ELECTION RESULTS

The national election Tuesday resulted in a complete victory for the republican party, giving Senator Harding the largest majority given a presidential candidate since the election of Theodore Roosevelt in 1904. In the state the republicans were again victorious, electing a full state ticket from top to bottom. Congressman R. E. Evans of this, the Third district, wins by a majority of over twelve thousand. John G. Gannon was elected state senator and Walter Sandquist was re-elected representative. The only thing that "got away" in the county contest was the office of county assessor, which went to Geo. Barnett, democrat, who had no opposition.

Jas. J. Lapsley and Nels Andersen, republicans, were elected county commissioners by big majorities. Over two thousand votes were cast in the county. Harding carried the county by about 700, McKelvie by 400, Evans by 600. S. W. McKinley was elected county judge without opposition.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Abbie J. Pierce was born in the village of New Albion, Cattaraugus county, New York, June 8, 1843, and departed this life at the home of her son, Clarence Pierce, in Waterbury, Neb., October 28, 1920, at the ripe old age of 77 years, 4 months, and 20 days.

When near the age of fourteen years she moved with her parents to Wisconsin. A year later moving to Orleans county, N. Y. After seven years residence in New York state she moved to Van Buren county, Michigan, where she met and married her husband, Charles H. Pierce. To this union were born five children, E. G. Pierce; Nellie G. Pierce Sherman; E. E. Pierce; C. D. Pierce, and George L. Pierce. E. C. Pierce and Nellie G. Pierce Sherman were born in Michigan, the other three children in Nebraska. Fannie Pierce died at the age of 15 years. The father, Charles H. Pierce, died September 11, 1913, at the age of 66 years. The four remaining children were present at the funeral.

The Pierce family were pioneer residents of eastern Nebraska and have been identified with the business interests of this section of the state for many years. The three sons are now in business in Waterbury, Neb.

Grandma Pierce was a woman of great force of character, a leader in reform movements in this community, especially the temperance movement. She stood for the higher and nobler things of life—one who dared to contend for the right, righteousness and truth as she conceived it—even sometimes through grievous opposition.

A few weeks previous to her death she prophesied that she would die in the month of October.

The remains were laid to rest beside those of her husband in the Springbank cemetery.

The funeral was held from the M. E. church in Waterbury Saturday, October 30, 1920, at 1:30 p. m. The funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Geo. J. McClellan, pastor of the Elk Valley Friends church. A large audience was present at the funeral, all the business houses closing from noon till after the funeral.

Mrs. Pierce was not a member of any church at the time of her death, but was a Christian, and had great confidence in her Saviour, who sustained and kept her in the trying hours of life.

America's Telephone Achievements

France has not as many telephones as Chicago. Greece has not as many telephones as some of the largest American office buildings. All Europe has only one-third the telephones that the United States has. In twenty years the number of Bell manned and connected telephones in the Bell System has increased fourteen fold. In 1880 there was one telephone to one thousand persons—today there is a telephone to every nine persons. During the past year and a half more new telephones were installed in American homes and offices than are in use throughout Great Britain.

America has only one-sixteenth of the world's population but nearly two-thirds of the world's telephoning is over the 24,000,000 miles of wire in the Bell System. The Bell System—that is the American Telephone and Telegraph Company and associated Companies—which is the extent of its public service has not counterpart anywhere, has been built out of the savings of hundreds of thousands of thrifty men and women.

Dry Shelter Needed for Sheep

For the benefit of a good many Nebraska farmers who are wintering a flock of sheep for the first time this year, the State College of Agriculture offers the following suggestions: A good well-ventilated shelter is necessary, not so much for protection against cold as against dampness. The fleece will keep the sheep warm if it is dry. A good shed open on the south will serve the purpose until lambing time, when a warm barn is necessary if the weather is at all cold. After the corn is shucked the sheep can run in the stalks in good weather, with corn silage or alfalfa fed in limited quantities. A little fodder may be fed instead of silage, but sheep seem to do better where some kind of succulent feed, such as silage, roots, pumpkins and the like is a part of their ration. Very little or no grain is needed up until a week or two after lambing.

"Best Ever Made" States Mrs. Brand

WANTS OTHERS TO KNOW HOW TANLAC OVERCAME HER RHEUMATISM AND INDIGESTION.

"Tanlac has proved such a blessing to me that I just want other sufferers to know about it," declared Mrs. Mary A. Brand, of 820 West Second street, Des Moines, Iowa.

"For five years," continued Mrs. Brand, "I was in mighty bad health, shortly after eating anything my stomach would hurt me till the pain became almost unbearable. Gas pressed up against my heart, causing it to palpitate dreadfully, and when I exerted myself in any way I just had to fight for breath."

"I had awful headaches and dizzy spells, and my nerves were unstrung. I suffered from rheumatism in my right arm and in my ankles, and at times I could scarcely raise my hand above my head. I was restless, couldn't get enough sleep, and got up in the mornings feeling miserable."

"After reading about Tanlac I decided to try it, and I can eat anything I want, even beans and onions, and not be bothered with indigestion. I no longer suffer from gas on my stomach, and am free from dizziness, headaches, palpitations and shortness of breath. The rheumatic pains are entirely gone, and my nerves are steady and normal again. I sleep fine, and get up in the mornings feeling refreshed and full of energy."

Tanlac is sold in Dakota City by Neiswanger Pharmacy, in South Sioux City by McBeath's Pharmacy, in Homer by Brassfield & Jensen.
