WOULD HAVE TO CALL EARLY

Indianapolis Man Learned Something When He Set Out to Buy Second-Hand Auto.

Bob Devericks, head of the manuscript department, state board of education, tells a story about two automobiles and a man of the people. Says I do:
"I thought I'd try to pick up a second-hand automobile and enjoy some of the delights of the rich, and so began scanning the 'for sale' columns of the newspapers. I saw an advertisement that told about a Ford sedan only slightly used and for sale at a reasonable price.
"I called the telephone number given. A woman answered the call. She said her brother had advertised the machine; that he had bought the Ford to use while he was having his National painted. I told her I'd call the next morning and talk to the brother, and received the reply:
"Well, I don't know whether you can get him unless you call very early. He leaves at five o'clock, because he drives a milk wagon."

PERFECTION NOT OFTEN SEEN

Assertion Made That Not One Person in Ten Thousand is Absolutely Sane.

Perfect health of mind and body are both exceedingly rare. Not one "civilized" person out of ten thousand is perfectly healthy. Not one civilized person out of ten thousand is perfectly sane. That is to say, absolutely level-headed in all respects, not attaching undue importance to his own hobby, and with no prejudices against new ideas, able to appreciate the other side of the question and to change his ideas when he is convinced that he is wrong.
Sanity has been defined as "the ability to accommodate oneself to one's environment." Not a bad definition. Those who deride the manners and customs of other races or people, merely because they are different from their own are not entirely sane.—Los Angeles Times.

HARVESTING SOY BEAN CROP BY MACHINERY

View Showing the Threshing of Soy Beans and Baling the Straw in North Carolina Field.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

With the widely increased popularity of the soy bean the harvest of the crop has gained markedly in importance in practically every section of the country. According to specialists the fact that practical and satisfactory bean harvesters are now on the market at comparatively reasonable prices and are efficient for harvesting the crop either when grown under level or ridged-row methods of cultivation, greatly increases the value of this crop not only as a forage for live stock, but also for human food purposes.

The most common type of special bean harvester is a two-wheeled, box-like machine which is drawn by two horses. As the machine passes over the row of plants four sets of rapidly revolving arms shatter the beans from the pods into the body of the harvester. While the machine moves along the row the seed is gradually raked to the rear of the box by one of the operators. Under favorable conditions two men with a team can harvest—and harvesting means cutting and thrashing the crop in one operation—one acre of beans in two hours by this method where the yield is about 20 bushels to the acre. Although there is some loss of beans it is more than compensated by the saving of time and labor as compared with harvesting in other ways.

If the plants are not too coarse the self-binder can also be used to good advantage in the harvest of the taller growing varieties of beans. This method is gaining favor rapidly in many sections, as the average grower owns a grain binder, while, as a rule, unless he intends to produce soy beans as a regular rotation crop it will not pay him individually to purchase a special bean harvester. But where several farmers in the neighborhood can cooperatively buy this equipment such procedure is commendable. For the best results, where the grain binder is used, the plants should be cut while some of the leaves are still retained as then the harvesting is easier and no loss results from shattering.

Mowing Machine Used.

The mowing machine is also used to a considerable extent in saving the soy-bean crop. Generally where this implement is used it is advisable to have a side-delivery attachment, in order that the horses will not trample on the swath of cut beans. However, where such an appliance is not available, a man can follow the machine with a pitchfork and remove the plants at every round out of the way of the team, for if trampled upon many of the seeds will be shelled out and wasted. The self-rake reaper, which really is a mowing machine provided with a bunching attachment, gives satisfactory results, as it harvests the crop without exposing it to injury.

When cut with a mowing machine or with a self-rake reaper, the beans may be raked in small piles or placed in small shocks. These piles or shocks should be left for four or five days in good drying weather or until the grain is found to be fairly dry in the pods. Wet weather does not injure the crop seriously, provided the plants are not allowed to rest on the ground for any length of time.
Where a binder is used the bound bundles should be shocked eight or ten to a shock and allowed to remain until thoroughly dry. Hay caps are not necessary when the piles or bundles are shocked properly. They may remain in the field until thrashing time or if thoroughly dry they may be housed and thrashed later. The cured plants are ordinarily gathered from the field by hand, but the web loader commonly used for haying will do the work more rapidly and with less loss of seed than the hand methods.
Should Adjust Separator.
The ordinary grain separator can be adjusted to thrash any beans successfully, but as equipped for small grains a large percentage of cracked beans will result. The chief cause of split beans is the high speed of the cylinder, which should be reduced at least one-half, although the speed of the fans and other parts of the separator should be maintained. This may be accomplished by doubling the size of both cylinder pulleys. In some cases a special set of thin concaves is used, while in other instances some of the concaves are removed. Good judgment on the part of the thrasher will enable him to adjust the ordinary separator so that the beans may be thrashed with little splitting. Some manufacturers have special pea and bean hulling attachments for grain separators, which are said to do satisfactory work. These attachments may be added to the ordinary separator at small cost.

