School Children Need Hot Lunches

The College of Agriculture Extension Service is encouraging the serving of hot lunches to school children. Surveys made in other states show that many country school children are undernourished. Part of this is due to cold lunches at school, especially in the winter, it is believed. Everyone knows how disagreeable a cold lunch is on a cold day. It is bad enough for grown persons, let alone children. Teachers are encouraged to arrange for at least one hot dish at noon, such as a vegetable soup, cocoa, a creamed vegetable, a meat dish or a dessert. If it is impossible to serve a hot dish, it is urged that the cold lunch include a pint of milk per child. Surveys in Illinois show that many children suffer from the lack of sufficient milk. Teachers and parents interested in hot school lunches should write the College for information and suggestions.

Many Joining the Farm Bureau

More than 10,000 farmers have joined the Nebraska Farm Bureau Federation in the last month. Nine counties have conducted membership campaigns and several more are now in the midst of adding new members. Ninety per cent of the farmers in the counties so far canvassed have joined. Tumbling prices and the money stringency are helping to draw farmers together for the protection of their interests. The Farm Bureau is an orderly attempt to solve the economic problems of agriculture. It is non-political, and appeals to judgment and not to prejudice. It stands for sound and sane co-operation. The campaign now in progress is expected to increase the Nebraska membership by at least 50,000 farmers. More than a million farmers in the United States belong to farm bureaus.

One Against the Archbishop.

In his book, "Our Family Affairs," Mr. E. F. Benson, the English novelist, tells of a joke he played on his father, the archbishop of Canterbury.

The archbishop was a loving but exacting parent, although he sometimes nodded. He certainly did so one hot Sunday afternoon when Mr. Benson was deputed to read the life of St. Francis to him and the assembled family in the garden.

The tranquility of the listeners became after a while so remarkable that the reader decided to test it by giving them a senseless jumble of lines selected at haphazard from different pages of the volume. No one stirred (the cessation of his voice caused the primate of England to open his eyes.

"Wonderful!" he said. "Is that the end, Fred?"

"Yes, that's all!" said Fred.

"Money? Pouf!"

"I don't know how much Sarah Bernhardt got for her recent farewell performances in London, but I don't suppose it was much less than the £1,000 a night she was paid when she last appeared at a West end music hall. The divine Sarah has made and spent more fortunes than any other woman, one of her American tours realizing £50,000.

But she cares nothing about money. "My earnings during my career?" she says. "Nothing. Nothing, I say. It comes, it goes. I keep no account. Could I not spend money, I would not earn it. Money is to spend. I detest accounts. I don't bother. I have enough. I never calculate. I can't calculate. Oh, bother the money!"—London Tit-Bits.

United States King Celebrates.

Mike Fogel, "King" of Moorea Island, who at one time was a San Francisco musician, recently gave an elaborate banquet and hula hula dance to all of his native subjects in celebration of the first anniversary of the beginning of his reign. Fogel became "king" when he married Tanta Mata, native "queen" of the island, whose husband died when influenza swept the Society Islands. At the banquet Fogel served native foods cooked in European style. The natives, who never before tasted foods cooked other than in the time-worn manner, enjoyed the banquet immensely. Ten oil cans and four ancient hollow drums furnished "music" for the dancing, in which 200 girls took part. The dance lasted until daybreak.

Elephant Has Survived Because He Has Been Able to Adapt Himself to Conditions.

These is nothing else like the elephant. He has come down to us through the ages, surviving the conditions which killed off his earlier contemporaries, and he now adapts himself perfectly to more different conditions than any other animal in Africa. Carl Akeley of the American Museum of Natural History writes in the World's Work.

He can eat anything that is green or even has been green, just so long as there is enough of it. He can get his water from the aloe plants on the arid plains or dig a well in the sand of a dry river with his trunk and fore feet, and drink there, or he is equally at home living half in the swamps of better watered regions. He is at home on the low, hot plains of the southeast at the equator or on the cool slopes of Kenya and Elgon. So far as I know he suffers from no contagious diseases and has no enemies except man. There are elephants on Kenya that have never lain down for a hundred years. Some of the plains elephants do rest lying down, but no one ever saw a Kenya elephant lying down or any evidence that they do lie down at rest. The elephant is a good traveler. On good ground a good horse can outrun him, but on bad ground the horse would have no chance and there are few animals that can cover more ground in a day than an elephant. And in spite of his appearance he can turn with surprising agility and move through the forest as quietly as a rabbit.

Results of Hybrid Mating.

Here is a strange set of facts, proven by three different investigators in three different parts of the world at three different times.

In matings of so-called "pure" races, that is to say, Englishman with English woman, Frenchman with French woman, German with German woman, etc., 104.54 more males are born than females.

In hybrid matings, that is to say, of different nationalities, there is a more significant excess of male over female births.

In matings of United States whites the ratio is about the same as that of European hybrids.

In matings of United States colored folks there is a significant excess of females over the ratio of British West Indian colored who are relatively pure bred.

Slept Thirty-Two Years.

Surely a subject for the speculative psychologist is the record sleep indulged in by Caroline Ohlson, a Swedish girl. In 1875, when only a child of fourteen years, she fell into a long trance in the island of Okuku, in the Baltic, and remained unconscious for 32 years. Food was administered to her, although she seemed quite unconcerned. Nor did she respond to any inquiry during that long time. Then suddenly she awoke, no longer a girl, but a middle-aged woman, and the most careful examination could not reveal the slightest weakness or mental defect. After coming out of her long trance Caroline enjoyed very good health.

Though in popular language the earth is said to be round, like a ball, it is really an irregular sphere, slightly flattened at the poles. The slight departure from rotundity is accounted for by the rapid motion of the earth while in a more plastic state.

TOP OF SNOWDON IS SOLD

Ground on Britain's loftiest Mountain Has Recently Been Purchased by Farmer.

Freak purchases are heard of from time to time, but it is not often that the sale of a mountain is announced. For this reason alone the transfer of the summit of Snowdon, including several hundreds of acres of the slope which is grazing ground, and the ground on which is built the Summit hotel, by Lieut.-Col. Worsley-Taylor, to a farmer, is of more than ordinary interest, remarks the Christian Science Monitor.

Mount Snowdon—in Carnarvon—is the most famous peak in the southern part of Britain; is well known to all holiday makers, and is of a bold and rugged outline and forms, with its subsidiary peaks, an impressive range. The ascent presents no special features of difficulty if one of the five well defined pathways is used, but should the climber be bent on "pioneering," and leave the beaten track, he should be prepared for anything in the way of mountaineering problems.

The view from summit of Snowdon on a fine day makes the climb worth while, for spread below is Anglesey, the Menai straits, and a great curve of ocean from the far-off extremity of Cardigan bay to Rhyl. In the foreground are to be seen the well defined peaks of the sister mountains. Altogether the climb is a most exhilarating form of exercise, and although the boast of having gained the top does not carry much weight, there is a certain satisfaction in having reached one's objective. Gladstone, twenty-eight years ago, after having performed the climb, addressed a political meeting of 3,000 people on the summit of Snowdon.
