You can save a dollar by sending in your order for the Daily State Journal before June 1, at the old price, $7 for daily and Sunday, or $5 for daily alone. On account of the great rise in the price of paper an increase must be made after that date. You will enjoy the fairness and independence of the Journal. Mark Sullivan and David Lawrence, two of the greatest free lances in the country, are contributors. The Journal has three leased wire services, Associated Press, United Press and the International—more press services than any other newspaper in Nebraska. This will be a stirring year for newspaper reading. The Journal has always printed more state news news than any other paper. Its features and its fiction with colored comics and magazine sections make it a most entertaining paper. Send in your order at once if you want to save a dollar. Address State Journal, Lincoln.

Wool to be Sold Through Home Firm
Farm Bureau delegations representing the sheep men of ten counties, meeting at Lincoln May 8th, voted to pool the state's wool crop this year and sell it on a commission basis through a Lincoln firm. This firm will handle the wool for a commission of two and a half per cent. A Chicago firm offered to sell the wool for a commission of 3 cents a pound. After figuring freight charges, cost of storage after certain period, etc., the delegates at the Lincoln meeting decided there was little if any difference in the offers. This being the case, they unanimously voted to patronize the home firm, Iowa, Illinois and one or two other states are patronizing the Chicago firm and there was sentiment in Nebraska to follow suit. Sentiment expressed at various county meetings of wool men seemed to favor going to Chicago and it had been announced that the wool would be sent there. However, men attending the meeting May 8th could see no material advantage, if any, in sending their wool to a commission firm outside the state.

Farmers Checking Cost of Production

A $440 leak in his farm business was discovered by a western Nebraska farmer last year by keeping a cost account record. Another farmer, a beet grower, not realizing the importance of manual labor in the production of sugar beets, put up the labor of himself and family, and in addition agreed to provide seed and fertilizer, against the land, water rent, machinery, horses and horse feed of the landlord. After paying for the fertilizer and seed and allowing himself 40 cents an hour for the time actually put in on the beets there was left only $4.88 an acre for his wife and children instead of the customary $25 an acre for the hand work. His yield was 10.27 tons an acre, an average yield. Studies of other records, made by the State College of Agriculture, show that 61.8 per cent of the renter's costs are for his own and hired labor, while others and cash renters have a labor charge of 54.2 per cent of the total expenses. This year prosperous northwestern Nebraska is much interested in cost records, Dakota county alone, having fifty-two farmers keeping cost records. Most of these are on corn and oats, though there are a few on wheat.

More Nebraska Hogs to Texas

Another shipment of Nebraska pure bred hogs has been sent to Texas. This is the third shipment in six months. Two carloads, eighty-six head, were recently shipped from Clay county to the southern state. The hogs were registered Poland China fall gilts. They will be used in boys' and girls' pig club work, each pig going to a different boy or girl. Banks and other Texas institutions are financing the purchase of Nebraska hogs in an effort to promote the livestock industry of that state. A delegation of Texans visited Nebraska last December and inspected stock in several counties. One shipment of hogs went south in December and another in January. The deals were made by Nebraska county farm bureaus and Texas agricultural agents.

More and Larger Farm Machinery

The shortage of man power has caused many farmers to consider more and larger machinery. To meet the demand of ranchers for larger hay machinery the State College of Agriculture has designed a four-horse stacker that will stand the strain of 80 to 100 tons daily, and an extra heavy sweep. The machinery can be built on any farm, and a circular has been prepared for free distribution giving description, specifications and bill of material.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given to all parents or guardians within Dakota County, Nebraska, having legal or actual charge or control of any child or children of not less than seven nor more than sixteen years of age, to cause such children to attend school as required by the Compulsory Attendance Law. The parents and guardians of all children who are delinquent in school attendance at this time and do not send their children to school for the remainder of the year will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.
