanently.

We have not seen it in print, and therefore there are a lot of our people who will be pleased to find out that B. M. Boals is busy just at present with a building campaign of the Y. M. C. A. at Payette, Idaho.
