NOT A "TRENCH" OF BAYONETS

True Story of Famous Incident at Verdun, Which French Bravery Has Made Immortal.

The scaffolding has now been taken down from the monument over the famous "Trench of the Bayonets" at Verdun which President Millerand has inaugurated. But the term "trench" is a misnomer. The true story is this:

Fifty-seven survivors of two Breton battalions were holding the line there, not in a trench, but in a series of shellholes, nearly regularly spaced and aligned. The men were so packed that when any were wounded they were unable to fall down, while for security they held their rifles, with fixed bayonets in the air.

During the whole of June 11, 12 and 13, 1916, a terrible artillery duel raged round them. Caught between the French and German barrage fires, one by one the men died, while the bursting shells buried them under waves of torn-up ground. When the scene could be visited all that remained was a line of bayonets protruding from the ground.—Continental Edition of the London Mail.

Whatcheer, Iowa.—"The doctors said I would have to be operated upon or I would never regain my health, but I decided to give Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Golden Medical Discovery a trial and they surely have done wonders for me. ## MAN OF OPTIMISTIC STRAIN Millionaire Bought "Laundry" Instead of "Launch," but He Refuses to Be Discouraged.

Millionaires are supposed to lean toward a philosophic pessimism, but there is one who is evidently a genuine optimist.

He met a friend, and said: "Come and see my new steam laundry."

The friend was somewhat surprised.

"I didn't know you went in for that sort of thing," he said.

"I don't, as a rule," replied the millionaire. "I bought this one quite by mistake. It was the auctioneer's fault. I hadn't time to get a catalogue, and I thought he said steam launch! So I nodded, and they landed me with it."

That millionaire is going to make that laundry pay!

STYLES DECREED FOR THE CHILDREN

THE stores are displaying entire outfits of ready-made clothes for children of all ages. For the smaller ones there are so many practical and attractive frocks that it seems hardly worth while to make them at home, except that the home seamstress can put in little individual touches not to be found in ready-mades. The styles displayed and the materials used are interesting to every one, for these ready-made garments are the work of expert specialists and they have turned out frocks more charmingly childish than ever for the coming spring.

For pretty frocks white and colored organdies appear to have inspired the imagination of designers. The daintiest dresses are made of them nearly always in combination of white and one color, as white with frills of pink or blue or yellow. These frills or ruchings have picot edges usually in black. Very dainty little frocks are made of the light-colored organdies and have adorable sun-bonnets to match, shaped with many shirrings. There are many pretty frocks of colored, dotted swiss, made up with yokes and sleeves of white organdy matching the white dots. Where the body of the frock joins the short yoke sprays of tiny colored flowers and foliage are embroidered.

Following these sheer affairs come the small checked gingham, in white and a color, banded and finished with white organdy which serves for collar, cuffs, sash or yokes, and sleeves, and then come the plain chambrays, usually trimmed with applique-scalloped borders of chambray in a darker color, outlined with simple stitches in mercerized floss. For very little folks, from two years to four or five, there are innumerable practical dresses and rompers, much like that one shown in the picture. Strong plain cotton or coarse linen is used for making it and its edges are finished with button-holed scallops. There is a little simple needlework on plaits at each side and buttonholed slashes about the waist for a belt of ribbon or of the material, to slip through.

Resort Hats Beguile Us

THE shops are displaying those inspiring new hats made for the benefit of southern tourists, that allure all of us because of their beauty, and, quite as much, because of their suggestion of springtime and pleasure. They prove as interesting to those who stay at home as to those who journey south and furnish all the cues for demt-season and early spring millinery. In sports hats they set the pace for the coming summer, but they include tailored and dress hats that, at least, influence the incoming fashions in these hats.

A group of four hats pictured above includes a sports hat, a street hat and two that are intended for more formal wear. The sports hat at the upper left is made of white satin and has a crown in four sections decorated with narrow black braid in parallel lines. Each of the decorated sections is centered with a row of black jet cabochons and the facing is of black satin. "Smart and informal" is written over this hat, that owns the distinction that goes with black and white to begin with, and everything else that spells "class."

Next to the sports hat is a dressy model in black hair braid with a flange of malines about its brim making a soft shadow in the eyes. Its soft, round crown is covered with a veil of fine chantilly lace. Such hats often shelter a small spray of exquisite flowers or fruit, snuggling against the crown or on the brim. A little less fragile is the hat with crown of puce velvet, embellished with stitches of silver-gray silk. This hat has an upturned brim edged with braid and is draped with a fine net veil having an embroidery in gray for a border. The street hat which finishes the group has a four-cornered brim covered with a striped and plaited material and a round crown draped with satin. It is another black and white combination and is finished with loops of black velvet in a daring pose on the right side of the brim.

Quaker Minister Is Grateful to Tanlac

Rev. Parker Moon

Nearly everybody in Southwest Missouri either knows or has heard of the Rev. Parker Moon, who for a full half century has devoted his life and talents to Sunday school and organization work for the Society of Friends or Quakers.

"Uncle Parker," as he is more familiarly known, came from fine old rugged Quaker stock, and there is not a better known or more highly respected citizen in that part of the state. In referring to his remarkable restoration to health by Tanlac, he said: "About five years ago I suffered a general breakdown. My principal trouble was nervous indigestion. My appetite was very poor and my food seldom agreed with me, and I had to live on a very restricted diet. I suffered a great deal from headaches and dizzy spells; I had severe pains across the small of my back and was badly constipated most of the time. In fact, I was so weak and rundown I was not able to attend to my duties. This condition made me very nervous and I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would be awake most all night and was in that condition more or less for five years. My physician said he could not do anything for me and suggested a change of climate. I then moved to Texas and went back and forth three times, but did not get the relief I had hoped for. Finally, I got so bad off I was not able to get around with any degree of comfort. I was also told I had heart trouble.

"I had read about Tanlac and, as it had been very highly recommended to me, I decided to try it. I got a bottle and had taken only a few doses until I could notice a marked improvement in my condition. I noticed especially that I was not troubled any more with sour stomach after eating, which was a great relief.

"I kept on taking Tanlac until I fully regained my health. My appetite is splendid; I enjoy my meals and I do not find it necessary now to take any laxative medicines of any kind. I can sleep much better and am not nearly so nervous.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Tanlac to anyone who needs a good system builder, or who suffers with stomach trouble. I have recommended Tanlac to a great many of my friends and am pleased to reach others by giving this statement for publication."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

How to Save Money.

Two men recently entered a service restaurant and, after getting what they desired, took their seats at the same table. A patron seated near them overheard the following colloquy: "Bill," said one, "I've just learned how to save money. I find the way to do it is to go in debt and pay it out."

"Humph," said Bill. "I've got you skinned a mile. I go in debt and never pay it out."

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions.
