LIQUOR DEALERS ASK FOR FUNDS TO AID CANDIDATE COX AS A PRONOUNCED "WET"

(Verbatim copy of letter presented to Senatorial Investigating Committee, at Chicago, by Chairman Will H. Hays of Republican National Committee.)

Up President 649 Broad Street, Newark, N. J.

Cabain Bros., Dear Sir and Brother:

The organized liquor trade of New Jersey has set out to do its part toward the election of James M. Cox as the next President of the United States...

The nomination of Governor Cox of Ohio for the presidency by the Democrats is a big victory for our interests and it can be attributed to a great degree to the activity of our trade organizations here in New Jersey...

This is going to be the greatest political fight in the history of the United States. Your liberty and mine has been taken from us. Our business has been unjustly confiscated...

We have issued the challenge. The Anti-Saloon League is forced to fight. It has made an appeal for a $30,000 fund to elect dry Congressmen who will uphold the Volstead Act...

We must have money at once to carry on the work that we have planned. Do not think for a moment that there is plenty of time to give between now and election...

Your record on the roster of your local associations and also on that of the State League showed that you have been loyal and regular in the past. Do keep that record unsullied to the very end...

So that we may know at once just what our resources are, may we not ask you to promptly return the inclosed card filled out with your remittance.

Jump in and help us fight. Give as much as you can afford. This is not merely a battle to save your business but one to preserve something more sacred namely, your personal liberty.

Geo. T. Canoll PRESIDENT.

NURSING SERVICE IS RAPIDLY EXPANDING

This American Red Cross Work Flourishing in Small Towns Throughout Country.

More than 37,000 graduate nurses have been enrolled in the American Red Cross to date and its department of nursing is daily increasing this enrollment.

The department of nursing has been authorized to maintain an adequate reserve of nurses for the army and navy. It will continue to supply the needs of the United States Public Health Service to which it has assigned more than 1,000 nurses in the last year.

It will assist in establishing proper nursing service in foreign countries where the American Red Cross has organized hospitals, dispensaries and schools for nurses. Courses in home hygiene and care of the sick have been started for thousands of women who have never received any education in this direction.

Public health nursing has been extended to many rural communities and now flourishes actively in hundreds of small towns and counties. Nearly a thousand efficient nurses have already been assigned to this kind of work.

The department of nursing is uniting with other organizations in a year's campaign in recruiting nurses for training schools, in educating the general public as to standards of nursing education and in showing communities their responsibility toward schools of nursing.

It will endeavor to meet all these needs as well as to continue the enrollment of dietitians who will be utilized as instructors in home dietetics, in developing nutritional clinics, and in supplying dietitians for the United States Public Health Service and the civilian hospitals.

The Nursing Service will continue to offer to women and young girls the opportunity of securing instruction in home hygiene and care of the sick in every community in the country. This instruction has not only laid the foundation for public health but in some places has given impetus to the establishment of hospitals and community school houses.

"As a community profits by the work of the nurse," says Miss Clara D. Noyes, director of the department of nursing, "it is logical that the community should be aroused to its responsibility. The American Red Cross stands ready to help in a general campaign of recruiting and must have the support, sympathy and understanding of the medical profession as well as the intelligent co-operation of the people at large."

HOME SERVICE FOR EVERYBODY IN NEED

Do you know what the present day Home Service of the American Red Cross is?

Many people do not know that, besides completing the work for ex-service men, especially the disabled, it provides the same neighborly service to families in general that it formerly gave families of soldiers, sailors and marines.

"Home Service covers a wide and varied field," says Frederick C. Munroe, general manager of the American Red Cross. "It gives aid to families in solving such problems as budget planning, marketing, tiding over times of financial stress, keeping children in school, helping crippled children, widowed and deserted mothers, children backward in school and children in conflict with the laws. It renders service to the homeless and transient, to the illiterate, to tenement dwellers, to the unemployed, and gives friendly assistance and advice to foreign speaking groups."

In addition to helping families in the solution of their own problems, Home Service helps in strengthening the weak spots in the social life of communities. It joins hands with others to make communities safer, healthier and happier. Organizing action along lines in which the community is already interested is one of the objects of Home Service. It has established community meetings, patriotic celebrations, pageants and picnics. Rest rooms, recreation facilities, play supervisors and moving pictures have been provided. Through Home Service other agencies are influenced to bring about improved commercial amusements and better school facilities and to promote traveling libraries as well as to secure county agricultural and home demonstration agents.

If you need assistance at any time, go to the secretary of the nearest Red Cross chapter and describe the situation. Your confidence will be sacredly respected and every possible effort will be made to aid you.

American Red Cross Roll Call.

The Fourth Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross will be held this year from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving Day, November 25, inclusive. During this period the men and women of the United States will pay their annual dues and receive their membership.

COX FOISTS FALS SPECTER TO FORE IN CAMPAIGN TALK

No One Will Be Deceived by Democratic Attempt to Use Great President's Name.

THE PEOPLE KNEW ROOSEVELT

Death of Foremost American Not Dimmed His Deeds in the Minds of Patriots.

By William Hostrer

May one who was more or less intimately associated with Theodore Roosevelt in the last fifteen years of his life say a word in regard to the developing tendencies of the pending presidential campaign?

