FEEL LIKE SHE COULDN'T STAND HER TROUBLES MUCH LONGER

HER STAYS BURNING HER FEELS LIKE SHE COULDN'T STAND

"Since I started taking Taniae I have already gained fifteen pounds in weight," said Mrs. J. J. Madison, R. F. D., No. 2, Burlington, Iowa.

"About seven years ago I began to suffer with indigestion, and I suffered so much that I was afraid to eat anything at all. I was gradually losing weight and going down hill all the time. A little over a year ago I had an attack of influenza that left me almost a nervous wreck. I was subject to constant sick headaches and spells of dizziness that made me so faint I couldn't carry on my housework. I was very nervous and restless and many a night I would get up out of bed and walk the floor and in the mornings I would feel completely exhausted. My nerves were so unstrung that I felt I couldn't stand it much longer.

"I decided to try Taniae and with the very first bottle I began to feel better. I have taken seven bottles now and I feel like an entirely different woman. My appetite is just fine and I can eat anything I want, and nothing ever disagrees with me. I am free from those awful sick headaches and fainting spells. I sleep like a baby at night and wake up in the morning with more energy and vitality than I ever had before in my life, and it is now a real pleasure for me to do my housework. I advise anyone who is in the condition I was in to take Taniae. It has certainly made life worth living for me."

Taniae is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by McBeath's Pharmacy, in Homer by Brassfield & Jensen, in Hubbard by Duggan & Heffernan.

Farm Bureau Field Notes

C. R. Young, County Agent

Word just received from Secretary H. D. Lute of the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation, says the state has decided on six and seven cents per bushel as the fair wage for corn husking, this year. Considering the present price of corn, this is surely a fair wage and should not be exceeded by farmers.

Mr. Lute also states that the membership campaign for the State Federation will begin in Nebraska next week. Clay, Seward and Buffalo counties have made definite plans for organization and will be worked in the order named. The plan is to complete a county in a week, during which time enough workers will be in the field to visit each farmer.

Now is the time to lay the foundation for winter egg production. Old hens that have passed their usefulness for this season should be culled from the flock. It is also well to examine all pullets for capacity and malformations which might hinder egg production.

In order to have pullets lay during the winter months they must be started before cold weather. This is brought about only by feeding an unlimited quantity of a good egg-laying ration. Good returns may be secured by feeding in a self-feeder, a mixture of one part wheat bran, one part wheat shorts, one part ground oyster shell, one part ground alfalfa, one part ground corn and one half part meal or tankage. If alfalfa is fed in the racks, it may be omitted from the mixture.

If chickens do not have a range where they can get considerable corn and other feed, a scratch mixture of one-third cracked corn, one-third oats and one-third wheat should be fed. During winter months when the weather is inclement the scratch mixture should be fed in deep litter so as to induce the birds to take exercise.

Shell-making material is an important part of the egg-laying ration. One of the best ways to supply this is to slack lime as for plastering and to add a sufficient amount of sharp, coarse sand to make a good mortar. This may be dried and crushed for them. Old plaster from a building is one of the best things to use. However, where it is desirable, the more expensive articles, such as ground oyster or clam shells, may be supplied. Grit in the form of broken pieces of crockery, dishes, glass, rock, etc., should be kept before the flock at all times.

Many poultry raisers make the mistake of thinking that they should get winter eggs without special care of the laying flock. This is a mistake. They must have the material from which to produce the eggs. Some good form of dry mixture and shell making material are essential. Green feed, as sprouted oats, rutabagas, cabbages, etc., will do much to stimulate production. Plenty of clean, warm water is fully as essential as good feed.

If properly culled, kept free of lice and mites, housed in clean, comfortable quarters and properly fed, there should be no question about egg production during winter months. This same care will also stimulate production during the other months of the year.

SALEM

John Sohn and family, Hannah Beermann and family and Leon DeForest and family spent Sunday at the Langmack home west of Emerson.