Special pea and bean separators of different sizes are now on the market. These types of machines do clean hulling and split practically none of the beans. Undoubtedly such separators are more satisfactory and economical where a considerable acreage of beans is grown. In sections where there is extensive seed production, investment in such a machine by the community would be profitable. Soy beans, if thoroughly dry, can easily be thrashed with a flail. In only a small acreage—an acre or so—this method is practicable and economical. In a few sections a corn shredder has been used to advantage. If properly cured and dried, the beans shell out readily with this machine.

Straw Makes Good Feed.

The straw obtained from thrashing the soy bean for seed is a valuable feed for all kinds of stock. In many sections the straw is baled at the time of thrashing and sold in the immediate locality to livermen, dairymen, and stock feeders.

As soy-bean seed spoils easily, if not properly handled, care should be exercised in curing and storing. After the beans are thrashed they should be watched carefully to avoid heating and molding. When thoroughly dry there is no such danger. The best plan, perhaps, is to spread the seeds out on a floor immediately after thrashing and shovel them over from time to time until they are thoroughly dry. After this they may be safely put into sacks or bins. The storeroom should be dry and have a free circulation of air. Soy-bean seed loses its viability rapidly, and it is not safe to hold seed for planting purposes more than two seasons. The pods of the soy bean, unlike those of the cowpea, are rarely attacked by weevils or other grain insects.

WASH KEEPS RABBITS AWAY

Formula Suggested by D. A. Gilchrist of Biological Survey as Protection for Trees.

The following formula is suggested by D. A. Gilchrist, United States biological survey as an effective tree wash for protection against rabbits, enemies of young fruit trees:

Dissolve one ounce of strychnine sulphate in three quarts of boiling water and add one-half pint of laundry starch, previously dissolved in one pint of cold water. Boil this mixture until it becomes a clear paste. Add one ounce of glycerine and stir thoroughly. When sufficiently cool, apply to trunks of trees, with a paint brush. Rabbits that gnaw the bark will be killed before the tree is injured.
Note: It is probable that one-half pint of molasses may be substituted for one ounce of glycerine.

ELEVATED SITE FOR ORCHARD

Drainage Ditches Should Be Provided Between Rows to Carry Off Excess Moisture.

Select a well-elevated plot of ground on which to plant fruit trees. If the water table is too close to the surface the land must be plowed in such a way that it will be ridged up to provide drainage in order to keep the roots of the fruit trees from standing in the water. Drainage ditches should be provided between the rows of the trees. If the trees are planted on upland clay they should be planted to the same depth that they stood in the nursery. If the soil is light or sandy they should be planted two inches deeper. Be sure to buy from reliable nurseries. It is a waste of labor, time and money to plant diseased trees or varieties not suited to the locality in which they are to be grown.

Lift off Corns!

Doesn't hurt a bit and Freezone costs only a few cents.

With your fingers! You can lift off any hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the hard skin calluses from bottom of feet.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs little at any drug store; apply a few drops upon the corn or callous. Instantly it stops hurting, then shortly you lift that bothersome corn or callous right off, root and all, without one bit of pain or soreness. Truly! No humbug!—Adv.

Memorial to Norsemen.

Nearly five centuries before Columbus sailed to America, according to some historians, a party of Norsemen landed on the northeastern coast of the continent, and a few years later established a colony. As a memorial to these early explorers a rough stone tower has been erected at Aburndale, Mass., a town that is believed to occupy the same site as the legendary settlement. Investigation has failed to reveal any traces of building ruins in the vicinity, but has resulted in the finding of several old stone walls, which are thought to have been constructed by the inhabitants of the ancient village.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Catarrhal Deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing may be destroyed forever. Many cases of Deafness are caused by Catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the Mucous Surfaces. ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE.