Governor James M. Cox, the Democratic candidate, with increasing frequency is using the name of Colonel Roosevelt in his speeches, as of one from whom the Governor has derived his inspiration for this momentous campaign, and whose support of Mr Cox's so-called policies would be forthcoming were Roosevelt alive. At least Governor Cox is at pains to make it appear that it is into his hands that the torch borne by Colonel Roosevelt was entrusted when the latter passed on.

Addressing the Ohio Democratic State Convention at Columbus on August 17th, among other things Governor Cox said:

"Need I remind you that it was this State that elected Roosevelt, that great American, who stood for the judges alone, who stood for the people, that the judgment of the people should be subject to no other authority?"

First and foremost, the people knew Theodore Roosevelt. He was proud to be called an American. He was proud to be called a Democrat. He was proud to be called a Republican. He was proud to be called a Union man. He was proud to be called a patriot. He was proud to be called a man of honor. He was proud to be called a man of integrity. He was proud to be called a man of courage. He was proud to be called a man of faith. He was proud to be called a man of conviction. He was proud to be called a man of principle. He was proud to be called a man of character. He was proud to be called a man of honor. He was proud to be called a man of integrity. He was proud to be called a man of courage. He was proud to be called a man of faith. He was proud to be called a man of conviction. He was proud to be called a man of principle. He was proud to be called a man of character.

But aside from this, the standing note in Roosevelt's career was his uncompromising, true and true Americanism. He was an American above and above every thing else. His Americanism was above all party considerations. He was jealous of his country's honor and its traditions, zealous in the maintenance of its integrity and independence. He labored incessantly to promote that national unity which he believed to be one of the safeguards of the Republic; and his faith in Washington's Farewell Address and the Monroe Doctrine was such that he regarded strict adherence to the junctions of both as the two great bulwarks of our national existence. If it were necessary to prove these assertions, columns could be quoted from his writings and speeches in support thereof. But one has only to mention the name of Theodore Roosevelt to bring before the mind a picture of a United States strong, self-reliant and independent.

Roosevelt's Position Clear. One does not have to ponder long to reach a conclusion, therefore, when Roosevelt would stand if happily he were among us today. The man who in 1916 avowed that the supreme national need was the overthrow of Wilsonism and all that Wilsonism represents would have a mighty well-defined position in the fighting today if he were with us, and he would not be ranged on the side of Governor Cox.

The man who, though age was creeping upon him, demanded as his right that he be sent across to face with the two hundred thousand men that clamored to accompany him, the German menace; and who grimly laid down the plea that by his end on the field of battle the drooping morale of the entire forces might be revived, though the death of a former President of the United States would have had little in common with a candidate whose news papers proclaimed sixteen months after the sinking of the Lusitania, that "The German U-boats have committed no crime against us."

Remember in what stirring words Roosevelt denounced the Lusitanian sinking, and how, throughout all that drab period of American neutrality his powerful voice rang through the land awakening the patriotism of our people to the culmination in April 1917, when even Mr. Wilson finally was compelled to face the inevitable. There is no law against Governor Cox's use of Colonel Roosevelt's name. Nor is there any law on the statute books providing for the crimes which are committed in the name of progressiveness for which Colonel Roosevelt stood. There are Napoleons of finance, of wheat, of oil and of industry, but there was only one Napoleon. There are Jimmies and Ed dies and Harries, but there was only one Teddy.

In the campaign upon which we have entered, the name of Roosevelt will be invoked many times in many places in behalf of many things. But few in all the great army of those who followed Roosevelt will be deceived. They know above all other things that the safety and integrity of the United States lay closest to Theodore Roosevelt's heart, and with them his doctrine of stalwart Americanism will prevail against any preaching of progressivism which seeks to lure them from the path of patriotic duty.

Cedar Rapids Man Gives Out Facts

SAYS TANLAC HAS WONDERFULLY BENEFITTED BOTH HIMSELF AND WIFE.

"Tanlac has not only completely restored my health, but I have gained ten pounds in weight since I started taking it," said Abraham L. Davis, South Tenth street, Cedar Rapids, Ia., a prominent real estate dealer.

"Five years ago I began suffering from stomach trouble. My appetite became very poor and even when I did manage to eat a little something I could seldom retain it. Finally I got so bad I had to confine myself to a diet of breakfast food or milk toast; but even this caused me to bloat up so badly with gas I was in misery. It was absolutely impossible for me to eat anything solid, for I always suffered with such intense pains in the pit of my stomach afterward I could hardly stand them. There was always a bad taste in my mouth and I had such terrible headaches they became almost unbearable. Quite often these headaches came on me suddenly while at my desk, everything became blurred before me and I would have to stop what I was doing, go home and go to bed. I began losing weight, my nerves became so badly shattered I could get but little sleep and always got up with a draggy, tired-out feeling. Then, in addition to my other troubles I suffered with rheumatism in my knees, joints so bad I could hardly walk and just had to drag my feet."

"Although I have taken only six bottles of Tanlac, I have as good an appetite now as any one could wish, eat just anything I want and never have any bad after effects. I sleep like a child and always get up greatly refreshed, feeling like an athlete. The rheumatism has almost entirely gone out of my knees and I can get around as well as ever. I have not had a headache since I began taking Tanlac and just feel good all the time. My wife had also suffered for a long while from stomach trouble, and is improving every day since she began taking Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by McBeath's Pharmacy, in Homer by Brassfield & Jensen, in Hubbard by Duggan & Heffernan. -Advertisement.
